

MILLER ORDERS LYNCHING PROBE

Special Grand Jury Session Called Upon To Make Investigation.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 3.—(AP) The Escambia county grand jury today was ordered into special session by Alabama's chief executive to make a thorough investigation of the delivery of a negro to the hands of a Florida mob that executed him near Greenwood, Fla., a week ago.

Governor B. M. Miller in his letter to Solicitor Hugh M. Caffey Jr., directed him to place the matter of the removal of Claude Neal, the mob victim, from Escambia county jail on October 26, before the grand jury, to convene on November 19.

The letter was accompanied by purported statements of witnesses, the contents of which Governor Miller did not make public. It was on the basis of these the special grand jury sessions was ordered.

"It seems from these statements," the governor wrote the solicitor, "that it is absolutely necessary that the grand jury be convened in Escambia county to investigate this matter."

All Facts Sought.
"I think that every witness whose statements Mr. Caffey sent me should be before the grand jury and that, in addition, every person who knows any facts connected with the placing of this prisoner in jail in Brewton and his removal therefrom by a mob, should be summoned before the grand jury and examined thoroughly."

Calling attention to reports that the negro was actually lynched in Alabama and not in Florida, the governor urged that this also be proved and if "found that the lynching occurred in Alabama, those engaged therein should be indicted."

The negro was taken to the Escambia county jail at Brewton by Florida officers who had moved him across northwest Florida before an angry mob.

Removed From Jail.
During the early morning of October 26, a mob took him from the Brewton jail with the announced intention of returning him to the farm home of Miss Lola Cannady, 20, whom he was alleged to have confessed to attacking and then bludgeoning to death, for whatever treatment the family wished.

An invitation to "all white folks" to come to the Cannady farm to witness the lynching was circulated over northwest Florida and southeast Alabama during the day of October 26.

So great became the crowd, however, that only a few who had the negro in custody witnessed the actual lynching. Later the negro's mutilated body was swung from a tree in the courthouse square at Marianna, Fla.

Dr. Elmer E. Brown, N. Y. U. Ex-Head, Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, chancellor emeritus of New York University and for an entire generation one of the leading forces in American education, died tonight at his home of cardiac pneumonia. He was 72 years old.

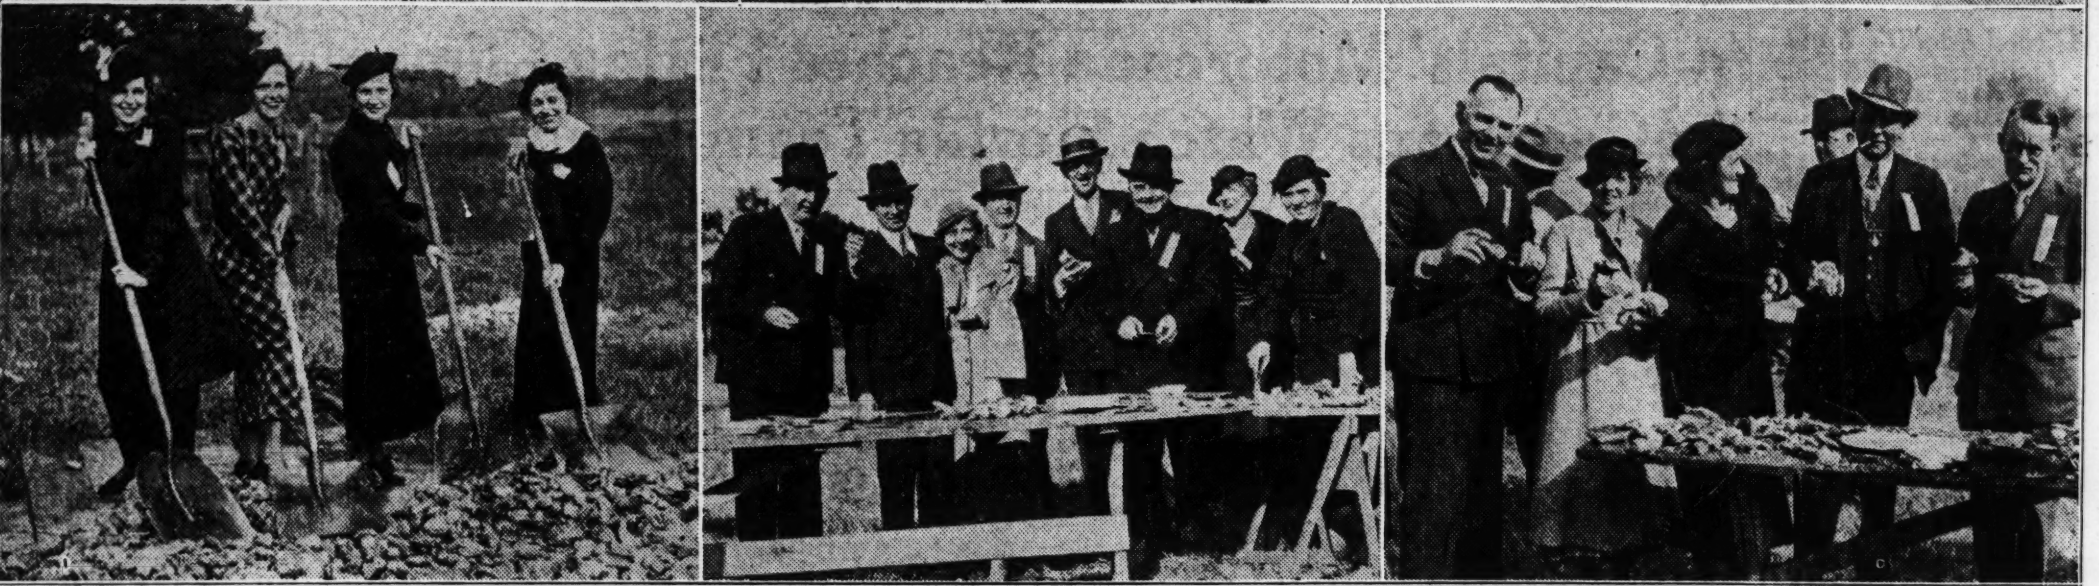

Dr. Brown retired on July 1, 1933, after having headed New York University for 22 years, and was succeeded by Chancellor Harry Woodburn Chase, former president of the University of Illinois and of the University of North Carolina.

JOEL B. FORT.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 3.—(AP) Joel B. Fort, long a well-known figure in democratic party circles in Tennessee, died tonight at his home here. He was 80 years old. Death was attributed to heart attack.

Mr. Fort was a brother of Daniel Fort, state commissioner of finance and taxation, and was the father of Joel B. Fort Jr., director of the Nashville branch of the Federal Reserve bank.

Throughout the state, in all parts of which he had spoken in numerous political campaigns, he was known as "Colonel Fort." He had been on the staffs of several governors, and until his retirement some years ago successively held a number of state offices.

Participants in Great '4 Capitals' Motorcade Are Entertained as They Reach Savannah

Tired but happy, some of the participants in the Four Capitals Motorcade, sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution and the Savannah Morning News, are shown as they were entertained by their Savannah and Chatham county hosts after formally opening the new all-paved route between Atlanta and Savannah which leads through the state's other two capitals, Milledgeville and Louisville. In the upper left photo the 'cadets' are shown at luncheon Friday at the Savannah Country Club. In the upper center are three prominent veterans of the Spanish-American War who made the trip. From left to right they are Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia; Judge Max L. McRae, of the state highway board, and General William L. Grayson, of Savannah. In the upper right the head of the 'cade is shown as it motored into Tybee. In the lower left four fair motorcaders are shown preparing oysters for their fellow travelers. From left to right in this picture are shown Miss Frances Patterson, Miss Otera Jackson, Miss Polly Faulkner and Miss Edith David, all of Covington. In the lower center, from left to right, are Senator Fred Scott, of Thomasville; Judge Arthur W. Solomon, vice chairman of the Chatham county commission; Mrs. Eva C. Drew, of McRae, private secretary to Governor Talmadge; Representative Girard M. Cohen, of Chatham county; State Treasurer George B. Hamilton, Speaker E. D. Rivers, of the house of representatives; Miss Erle Hardman, of Atlanta, and Mrs. George B. Hamilton, of Atlanta. ## 'PEACHES' WILL FIGHT BROWNING WILL TERMS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP) The Brooklyn Eagle said tonight that Mrs. Frances "Peaches" Browning will contest the will of her estranged husband, Edward R. Browning, which awarded her the $12,000 home. The millionaire realtor died recently of heart disease.

The Eagle said Daniel F. Cohalan, prominent New York attorney, would handle the lawsuit. Cohalan declined to discuss the report.

Browning's estate has been estimated at $7,000,000.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN $12,000 ROBBERY

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 3.—(AP) Michael V. Gagan, 36, of the Dorchester district of Boston, allegedly implicated in the $12,000 hold-up of the Brockton city treasury, pleaded not guilty in Brockton district court today to two charges of armed robbery and assault with intent to murder.

of which he had spoken in numerous political campaigns, he was known as "Colonel Fort." He had been on the staffs of several governors, and until his retirement some years ago successively held a number of state offices.

PURSE-THIEF CAUGHT AFTER SPIRITED CHASE

A chase of several blocks by an impromptu posse of private citizens and Patrolman J. D. Strubling resulted Saturday night in the arrest of James Cook, 21-year-old negro, of a Markham street address, who is alleged to have snatched the purse of a woman shopper in the heart of the downtown section.

Mrs. Ella Hulce, of 228 Second avenue, East Lake, was walking down Hunter street, between Whitehall and Broad, when a negro grabbed her pocketbook and ran. The purse contained $11.25, she told police. Passersby and Patrolman Strubling gave chase and caught the negro after several blocks. He was booked on "suspicion."

FLYER BURNS TO DEATH WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3.—(AP) Lloyd P. McFarland, of the 42d squadron, Randolph field, was burned fatally when his car caught fire after overturning near Randolph field yesterday.

Passing soldiers helped him from the flaming wreckage, but he died at Randolph field hospital several hours later.

He enlisted at Vandale, Ark.

Thomas Hamilton Jr. Weds Miss Matthews in New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Thomas Hamilton Jr., of Washington, D. C., formerly of Augusta, Ga., was married today to Miss Ethel Matthews, of LeHavre, France, in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, on Fifth avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Henry Darlington.

Hamilton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hamilton, of Augusta and was educated at the University of Georgia and at Oxford University, England. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Matthews, of Le Havre, Mrs. Matthews was formerly of Philadelphia and her husband from Fort Valley, Ga. Mrs. Matthews and two children, Billy and Mary, came from France for the wedding.

The bride was educated at Highfield school, London, England, and at Les Fougieres, Lausanne, Switzerland. She was attended by a sister of the groom, Miss Alice Hamilton, of Augusta. Walter Mangum, of Washington, was best man.

A reception followed the wedding in the Park avenue home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Troup Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will make their home in Washington, where Hamilton is with the Associated Press.

Great Atlanta Audience Assured For Recital by Laurence Tibbett

Laurence Tibbett, baritone, and probably the greatest vocalist on the lyric stage today, will be heard in recital at the city auditorium next Friday night. His concert, an outstanding feature of the All-Star Concert Series, of which Marvin McDonald is manager, is sponsored by the Atlanta Music Club and the Atlanta Philharmonic Society.

This makes the third time within four seasons this great artist has been presented on the All-Star Concert Series. His popularity with Atlanta audiences is indicated in the fact that this time he will be greeted by an audience that bids fair to establish a new attendance record for concerts here. Already more than 4,000 tickets have been sold, and indications are the auditorium will be taxed to its capacity on this occasion, it was said.

At the Metropolitan Opera house, Tibbett's portrayals have impelled vast audiences to limitless enthusiasm. His powers, reinforced by the genius which enables him to discard tradition with its ancient artificiality, supplanting it with convincing emotional expression, has brought new and magnificent results. Among the foremost successes at the Metropolitan during the past few seasons have been the American operas, produced in English—"Peter Ibbetson," "Emperor Jones" and "Merry Mount"—in which Tibbett has been starred. Again this season the Metropolitan will produce an American opera for their bright particular star, John Laurence Seymour, "In a Pasha's Garden."

Tibbett's entry on the screen was recognized as an epoch. His screen productions were "The Song of the New Moon" and "The Southerner."

An air poll, instituted last year by a chain of important newspapers, proved him by overwhelming vote of radio editors in America and Canada to be the most popular of radio singers.

Tibbett is an American, and his education, dramatic and vocal training has been attained in America by Americans.

Sister of Auto Victim Struck by Hit-Run Car

Mrs. F. E. Durham, of 261 Ramona street, sister of Mrs. Frances Hubbard, of 970 Austin avenue, who was killed Monday by a hit-and-run driver near her home, was the victim of a hit-and-run car Saturday night, according to police reports. She and a companion, Mrs. D. W. Powell, of 339 Capitol avenue, were knocked down at Central avenue and Mitchell street by a machine driven by a negro who sped away without stopping. Both were treated at Grady for cuts and bruises.

FIGHT OVER LIQUOR SEEN IN ASSEMBLY

Accord on Beer Legality in New Legislature Is Forecast Generally.

A sizzling-hot fight on the liquor question in the general assembly of one of the driest (by statute) states in the Union is forecast by Georgia members of the next legislature, convening in January.

E. D. Rivers, of Lakeland, generally conceded as the speaker of house of representatives, is one of many members of the assembly who outwardly express the belief that Georgia will legalize beer and submit the whisky question to the people through a referendum.

Beer, although "legalized" by a number of municipalities in the state and available almost everywhere in Georgia, is prohibited by the state dry laws. Such whisky as may be had illegally in Georgia either is "moonshine" or government stamped liquor brought into the state from wet states.

The last legislature by non-action promptly killed all liquor bills presented to it.

The chief fight in the coming session is expected to center on whisky. Even if the referendum idea should find sufficient support to receive a cordial reception, a lively battle is expected as to what form the referendum would take. A referendum plan brought a warm debate in the 1933 senate as to whether the county unit vote or the popular vote would prevail in determining the result. The bill finally was tabled. The county unit vote, used in nominating state officers, and some other officials in Georgia, is based on the number of state representatives in a county.

Most counties have one representative, and two unit votes. Some of the larger counties have two or three representatives and four six unit votes. The system gives the small counties an advantage when they line up together against the more populous centers. The "wet" strength is generally regarded as greater in the densely populated counties.

If, and after, the unit-popular vote issue is settled, there will then be room for plenty of argument as to the form of the referendum bill itself, as regards the form of regulation to be followed in case there should be a wet vote, how much the tax should be, where the tax would go, and numerous other issues.

PRECIOUS LIVES Saved by Prompt Examination of the lingering SLIGHT COUGH

Not every cough indicates the presence of tubercular germs, but many walking "incubators" go about with a cough, endangering others, and each day making cure more difficult. It is advisable in all cases where a cough lingers more than two weeks, to have your physician make a microscopic examination of the sputum and a careful examination of the chest.

Early symptoms of tuberculosis are difficult and only expert advice should be sought, but the usual first symptoms are indigestion, fatigue in the early afternoon, loss of appetite followed soon by slight temperature each afternoon. Usually the "slight cough" is present, especially in the morning. By no means are the first stages of tuberculosis indicated by an emaciated appearance. Loss of weight and the constant productive cough usually indicate a well-advanced case.

The detectable presence of tubercle bacilli in the sputum is a definite indication of tuberculosis, and the patient should at once place himself under competent medical care, and protect those about him from infection. Little children should be protected from close contact with elderly people, or others, having a "hacking cough" or what they often self-diagnose as "chronic bronchitis."

In these days of medical enlightenment, those who die of tuberculosis either do not seek proper advice early enough, or fail to carry out the proper treatment after the advice is given. Early attention is the vital factor in tuberculosis.

ATLANTA'S BODY IS FOUND IN LAKE

John O. Parmele's Death in Piedmont Park Caused by Drowning.

The body of John O. Parmele, 78, of 639 Spring street, N. W., was found floating in Piedmont lake Saturday morning. Mrs. Parmele told police that her husband had been worried because of the possibility of losing his sight and had told her several days ago that "a man who is not able to do anything in this world had better be dead."

Parmele's apparent suicide was discovered by H. J. Morris, of 750 Penn avenue, who, while walking in the park, saw the fully clothed body floating on the water and called police.

Earlier attempts at suicide were suggested when police found a blood-stained razor and clothing in the man's room at his home. When found by officers the body was wrapped about the throat with a towel which covered a wound in the neck.

Parmele's 13-year-old son, John O. Parmele Jr., was searching for his father at the time his body was discovered, he having left the house during the night.

Death was attributed to drowning, as it was found that the wound in the throat was not sufficiently serious to have caused death.

A coroner's inquest will be held at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

Parmele was a representative of several eastern drug concerns. He is survived by his wife and son.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the graveside in Greenwood cemetery with J. Austin Dillon in charge.

Pope May Inject Self Into Mexican Troubles

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Prelates expressed the belief today that Pope Pius may prepare some form of manifestation to impress upon the people of Mexico that he is with them in their spiritual troubles over wholesale expulsion of Catholic bishops and priests by the government.

An unofficial spokesman for the Vatican said "the pope may take some provision or make some manifestation which will give to the Catholic people the assurance that the father of the faithful is with them, and so that all may know to what excesses of sectarianism and violence the ruler of that unhappy country has been drawn."

BANKS ARE AIDING HOUSING CAMPAIGN, A. I. B. SESSION TOLD

Atlanta banks are actively co-operating with the federal housing administration, it was disclosed at a recent meeting of the Atlanta chapter of the American Institute of Banking, held in the dining room of the Federal Reserve bank.

A substantial number of modernization loans already have been made, it was brought out, and while these loans range over a longer period of time than commercial banks usually agree to, all the Atlanta financial institutions are anxious to co-operate fully in the recovery program. The speakers expressed themselves as desirous of making loans under the housing act, which requires that all applicants be able to show sufficient income and a satisfactory basis of payment.

W. G. Murrah, manager of business development and advertising at the First National bank, and chairman of the forum committee of the institute's Atlanta chapter, presided at the meeting. The discussion was led by Herman Jones Jr., vice president of the First National bank. Other speakers included William Matthews, trust officer of the Fulton National bank; Vann Groover, Citizens & Southern National bank; Lewis Davis, Trust Company of Georgia; Freeman Strickland, member of the institute's national executive council, and W. H. Meacham, federal reserve bank, president of the institute's Atlanta chapter.

Board Will Resume Gas Inquiry Monday

Resuming its general investigation into gas rates in Georgia, the Georgia public service commission will call the Savannah Gas Company for a further hearing on its rates Monday.

All gas companies in the state have been cited to show cause why their rates should not be reduced. The commission this week inquired into rates charged by companies operating in Columbus and Americus, both of which firms are owned by the Georgia Power Company. Preston Arkwright, president of the power company, told the commission its Americus property was not paying operating expenses, and that the Columbus operations were producing inadequate earnings. These cases are now being studied by the commission.

The Savannah Gas Company presented some testimony to the commission several months ago, and will present additional operating data at the hearing next week. Its answer to the commission's order said that its earnings were inadequate and that it could not stand a reduction in revenues.

The third organization operating gas service in Georgia, known as the Central Public Utilities Corporation group, is to come up for hearing on November 19.

PENNSYLVANIA—The Democratic caucus system, which has been in place since 1976, is set to be replaced by a primary election in 2018. The new system would allow voters to cast their ballots for a candidate of their choice, rather than attending a caucus. The change is being made to increase voter participation and to make the process more efficient. The new system would also allow for the possibility of a runoff election if no candidate receives a majority of the vote. 22 republicans and 12 democrats expected to change much.

MASSACHUSETTS—Former Mr. or Curley, of Boston, democrat, slight to win governorship, even with support of some leaders in his party. He is expected to lose. He believed certain of re-election. Present alignment of 10 republicans and five democrats likely to continue, but a change in staff battle in republican district.

RHODE ISLAND—Latest report of a democrat, but a defeat of Senator Robert, republican. His opponent is former Sen. Peter G. Gerry. Re-election of Governor Green, democrat, also predicted.

CONNECTICUT—Hugh M. Brien, republican, is expected to win the governorship from Governor C. D. Ives, democrat. Deal of support proves stronger than is apparent. Senator Walcott, republican, is expected to lose. His opponent's chance of re-election. His democrat opponent is a former house member Francis T. Maloney.

DELAWARE—Republicans believe that the coming state ticket and public-house law matter, C. A. Phillips, key. Normal republican majority in Senate Austin's favor. Popular sentiment, favoring this ticket, but in election, democratic so that result may depend on size and trend of vote small towns.

DELAWARE—Although Delaware is normally safe for the republicans, the coming election is a toss-up, depending in the balance. Until a week ago republicans appeared to have slight advantage. Both sides published their platforms. The republican platform, seeking re-election, opposing Wilmor L. Adams, democrat. Figures for state's one seat in house, not democratic, also close.

NEW HAMPSHIRE—Republicans are expected to reduce majorities, electing H. Styles Bridges, republican, governor.

MARYLAND—Governor Ritchie, democrat, reported facing one of the toughest fights in his career. It is likely to hinge on size of the vote in Baltimore. Harry W. Nichols, republican, expected to carry with 15,000 or 20,000. Democrats expected to have advantage in congressional contests.

MICHIGAN—Republicans slight favorites, with size of the democratic vote in Detroit an important factor. O. D. Anderson, republican, governor Vandenberg, regain control of state government and may gain from tie to three seats in the house.

OHIO—Vic Donahay, democrat, picked to defeat Sen. Brown, republican. If he carries 100,000 and loses 100,000, he may decide the governorship rather than Clarence J. Brown, republican.

MISSOURI—All signs point to a Democratic victory in the election for U. S. senator. The Democratic ticket, led by Harry S. Truman, a probable winner over Senator Patten, a Republican, for the congressional seat, however, the state has been rocked by breaking into the solid Democratic house delegation to the extent three seats.

INDIANA—Election of Sherman Fairchild, Democrat, to senate in place of Senator Robinson, Republican, in the election by all usual pre-election signs Democrats also may retain 10 seats.

KANSAS—Re-election of Governor Woodard, Republican, predicted, unless a majority of the 75,000 on registration rolls, and their families, vote Republican. The state may retain or repeal its 54-year-old prohibition amendment. Congressional contests close in several weeks. House delegation may include Democrats, four Republicans and one vacancy.

WISCONSIN—Senator La Follette, Progressive, is expected to win the election. He seems assured of election to the Democratic party as a Republican. The party may gain a Republican, the

White House Winter Social Slate Is Delayed a Month by Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The fate of 57 proposed changes in the constitution of the state will be decided by the voters next Tuesday.

As usual, the amendments winning a place on the ballot run the gamut of possibilities, but this year unemployment relief comes to the front with prohibition repeal and tax reform.

Bond issues aggregating $134,000,000 for all relief purposes will be voted upon in four states; proposals for eliminating state dry codes in seven, and tax law modifications in twelve.

In Illinois, complete revision of the state constitution is before the electorates. The same question will be proposed by Governor McAllister to the January session of the Tennessee legislature for submission to the people.

Californians will mark "yes" or "no" beside two relief proposals, one authorizing a $40,000,000 loan to aid war veterans in acquiring homes and farms, and another $24,000,000 issue to be spent before July 1, 1935, for unemployment relief. The latter would be retired with state revenues.

Relief Referendum in N. Y.
New York will hold a referendum on a $40,000,000 issue for relief, Illinois on $30,000,000, and New Jersey on $10,000,000. The latter would be used to defray liquor revenues.

Missourians will check an amendment to permit payment of pensions to retired teachers.

Looking back at Maine's prohibition repeal in the September election, anti-prohibitionists are counting on at least a majority of the seven states voting on the question Tuesday to keep the ban on the other side.

Liquor is now legal in 28 states, excluding Maine, which will join the column as soon as a regulatory law is framed. South Carolina, which was the only state to vote against repeal of the 18th amendment, also has shunted toward legalization, and is now in primary stage of a regulatory consent to passage of a state liquor law.

Constitutional amendments proposing repeal of state prohibition will be voted on in Florida, South Dakota, Nebraska, Idaho and West Virginia, while Wyoming will conduct a referendum on retention or repeal of its dry law.

And the same will be a referendum in Massachusetts' cities and towns on whether to permit sale of Tax Proposals Offered. Of the 12 states to vote on tax proposals, five will put before the ballot a proposed state income levy. That in Louisiana to range from 2 to 5 per cent on individuals and a flat 2 per cent on corporations. Michigan, Montana, Texas and Washington also will poll the voters on income levies. California will attend its fruit and vegetable growers' battle with California to eliminate the motion picture industry, one of its constitutional amendments proposing exemption from taxation for 5 years of motion picture studios and plants where movies are made.

existing levies, except by a three-fourths majority of the legislature in an emergency. The bill also provides for reducing the penalty for nonpayment of taxes from 10 to five per cent and giving delinquents four years in which to redeem without interest.

Besides the income tax, Michigan will decide a proposed gasoline levy that not more than one cent of the tax in Ohio would limit the gasoline tax to 3 cents, restrict the use of such funds to highways, and related provisions. The bill also would exempt vehicles from the general property tax.

Tax Problem in Minnesota.

Minnesota will settle the question whether its legislature should be empowered to exempt household goods and farm machinery from taxation.

Several states will have the power to obtain permission of the corporation commission before merging with other cities and towns to levy taxes for pensioning peace officers. Oregon will vote on a 20 mill tax limitation, Texas on authorizing the legislature to impose occupational and all taxes, as well as an income tax, and West Virginia on requiring women to pay a head tax now paid only males.

Voters in Oregon will decide in a referendum whether to authorize the state to vote bonds for state-owned power districts.

Massachusetts also will conduct a referendum on pari-mutuels, the vote in each county to determine for the county alone. New York, which now has oral betting, will battle with the same issue in the next legislature.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Sweeping reorganization of the house and important realignment of the senate set-up will be necessary when the seventy-fourth congress is elected Tuesday—convenes January 3.

The revamping, from the election of a new speaker down to filling many committee posts, will be forced by the shifting of the balance of the present congress and probable casualties in Tuesday's elections.

Concededly, the democrats will control both branches of the congress. If they gain two-thirds majorities in each, as administration leaders predict, they will have to make a case for increased power while the republican minority in each will have to reshape their organizations.

Already debated in primaries, re-democratic representatives will lose, most political observers here believe they will offset each other in most instances. There are about 20 O. P. and 20 democratic seats in the influential columns of national party organizations.

11 Major Chairmanships Open.

Besides the speakership, which was left vacant with the death of Henry Rainey, democrat, Illinois, last summer, 11 major committee posts and two vital senate committee chairmanships open. Heads of the committees in the present congress were those who attained their positions by seniority. The new ones were eliminated in intra-party contests.

The chairmen of some other committees are reported in peril as the campaign progresses, but most of them claim they will win.

F. D. R. INDORSES ROYAL COPELAND

President Partially Clarifies Views on New York Situation.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, home for a quiet week-end before voting, issued an endorsement of Senator Royal S. Copeland today after he learned of speculation over his stand on the democratic senator's re-election.

Before leaving the White House yesterday he urged support for his close friend, Governor Herbert H. Lehman, but did not mention Senator Copeland or other democratic candidates.

Hearing that this had been construed in some quarters as implying he did not support Copeland, Mr. Roosevelt quickly called for Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary, and asked that any such inference be corrected.

"In making a statement yesterday for Governor Lehman," said McIntyre, "the president intended to leave no inference that he was not voting for Senator Copeland. He is voting for Senator Copeland."

"The president confirmed his statement yesterday to Governor Lehman, an intimate friend. Obviously he could not name all candidates on the ticket simply because of numbers."

Mr. Roosevelt himself laid down the rule at the opening of this campaign that the national administration was taking no part in state contests. He did feel justified, however, in saying a word for Mr. Lehman, who served under him as lieutenant governor.

It appeared probable tonight the president would say no more before voting Tuesday.

Meanwhile there was plenty of room for speculation over his statement at yesterday's press conference in reply to a question whether he was voting the straight democratic ticket. He said it would be "amazing to know how many times" he had voted for individual republicans.

This was interpreted as another word for abolition of party lines in so far as support of those candidates who stand by the New Deal.

Senator LaFollette, Wisconsin republican independent, has been invited to luncheon at the White House next Thursday.

Driving from Highland, across the Hudson river where his special train halted this morning, Mr. Roosevelt went directly home for breakfast with his mother.

Secretary Morgenthau, of the treasury, who had accompanied him from Washington, motored to his home nearby. He will remain there to vote.

Mr. Roosevelt had a luncheon guest, Frank Gannett, the publisher, and devoted the remainder of the day to the quiet of home.

peace officers—one of them a federal man—and Frank Nash, his prisoner. In the municipal election campaign last March a nonpartisan group charged that while Reppert was the nominal head of the department the man really in control was John Lanza, a gambler and powerful north side politician. Lanza was slain in July by gangsters.

Several of his associates have testified before the grand jury. Another witness, Jimmy La Capra, small time gangster, was reported to have informed government agents that Lanza arranged a meeting of the three state killers the night before the slayings and later aided two of them in getting out of the city.

In addition to Richetti, the accused killers were Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, slain October 22 near East Liverpool, Ohio, and Verne C. Miller, former South Dakota sheriff, turned gangster, who was slain by other gangsters near Detroit.

Richetti was arrested near Wellsville, Ohio, October 20. Federal authorities who gained custody of him to obtain his testimony for the grand jury here started toward Kansas City in a plane today but were forced down with their prisoner in Chicago. The party enroute for Kansas City, planned to reach here Sunday morning.

The grand jury, which had planned to hear Richetti tonight, recessed until Monday after returning the indictments.

Scores of witnesses—from the police department and the underworld as well as from political councils—have appeared before the grand jury.

John H. Fritz, Wellsville chief of police who seized Richetti, and William H. Daugherty, mayor of Wellsville, reached Kansas City last night under federal subpoena to tell before the grand jury their part in the arrest and holding of Richetti, whose custody federal officials gained only after a series of legal maneuvers.

Mr. Hohenberg sent letters to association members urging them to contact members of congress in advance of the next session, asking tariff reductions.

Italian Literary Prize Is Won by American

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Louis Untermeyer, American poet, said today he had received a message that he is the winner of the 10,000 lire cash prize awarded in Italy for the best literary work on the beauties of Italy.

The prize was awarded on "The Donkey of God," a prose collection of Italian folk stories published last year.

The book was the unanimous choice of the jury and was referred to Premier Mussolini for final approval.

GAINS IN PROSPECT DEMOCRATS CLAIM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—

In their semi-final clash of the political campaign, both the democratic and republican national chairmen tonight avowed confidence in the outcome Tuesday.

(Statements in Cols. 4-5, Page 4-A.)

"Substantial gains in the senate" were predicted by James A. Farley for the New Deal. Henry P. Fletcher said republican strength there would be retained.

As for the house, Farley said "We will hold our present membership (309) and possibly make some gains."

"Republican representation in the house (114) will be increased from 60 to 70 members," Fletcher countered. "I should not be surprised if our gains were larger."

The 33 gubernatorial contests were not touched on by Farley; but Fletcher predicted G. O. P. state tickets would win in all normally republican states and will elect governors in several states which are now democratic.

No Party Named.

While his statement conformed to pre-election tradition in drawing party distinctions, Farley's was unique in that it contained neither the word "democratic" nor "republican."

His question, as put by him, is between the "New Deal" and the "old order."

Not so with Senator James Hamilton Lewis, chairman of the democratic senatorial committee.

"I am convinced of the success of our party," said he, predicting a two-thirds senate majority and a gain of at least four seats to make it 64.

He used the words "a democratic victory."

It all contributed to the discussion aroused by President Roosevelt's remarks yesterday that were interpreted as inviting the electorate to vote for individual candidates, rather than straight party tickets.

Reports Sent to F. D. R.

Last-minute reports to the president on the outlook named Maryland, West Virginia, Missouri, New Jersey, Indiana and Ohio as most likely to return democrats for senate seats now republican. Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Connecticut and possibly Vermont were placed next.

None of these were conceded by the republicans, who were looking to Wyoming and Nevada for their best chances to overturn senate democrats.

Reports on which Farley based his statement placed the democratic house chances at between a net loss of 10 and a gain of 20 seats. Although republicans in general spoke of this as dream stuff, there were some among them who did not share Fletcher's expressed optimism. They were ready to hail as a great triumph a gain of 40 to 50 seats, or about the average to be expected.

Radio Appeals Monday.

Both party chairmen reserved their last expressions for Monday night's nationwide broadcasts—Fletcher from 10 to 10:15, eastern standard time, and Farley for the next 15 minutes.

Where the former saw the New Deal "slipping fast" tonight, his foe asserted the election will give Roosevelt "the greatest vote of confidence ever received" by a president.

"Regardless of our gains in the election," said Fletcher, "the republican party regards it as a preliminary skirmish. The fight on the administration and its costly experiments will go on. We are convinced the New Deal is a failure."

Farley posed the question to be answered Tuesday as solely: "Does the country have faith in Franklin D. Roosevelt, or does it wish to have his policies repudiated, and go back to the old order under which we plunged to the greatest depths of economic depression in its history?"

The New Deal program will not be abandoned, he declared, specifically mentioning public works and relief.

GRAND JURY AND KEY HIT BY IRA HARRELSON

CHARGING that the Fulton county grand jury refused to meet with him, J. Ira Harrelson, president of the city board of education, Saturday issued a statement regarding the recommendation of the grand jury that city and county schools be consolidated.

Harrelson pointed out that the September-October jury preface its recommendation with the remark that "it did not have the time to devote that the task warrants" in investigating the merger, while the May-June grand jury thoroughly probed the city schools and recommended they be completely separated from the mayor and general council. Harrelson said it would be better to give consideration to the May-June jury recommendation than to the September-October jury's advice.

He likewise attacked Mayor James L. Key and said the city schools would get along all right "if the mayor and certain Tories who are opposed to all forms of good education would leave the schools alone."

"All the policies in the schools has emanated from outside sources that desire to control them," said the president. "The board of education is operating more harmoniously and economically than it has during the past six years."

The board is living within its budget and the mayor is increasing the city's deficit by hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. He must have something about which to complain to divert the public mind from his bad management. He is the one who made the report to the grand jury and they refused to privilege me to meet with them to answer his hobbies which came as a result of dotage," stated Harrelson.

L. & T. RAIL LINE TO INCREASE SALARIES

GREENVILLE, Texas, Nov. 3.—(AP)—C. P. Couch, of Shreveport, president of the Louisiana and Texas railroad, announced last night a 2½ per cent salary increase for employees of the road effective November 1. He said improved business conditions justified the raise.

Couch said extensive improvements had been made the past year and announced additional work was planned for 1935.

Three prominent educators who were in attendance at the three-day session of the Southern Political Science Association which ended at the Biltmore hotel Saturday. They are, from left to right, D. W. Knepper, Mississippi State College for Women; K. C. Frazer, University of North Carolina; and J. T. Askew of the University of Georgia. Staff photo.

Dr. J. W. Manning, of the University of Kentucky, Saturday was elected president of the Southern Political Science Association at the close of a three-day session at the Biltmore hotel. First and second vice presidents are, respectively, A. B. Butts, of Mississippi State College, and C. W. Pipkin, of Louisiana State University.

Glenn Rainey, of Georgia Tech, was elected corresponding secretary, and Frank W. Prescott, of the University of Chattanooga, was chosen recording secretary in charge of publications.

Two new regional associations of college instructors were organized during the sessions of the convention under the names of Southern Historical Association and Southeastern Teachers' Association.

Dr. E. Merton Coulter, professor of history at the University of Georgia, was elected president of the historical association, and Professor Raymond B. Nixon, head of the department of journalism of Emory University, will head the teachers' organization.

Other Officers. Other officers of the historical association are Thomas P. Abernathy, of the University of Virginia, vice president; Charles M. Knappe, University of Kentucky, secretary-treasurer; Clarence E. Cason, University of Alabama, will serve as vice president of the teachers' group, and J. Vance, Florida State College for Women, was chosen secretary-treasurer.

John E. Drewry, of University of Georgia, and M. G. Osborn, Louisiana State University, were elected members of the executive committee.

Southern Historical Association will invite as members not only teachers but others interested in historical research and writing it was announced. Members of the association's council include Emory University, University of North Carolina; Charles W. Ramsell, University of Texas; Kathryn T. Abbey, Florida State College for Women; Kathleen Bruce Hollins College, Va.; Philip Davidson, Agnes Scott College; and Walter B. Posey, Birmingham Southern College.

On the editorial board of the Southern Historical Review, which will make its first appearance in the spring, are E. Merton Coulter, University of Georgia; Philip Hamer, University of Tennessee; Thomas P. Abernathy, University of Virginia; Fletcher P. Green, Emory University; Charles S. Sydnor, University of Mississippi; William S. Binckley, Vanderbilt University; Richard H. Shyrock, Duke University; and Dwight L. Dumond, University of Michigan.

Membership of the historical group comes from Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. The political science and journalism association includes the same states with the exception of West Virginia and Texas.

The sessions of the Political Science Association closed Saturday with round-table discussions and an address by Dr. Clyde L. King, professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. King urged the necessity of looking ahead in the formation of economic policies, asserting that most such policies are sadly behind the times, arguing that the nations are now running from 300 to 500 years behind time in meeting economic and social questions.

Four Questions Presented. Dr. King, who is secretary-treasurer of the American Political Science Association, presented four questions which the public is facing as the deflation of the dollar, the excess of expenditure over income, labor domination over the manufacturer.

SLAYER ATTEMPTS ESCAPE AT GRADY

George Gentry, Wounded in Head, Caught in Hall. Woman Near Death.

George Gentry, who late Friday night, according to police, ran amuck and shot and killed James M. Lindsay, 70-year-old cripple, critically wounded Miss Mary Newberry, 32, the housekeeper at 466 Jones avenue, where the two men lived, and creased a policeman's skull with a bullet, though considered near death from gunshot wounds himself, early Sunday morning attempted an escape from Grady hospital.

Gentry, swathed in bandages which covered the bullet wound in his head and the one in his shoulder, both inflicted by Patrolman R. E. Floyd, evaded the room and hall nurses in the ward to which he had been assigned at Grady hospital and would have made good his attempt to escape if Hospital Patrolman H. Smith had not seen him. After Patrolman Smith had taken him back to his hospital bed a special officer was assigned to guard him.

Miss Newberry was given a blood transfusion Saturday morning in a desperate effort to save her life. Gentry's condition was reported to be too serious to permit an X-ray examination that would have revealed the depth of his head wound when City Policeman R. E. Floyd fired at the man in a duel that ensued after officers had been called to 466 Jones avenue to quell a disturbance reported by neighbors.

Funeral services for the aged tragically victim will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning from the chapel of Harry G. Poole. Burial will be in the Kennesaw cemetery, Kennesaw, Ga. He is survived by three cousins, Paul L. Lindsay, veteran DeKalb legislator, I. H. Guy Lindsay, veteran Atlanta policeman, and C. B. Lindsay, of Tucker.

Witnesses to the slaying of Lindsay and wounding of Miss Newberry include Ethel Lorraine Lindsay, 10-year-old adopted daughter of the elderly victim of the tragedy. Another important witness is the Rev. W. M. Albert, of 470 Simpson street, N. W. Mr. Albert told police that about a week ago Gentry came to him, saying that he believed a dope ring was attempting to obtain possession of a farm belonging to him and were planning to get rid of him. The minister said that Gentry came to his door Friday night before the shooting and demanded admittance, whereupon Mrs. Albert called the police.

"When I reached home," the minister said, "Mrs. Albert told me that the man had paced the porch of our home for some time, muttering to himself. I remembered the previous conversation with Gentry, and called the police and in a short time I heard shots in the Lindsay home. I ran to the house, arriving there just after the shooting."

Mr. Albert is not connected with the Western Heights Baptist church, as was published Saturday in news stories of the shooting.

Clearing Skies To Assure City Warmth Today, Mindling Says

Clearing skies this morning should give us another peak at the sun, with an attendant warming up of the temperature, George W. Mindling, United States meteorologist in Atlanta, declares. We are warned not to be too optimistic about warm weather, however, as reports from all over the country show that winter has a pretty good hold on the nation.

The low pressure which brought Atlanta clouds and drizzles Saturday has gone on its way, according to the weatherman, and we may prepare to enjoy a fair Sunday.

The temperature today should range between 52 and 62 degrees, somewhat warmer than Saturday, which gave a mercury reading of 48 degrees low and 54 degrees high.

Richmond, Va., was cast in the unusual role of the nation's coldest reporting city Saturday morning, with a minimum mercury reading of 24 degrees. Farther north along the seaboard the weather was below freezing, with 31 degrees at Washington and 28 at Philadelphia. New York reported an even 32 degrees. Cincinnati, which reported 22 degrees Friday, rose to 32 Saturday morning. Cleveland and Columbus both had a reading of 36.

Miami registered the high temperature for the States with its lowest reading Saturday of 74 degrees.

A picture of the country's general temperature may be gained from the mercury readings at Dallas of 63 degrees, Little Rock 64, Memphis 62, New Orleans 68, Mobile 70, Montgomery 60, Birmingham 58, Chattanooga 45, Knoxville 38, Nashville 52, St. Louis 55, Kansas City 57, Raleigh 53, Charlotte 57, Jacksonville 63, Savannah 56 and Augusta 46.

ber of students interested in science subjects has made it absolutely necessary that we get a new and larger science building," Dr. McCain said. "We are asking that the $100,000 be coupled with the library project and hope that the board will make the grant at its next meeting which is set for December 13."

The Agnes Scott president said that if the new building is obtained the old building will be used by physics and chemistry students and the new building will be used for zoology, botany and physiology students.

"We think the new library is assured," Dr. McCain said. "We also believe that the progress we have made in obtaining the $117,000 needed to make the $235,000 grant certain will cause the General Education Board to add the $100,000 for the science building. The people interested in Agnes Scott have shown the G. E. B. their interest by their contributions to the $117,000 fund and we believe it will have a marked influence on our efforts to get the additional fund."

WELNER URGES
TEACHING CHANGESLack of Common Sense
Deplored by University
Chancellor in Address.

Education is suffering from too much theory and too many high-sounding, theoretical cognomens, Chancellor Philip Welner, of the University System of Georgia, told Fulton county teachers Saturday morning at a meeting at the North Fulton High school.

Condemning a lack of common sense in the instruction of students, Chancellor Welner pointed out that a student might know more of the prescribed studies, but be totally ignorant of the reason he was pursuing an education. "Education," he said, "is a means whereby the student by application to his books may learn of the experiences of others and in his business life take advantage of that knowledge. There are many students in our institutions who are learning who haven't the slightest conception of why they are studying. All they are aware of is that they want an education. They don't know what constitutes an education."

He said that of all professions with which he has had any contact, it has been his experience that the teaching profession is more "in the dark" than any other.

Chancellor Welner said that he was a newcomer to the educational field and was speaking frankly to the teachers, as he had done in the past. He said it was his observation that teachers, as a rule, were mentally lazy and dealt only in generalities. He suggested that the public schools of Georgia revise their curricula to incorporate "meaningful experiences."

Merger Plan Approved.

Stating that he was not sufficiently well acquainted with all facts regarding the Atlanta and Fulton county schools to say definitely that the consolidation of the two systems was recommended by the Fulton grand jury was advisable, he ventured that it was a step in the right direction.

"Such a step undoubtedly would eliminate duplication and would cut down overhead, making the money thus saved available for use by the school system. I'm an advocate of cutting down the top-heavy and duplicating education structures. I think perhaps one system of schools would serve both Atlanta and Fulton county as well as the present two systems and undoubtedly would save the taxpayers considerable money in the costs of administration. The program of the university system of Georgia has been one of consolidation and has included the elimination of many institutions for which there was no great need, or the work of which could be carried on without much extra expense by the university system," Chancellor Welner said in an interview with a Constitution representative following the meeting.

New Plans at G. S. W. C.

Guy Wells, president of Georgia State Women's College, at Milledgeville, Ga., at the meeting, stated that his school, which annually prepares hundreds of teachers for their life work, had instituted a new practical plan of instruction. The plan, he said, included the placing of undergraduates as teachers in country schools so that they could experience the various phases of teaching before they left the college. This plan, he said, enables the undergraduate to seek counsel from faculty members regarding obstacles encountered when they were in the schools. He agreed with Chancellor Welner that the present system of education is devoted too much to the theoretical and does not cater sufficiently to the practical. The trend, he said, was now to incorporate more practical education with the heretofore almost entirely theoretical.

In accord with the viewpoints of Chancellor Welner and his relative, Guy Wells, Jere A. Wells, the superintendent of the Fulton county school system, who presided at the meeting, stated that the Fulton system was working toward a plan of education which would better equip the student for his life work. He also reported that members of the Fulton grand jury who recently visited 40 of the 54 white schools in the county system were laudatory in praise of the system and reported that the schools were in fine condition.

CIVITANS OF GEORGIA
MEET HERE TUESDAY

Judge Edgar Watkins, of Atlanta, will deliver the address of welcome at the opening session Tuesday of the thirteenth annual one-day state convention of the Georgia Civitans. The convention will be held at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Civitans from all sections of the state Monday will begin assembling in Atlanta for the convention. It was announced, as the interest in Civitan work has been increasingly increasing since a Georgian, Dr. Earl Quillen, of Atlanta, last year at the international convention in Toronto, Canada, was elected international president.

The morning session, in addition to Judge Watkins' address, will feature an invocation by Dr. W. W. McWhorter, rector of All Saints' Episcopal church and international chaplain of Civitan; a reading of the Civitan constitution by international president Quillen, and response to Judge Watkins' address of welcome by Mayor Thomas D. Luck, of Carrollton, and lieutenant governor of the Georgia district of Civitan.

A buffet luncheon will be served at noon and the afternoon session will feature a discussion of the Civitan's state program which will be followed by the election of officers and the address by President Quillen.

Former Governor John M. Slaton, and a director in the Atlanta Civitan Club, will be the toastmaster at the banquet which will feature the evening and closing session.

Giovanni Martinelli, Metropolitan Tenor,
To Sing Favorite Arias on Radio TonightWho's Who Locally
At the Microphone

Frank Gaither, who reads The Constitution news broadcast over WGST nightly, became an announcer almost accidentally. While at Oglethorpe, where he was studying medicine, young Gaither got a job at the WJTL switchboard from which he was shortly transferred to the microphone. He remained with the university station two years and then went to WTOG, at Savannah, in a similar capacity. Six months there he accepted his present post with WGST and has been on its staff for a like time.

Born in Montgomery, Ala., Mr. Gaither has studied and traveled across the continent. He graduated from a high school in San Francisco and attending eight institutions in five states. His major interest, he says, was in dramatics and this interest has been developed into a dedicated ability for playwriting and acting. Many of his scripts were produced over WJTL and he has appeared in productions by the Play Club of Oglethorpe, "Frank and Jean—the Couple Next Door," with Jean Egart, "The Little Girl in Blue" and himself in the title roles. He modestly admits that he will sing.

NEWSPAPERS CARRYING
RCA-VICTOR CAMPAIGN

Newspapers in all of the important markets throughout the country, including The Atlanta Constitution, are the backbone of an intensive advertising campaign which has been launched by the RCA-Victor Company to spread the story of the "Magic Brain" radio development which improves and simplifies foreign and short-wave reception, according to an announcement by T. F. Joyce, newly appointed advertising manager of the radio company.

Within a 60-day period, a continuous series of large-space advertisements is appearing in 223 of the leading newspapers in 192 key cities. This national advertising campaign is being forceful supplemented by co-operative local advertising on the radio. The RCA-Victor Company has been selected by the RCA-Victor Company as the distributor of the "Magic Brain" radio development which improves and simplifies foreign and short-wave reception, according to an announcement by T. F. Joyce, newly appointed advertising manager of the radio company.

The "Magic Brain" has been so named by (London) engineers because its function on the complete radio receiver is similar to that of the human brain. It consists of a series of specially engineered tuning coils, an extra tube and a number of ingenious mechanical improvements which in the complete receiver greatly simplify tuning. In operation, the "Magic Brain" picks up the weak distant foreign and short-wave radio stations, separates them from the noisy interference which has hitherto hampered this type of reception, and brings them into the home with an efficiency comparable to the high standards of domestic reception. In addition, some of the high-priced instruments provide a new weather report service on the extra long wave or "X" band, on which government weather reports may be heard every hour at regular intervals.

Will Rogers Is Slated for Sinclair Talk Over WGST.

An inspection of today's radio programs reveals several noteworthy broadcasts. Prominent among these is the scheduled appearance of Giovanni Martinelli, of the Metropolitan Opera Company; further comment on California politics by Will Rogers, and a performance by the Columbia dramatic "Guild of Evidence," from an original microphone script written by Edgar Wallace shortly before his death.

Martinelli will contribute four selections to the program offered by the Ford Symphony orchestra over WGST and the Columbia network this evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. Perennial favorites from Aida and Flotow's "Martha" are included with the beloved hymn, "Abide With Me."

Will Rogers' appearance with the "Headliners" will be a "hold-over" engagement. Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd were scheduled to take the reins this evening in the sponsor's plan to occasionally relieve Rogers, but unforeseen interest in California's gubernatorial campaign coupled with the cowboy humorist's unrivaled interpretative powers brought a two-week extension to the current billing.

Wallace's script was prepared over two years ago on a commission from the Columbia Broadcasting Company, but due to seasonal changes in program construction the Dramatic Guild did not have an opportunity to produce it and the manuscript was relegated to the files, where, as time passed, it remained to be forgotten.

Correspondence with executors of Wallace's estate, who claimed payment, brought both a cancelled check and the play to light. It is said to be one of the outstanding radio dramatic achievements of the year, and not only the noted British author's first work written solely for radio but presumably to be his last story.

Newlyweds
To Make Debut.

Mingling harmony and the adventures of a boy and girl, recently embarked on the experiment of matrimony as cheaply as one, a weekly program, "Frank and Jean—the Couple Next Door," will make its inaugural appearance over WGST Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock, with Jean Egart, "The Little Girl in Blue," and himself in the title roles. He modestly admits that he will sing.

Rogers Discusses Sinclair's EPIC.

With the nationally watched race between Socialist Sinclair and Republican Merriam, in California, only two days away, Will Rogers will give the WGST audience the benefit of his personal observations during the "Headliners" broadcast tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Bill Corum, syndicated sports writer, will discuss yesterday's gridiron events and make predictions for next Saturday's games.

Rogers will also be on hand next Sunday to either say "I told you so," or explain the upset. Colonels Stoopnagle and Budd, who were originally scheduled for tonight's broadcast, will be heard November 18. After their engagement Rogers will return.

Oscar Bradley, former Ziegfeld maestro, will conduct the orchestra, sharing musical honors with the "Headliners" quartet.

Tire Salesman
"House" Guest.

Stanley Metcalfe, young Pittsburgh tire salesman, will make his first network broadcast as guest artist with the "Open House" program this afternoon over WGST between 4 and 4:30 o'clock.

Metcalfe, 26, has had considerable musical training but until six months ago he had not been heard on the radio. His experience had been limited to church recitals but the "Smoky City" audition judges chose him as the best qualified local performer from among those who have not appeared on the networks.

As usual the music of Freddy Martin's orchestra and novelty songs will form the nucleus of the broadcast.

Martinelli •
Kolar's Guest

Giovanni Martinelli, accorded a warm reception here last season, may be heard over WGST tonight in a broadcast with the Ford Symphony orchestra and chorus. Victor Kolar conducted. The program may be heard from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Martinelli has been a leading tenor with the Metropolitan Opera Company a quarter of a century, and tonight he will sing arias from the most popular of his performances. The orchestra will read selections from Verdi, Wagner, Liszt and Mendelssohn.

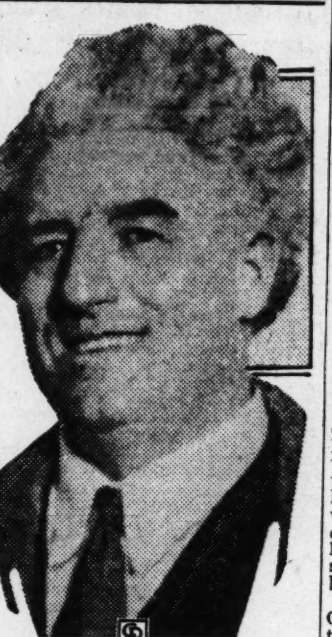

The program follows:
"Tannhauser" march ..... Wagner
"Celeste Aida" ..... Verdi
"Liberation" ..... Liszt
"Spiraling Song" ..... Mendelssohn
"Verdi" triumphal march ..... Verdi
"Student Prince" selections ..... Romberg
"M'Appari" from "Martha" ..... Flotow
"Valse Serenade" ..... Sibelius
"Midsummer Night's Dream, wedding march" ..... Mendelssohn
"Abide With Me" ..... Monk Martinelli and Orchestra.
Under the direction of Hans Lange, the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra will pay musical tribute to two British composers who died this year. The program may be heard from 2 until 4 o'clock over WGST and the Columbia network.

Gershwin Plays Own Concerto.

Gershwin will play the third movement of his Concerto in F during the program over WGST and the Columbia network this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Louis Katzman's orchestra will assist.

The "Rhapsody in Blue" composer contracted to write a concerto for performance by Walter Damrosch in 1925. He was not versed in concerto construction after studying a book on musical form he decided to base

Famous Tenor

For 22 years Giovanni Martinelli, above, has been acclaimed by patrons of the Metropolitan Opera Company. His brilliant career as a leading tenor with the "Met" is almost unrivaled. Tonight he will sing arias from "Aida" and "Martha" in a broadcast with the Ford Symphony orchestra over WGST and the Columbia network, from 7 to 8 o'clock.

FULTON STUDENTS TO STAGE FESTIVAL
ON NOVEMBER 16

The students of the Fulton High school will present their annual fall festival, known as the Fulton Fall Festival, November 16, it was announced Saturday. The members of the faculty and the Fulton High School Parent-Teacher Association are joining with the pupils in staging the festival.

A king and queen, chosen from among the students, are to be crowned at the festival.

Dr. W. H. Davis
On Baptist Hour.

Dr. William Hersey Davis, distinguished Baptist preacher and teacher, from Louisville, Ky., will be heard this morning at 11 o'clock over WGST in the broadcast of the regular morning service of the Druid Hills Baptist church. Dr. Davis is the guest preacher of the Druid Hills church today and throughout this week, speaking twice daily.

WJTL Continues
Lobby Broadcasts.

The public interest in the WJTL broadcasts from the temporary studio in the lobby of the Georgia theater has been so great that station officials and Lukas & Jenkins have agreed to continue the novel publicity stunt for another week.

The crowds at the theater have been so large that traffic was almost completely blocked.

Oglethorpe University is operating the station in the lobby from 4:30 until 9:30 o'clock with all performers plainly visible through sound-proof plate-glass partitions. The controls are located in the ticket booth. No transcribed programs are broadcast during this period, a feature which has spread employment among local artists.

Alleged Swindler
Caught, Boykin Heirs

Atlanta authorities have been notified of the arrest in Philadelphia of Albert Greenberg, who was indicted with Morris Pack, Morris Love and one "Professor Abner" in an alleged swindling scheme in which two south Georgia merchants were robbed of $9,000 in a Ponce de Leon avenue apartment last March.

Love and Pack were acquitted by a Fulton superior court jury last April. "Professor Abner" has never been arrested.

brothers, told officers that they had been lured to the apartment with a offer of hospitality at bargain prices, that they were given drugged whiskey and robbed of their money after they had been given a demonstration of a machine said to have been invented by "Professor Abner" which could duplicate United States currency.

Charles M. Cooper, granted a new trial after he had been sentenced to death for the slaying of James T. Chappell in 1932, will face the jury a second time Tuesday. The case will be called before Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court.

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy granted Cooper a new trial when his attorney, Len B. Guillebeau, presented new evidence bearing upon an alibi contention that Cooper was in Miami at the time of the shooting.

Trial of Mrs. Mary Pearl Koester, charged with the murder of George E. King Jr., has been set for November 20 before Judge Howard. King was shot and killed in the College Park home of Mrs. Fannie Nance, widow of A. Scott Nance, who had dismissed Mrs. Koester's husband from her dairy several days before the shooting. Mrs. Nance was to have been married to King next spring.

On the same date, Judge Claude C. Pittman, of Cartersville, will hear the murder trial of Mrs. Ethel Peeples, charged with slaying her infant daughter, Lannie Eaye, by poisoning her in a local hotel last April. She was tried once without a jury and given a life sentence by the court.

Mrs. Peeples had not waived her right to trial by jury. The defense is expected to enter a plea of insanity.

Robert Leal, charged with involuntary manslaughter as the result of an automobile accident September 20 on Bankhead highway, is scheduled to be tried before Judge C. C. Pittman, of Cartersville, on November 22. Leal is charged with the killing of Gerald McLaughlin. In the accident James McLaughlin, Rudolph McLaughlin, Mrs. J. J. Foster and Miss Mildred Foster were injured.

A long series of robbery charges against Robert Riley and Hoyt Summers, who have been sentenced to death and life imprisonment, respectively, for the holdup slaying of Max Slobom, is on the calendar before Judge Howard on Wednesday, November 7.

Judge A. J. McDonald, of Cordele circuit, will preside in the emergency division of criminal court this week. He will be followed the next week by Judge James R. Hutcheson. Judge Pittman will preside the week of November 12.

Setting up a city and county commission to handle the relief problem and a proposal to tax beer instead of licensing dealers will be among the measures considered Monday afternoon by city council.

Mayor James L. Key will probably ask council to plan for the caring of Atlanta's unemployed beginning January 1, when that job will be turned over to the city and county by the federal government.

Three measures, one to tax beer half a cent a bottle instead of selling licenses to dealers at $100 a year, another to eliminate stops signs at open intersections and to substitute where necessary, "slow" signs, and a third measure to make Forsyth street one way south and Pryor street one way north, will be introduced by Councilman Joe Berman, of the fourth ward.

The council will also be asked to authorize the use of $900,000 worth of scrip for payment of city salaries for November and December as was recommended by the finance committee.

Annual Poppy Sale
To Be Held Friday

The annual poppy sale will be held in Atlanta next Friday, November 9, for the benefit of the disabled American veterans of the World War and their families. Mrs. Arthur Hazzard is general chairman of the committee in charge of the sale.

In announcing plans for the sale, Mrs. Hazzard and her co-workers said that the committee deeply appreciated what Atlanta had done toward the disabled veterans and their families in the past, and added that they anticipated an even greater outpouring of contributions this year.

"Unselfish service of our disabled men has been appreciated in the past just as the assistance given by the citizens," Mrs. Hazzard said. "We are asking the public once more to take the opportunity to buy a poppy to show their feelings for the men who were rendered incapacitated in the service of their country."

Mrs. Hazzard pointed out that, although the government provides the actual necessities of life to the veterans who are confined in hospitals, there are no funds for cigarettes, matches, books, magazines, writing paper and other incidentals the men need just about as badly as they need food, clothing and medical attention.

"There would be no bright spots in these drab lives if it were not for the poppy sales," Mrs. Hazzard said.

ANTI-RED STRIKE SEEN AT U. C. L. A.

26,000 To Be Asked To Join in Fight on "Fascism and Reaction."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Maneuvers were made today to bring about a protest strike of students at the University of California and possibly in other universities of the state, as a gesture against "fascism and reaction."

Leaders of the movement at Berkeley said they would convey their strike appeal to 26,000 students in all units of the institution, not only as a move against alleged fascism and reaction, but also as a move against the suspension of five students at the University of California at Los Angeles on charges of communistic activity.

Orators recruited from a Berkeley campus mass meeting last week were assigned to make class-to-class appearances there Monday morning to exhort the other students to lay down their books and walk out.

Fears that there might be trouble over the student strike movement were expressed by Richard Criley, its leader at Berkeley. He said an organization of "student vigilantes" was being formed to oppose the walkout.

The county council of the American Legion commended the U. C. L. A. "stand against communism," and volunteered its services to the purge movement.

Provost Ernest C. Moore, who suspended the five students accused of radicalism, announced last night the students might be returned. No word came from them, but statements issued ostensibly in their behalf rejected the offer because it did not allow them to retain their campus offices.

President Robert Gordon Sprout planned to go to the southern campus from Berkeley over the week-end for a personal investigation.

Criley declared the Berkeley protest would be directed against "the rising tide of reaction and fascism which is sweeping over the University of California and of which U. C. L. A. is the most bold example. The fight is for academic freedom."

"Force if necessary," was pledged by U. C. L. A. vigilante group, composed of athletes. Their leader, John McElhenney, declared "the reds are going to be ousted if we have to drop kick them off the campus."

Direct action also was suggested against radicalism by Dr. T. M. MacQuarrie, president of the San Jose State College, who wrote in the college paper that "radicals should be taken to the edge of the campus and dropped off."

Dr. C. L. A. Dr. Moore saw in the strike a well-defined "revolutionary movement." But Berkeley's Dr. Monroe E. Deutsch said he "never felt the radical situation was anything to be considered dangerous" on his campus.

Stanford University authorities declared they were not bothered about any radicalism on that institution.

At Santa Clara University, Father James J. Lyons, president, announced the dismissal of Edward J. Horton, student editor, for an editorial in the college weekly in which he refused to fight in any war. "Insubordination" also was cited in the dismissal by the authorities.

and "Don" Warner's Temple University outfit defeating Holy Cross, 14-0. Princeton turned back Harvard, 19-0, and Michigan State won over Marquette, 13-7.

In the Midwest, Bernie Bierman's great Minnesota team continued its unimpaired march to the peak by crushing Michigan, 34-0, and Northwestern, 34-0. Purdue defeated Chicago in a close one, 26-20, and Northwestern licked Wisconsin, 7-0.

Returning to the south, the returns found the favorites running largely to form. Alabama's red juggernaut overwhelming Kentucky at Lexington, 34-14; Tulane keeping its record clear by whipping the Misses, 15-0, and Wallace Wade's Duke team turning back Auburn, 13 to 6.

RITES FOR MRS. ROYAL
ARE TO BE HELD TODAY

BUFOED, Ga., Nov. 3.—Funeral services for Mrs. Prince L. Royal, 45, who burned to death early this morning when her automobile collided with a CCC camp truck near here and overturned and burst into flames, will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, E. S. T., at the Buford Methodist church. Rev. J. S. Threlkild, pastor, will officiate and interment will be in the local cemetery.

Mrs. Royal is survived by her husband, who is superintendent of the shoe factory of the Bon-Alien Company; two daughters, two sons and two brothers. Before her marriage she was Miss Edwina Plummer, of Nashville, Tenn.

10 Will Be Charged With Strike Slayings

ANDERSON, S. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Solicitor Rufus A. Pant today said he would give bills of indictment against 10 men to the grand jury here November 19 in connection with the slaying of seven textile strikers at Home Path, on September 6.

Four men will be charged with murder and six others with accessory to murder in the bills he will draw, the solicitor said. However, if true bills are returned, trial of the cases will be held at the earliest date in the term of court beginning November 19 as it lasts only a week, he said.

Alice in Wonderland Near Death in England

WESTERHAM, Eng., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Alice in Wonderland lay near death today.

The aged woman who, as a fair-haired child, inspired the immortal tale of Lewis Carroll, lapsed into a coma after a stroke while riding in an automobile 10 days ago, and the doctors said she could not survive.

She is Mrs. Alice Liddell Harcourt, a 72-year-old widow, who in 1864 married a man named Charles Dodgson, who became a whimsical Lewis Carroll, which was the name he signed to the book he wrote for Alice.

INTEGRITY OF NAME FIRMLY DEFENDED BY DEFIANT INSULL

"on the belief that people had in my integrity." Then he shouted angrily:

"—And which they still have!"

Insull's last two hours on the witness stand, under cross-examination of Assistant United States Attorney General Leslie E. Salter, brought declarations from him that his motives as a financier were honest, in spite of all evidence produced by the government that the stock in question was flimsy.

"I was doing things that I thought to be absolutely honest," he said stubbornly.

Code messages across the ocean to Insull, while he was avoiding American authorities seeking to return him to stand trial, were put before Insull.

Three of them showed that Insull was in communication with Gilbert A. Porter, his Chicago attorney, from the time the utility man was first indicted in Chicago in the fall of 1932, and was advised where to seek haven.

He did not recall it, Insull said. Later, admitting the cables were sent, he said:

"You've got some pretty smart code readers."

Prosecutor Salter, soft spoken and courteous, belabored Insull with charges that huge losses in his companies were concealed, and that the promise of the entire system, the giant Middle West utility system, was kept afloat by juggling securities between the concerns.

But the simplest question of them all brought the angriest answer from Insull.

After Insull had admitted that he knew, in the late fall of 1932, that he was wanted in Chicago, Salter asked:

"Why didn't you come back and face the music?"

Long Explanation.

Insull began a long explanation. He had received no request. He was unable to get information about the charge. Then he was told it was not extraditable. He lacked funds—"of my own"—to come back to the United States.

Then he said:

"I think I would have been crucified. Attorney Swanson (the then State's Attorney John A. Swanson) had dodged distributed showing he being brought through the streets in chains."

"I thought there was a political situation here and it would be better to let it quiet down before I came back. And self-preservation is the first law of nature."

"You weren't running away, when you left Chicago?" Salter persisted.

"I was entirely out of business," Insull said in answer.

Sir Basil Zaharoff, Greek multi-millionaire world peace politician, was mentioned in one of the deeded cables produced by Salter but Insull denied that Sir Basil had helped him avoid the American authorities.

Tells of Leaving U. S.

Salter led Insull into a recital of how he left the United States in June, 1932, his vast utility system in ruins, sailed to Paris, and traced him across Europe to Europe, Turin, Italy, Milan, and finally Greece, in a flight which was world drama in 1932 and '33.

One of the code messages advised Insull of the use of a ship for his escape, he said on March 14, 1933, when he slipped out of Athens on a privately chartered tramp steamer.

It reached Insull in Turin, his first stop after leaving Paris on October 5, six months before he made use of the idea, and only a few days after the first criminal charges had been made against him in Chicago.

"Advise domicile Greece," it said. "Greek steamship is Greek territory."

The cable quoted this as the opinion of George A. Cook, who was not identified in the testimony.

He did not go to see Zaharoff, as suggested by his Chicago advisors on October 7, 1932, Insull said, because "when I am in trouble I am inclined to keep to myself."

"Who is this man Zaharoff?" said Prosecutor Salter, asking a question which has been the title of a handful of newspaper and magazine articles.

"I have known him socially for a good many years," said Insull. Sir Basil was not discussed further.

Many times the prosecutor's gentle questioning aroused Insull's ire.

Salter produced income tax returns showing Insull's big Middle West Utilities Company claimed losses of $12,400,000 in 1928, and contended that, without profits made by selling securities to other Insull companies, it would have been bankrupt.

"No sir, no sir, no sir," Insull cried. "You're entirely mistaken."

Junior C. of C. Will Sponsor Armistice Observance Here

A concentrated drive was launched Saturday by the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with other civic and business groups, to make next week-end—Armistice Week-end—one of the most gala holiday occasions in the city's history.

Slogan of the drive is "Spend Armistice Week-end in Atlanta."

The drive is designed to inform people throughout the state of the many interesting and entertaining events planned for the week-end, and urge them to spend that week-end in Atlanta.

One of the most comprehensive Armistice Week-end celebrations in the country is planned for Atlanta, according to Junior Chamber of Commerce officials, and every effort is being made to advertise Atlanta for the week-end, for the benefit of all Atlanta business concerns.

Events of Week-End.

Events of the gala week-end program include:

Saturday, November 10, 2 P. M.—Georgia Tech-Auburn football game at Grant field.

9 P. M.—Armistice aviation ball at the Shrine mosque.

Sunday, November 11, 9:30 to 11 A. M.—Armistice day church services at all Atlanta churches.

2 P. M.—Armistice air show at the Atlanta municipal airport, attracting many of the country's most famous stunt pilots.

Monday, November 12, 9:30 A. M.—Armistice day parade and march to Grant field for memorial ceremonies at 11 A. M.

2 P. M.—Armistice air show at Atlanta municipal airport.

9 P. M.—Armistice military ball at the Shrine mosque.

Commemorative Services.

Commemorative services for those who lost their lives in the late war will be held Sunday at the cathedral of Saint Philip on Peachtree road, with a number of army, navy, R. O. T. C. and other organizations participating. The ceremonies, which are to be held under the auspices of the Atlanta chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association, will be one of the most impressive of its kind held here for some years, officials stated.

Bishop H. J. Mikell, of the diocese of Atlanta, will welcome the guests. Dean Raimundo de Ovies will have general supervision over the services. Canon William S. Turner, who holds a commission as first lieutenant, chaplain reserve, and is chaplain of the Atlanta chapter of the Association of Reserve Officers, will preach the sermon.

Major General George Van Horn Moseley and 35 officers of his staff are to be present as representatives of the regular army's fourth corps area, while Adjutant General Lindley and his staff officers will represent Georgia's national guard. Brigadier General Percy W. Bishop, commanding the fourth corps artillery district, Brigadier General Robert O. Van Horn, commanding Fort McPherson, and his staff, and Brigadier General James H. Reeves, recently retired from the army, will also be present.

Others to Attend.

Other officers and organizations to take part in the services are Colonel H. I. Crockett, commanding the 22d Infantry; Colonel Thomas H. Alexander, commanding the 122d Infantry; Georgia national guard; Colonel S. Field Dullam, in charge of reserve affairs for the fourth corps area; Lieutenant Colonel Gilbert Marshall, instructor of reserve officers in Georgia; Major Clifford J. Matthews, instructor of 329th Infantry, and Major E. G. Herlihy, instructor of 422d Infantry (light tanks).

Major Charles M. Boyer, commander of the 324th coast artillery, recently organized "All-Atlanta" aircraft reserve regiment, and officers of the regiment will attend in a body, while the Governor's Horse Guards will be represented by Captain Theodore L. Goussier, commander, and three other officers.

Dr. Marion L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech; Lieutenant Colonel Fossile McWhorter, commander of Fulton County Post No. 134, American Legion, and Lieutenant Kenneth R. Murrell, commander of Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, will also be present.

Co-operating Groups.

Groups co-operating with the Junior Chamber in the drive are the American Legion, Georgia Tech Athletic Association, the Oriental Band of the Shrine Mosque, all railroads touching Atlanta, the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association, and the air show sponsors.

Visitors Invited.

Advertising material is being sent out over the entire state by the railroads, the hotel organization, and the other groups, urging a visit to Atlanta for the week-end.

Georgia Tech is expecting the largest crowd of the year to the Auburn football game, according to Mr. Thibson, and a motorcade is planned from Columbus to Atlanta in connection with the game.

The Atlanta Hotel Association is inviting other hotel officials from throughout the state to Atlanta for the week-end, according to Mr. Styron.

With the most complete program of entertainment that Atlanta has seen in many years for one week-end, the co-operation of all civic and business groups and citizens is urged in the drive to attract visitors to Atlanta.

ELROD APPOINTED TO LABOR BOARD

Talmadge Names Atlanta, Chosen by "Big Four," to State Post.

Robert S. Elrod, of Atlanta, a veteran fireman and engineer for the Southern railway, Saturday was appointed by Governor Eugene Talmadge to serve on the state industrial commission. The appointment is for four years. Elrod succeeds Tolly E. Whitaker, of Decatur, who has served two four-years terms on the commission.

Elrod was recommended for the place by the Big Four railroad brotherhoods, which endorsed the governor for reelection and whose members worked vigorously during the recent campaign. The new commissioner is secretary of the Big Four executive committee, a post which he said Saturday he would resign as soon as he had made arrangements with the committee.

The state industrial commission administers the workman's compensation act and handles other labor matters for the state.

In announcing Elrod's selection the governor made public a recommendation from the Big Four and said "the Big Four have proven themselves friends of mine."

Commissioner Whitaker's term expired October 1 but the governor delayed making the appointment until the railroad men could make their recommendation. The retiring commissioner was named in 1926 on recommendation of the Georgia Federation of Labor, whose leaders opposed Governor Talmadge for re-election.

The commission on which Elrod will serve is headed by Hal M. Standley, the chairman, who is an elective officer. The third member of the board is W. F. Slater, of Bryan county, appointed two years ago by former Governor Richard B. Russell Jr.

Elrod's salary as commissioner will be $4,000 a year.

Governor Talmadge Saturday also announced the appointment of two new members of the state board of health. They are Dr. Paul McGee, of Waycross, who succeeds Dr. R. E. Sullivan, and Dr. William H. Winston, of Rome, who succeeds Dr. M. H. Varn. Both were named for six-year terms ending October 1, 1940.

UNIONS AND A. & P.
REACH AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The most threatening breach in President Roosevelt's projected industrial truce was plugged today by the national labor relations board as it engineered a store labor dispute.

Both the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company and the unions involved notified the board they had accepted its proposal for reopening the stores and submission of future disputes, if any, to arbitration.

John A. Hartford, president of the company, said in New York that the employees dismissed last Saturday night when A. & P. branches in Cleveland closed would be rehired Monday.

Company officials in Cleveland predicted the stores would be open for business by the middle of next week.

Withdrawal Announced.

With the stores now closed, the company announced in full page ads in Cleveland papers it was withdrawing from the Cleveland field because of labor trouble.

Union truckmen had refused to haul supplies to the stores and the meat cutters and retail clerks and managers' unions called strikes in protest of alleged discrimination against union employees.

Today's settlement healed one of the most serious breaks thus far in the president's ten-month proposal of a six-months' cessation of labor-capital strife.

How long that truce would last, however, will be debated among labor leaders here.

Not Satisfied.

Despite the president's order yesterday for a study of automobile employment, union leaders in that industry were represented as far from satisfied with labor conditions.

They had sought a 30-hour week, higher wages, elimination of the merit clause, representation on the code authority and a new automobile labor board with power to conduct elections, as well as a study of the industry's production periods. They got only the study when the code was renewed yesterday for 90 days.

Camp automobile industry had steadfastly maintained it would deal with any group of its employees. That stand has jaded the union workers who want "majority rule" established as a representation basis.

The possibility of trouble ahead in steel, also, is seen by some labor men.

U. S. Acts To Protect Producers of Cotton

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today cancelled all tax exemption certificates issued under the Bankhead cotton limitation act which have been invalidly transferred.

All tax exemption certificates remaining after this year's needs are filled will be exchanged for new certificates for 1935 if the Bankhead act is continued.

Since any transfer or assignment of a certificate which is not made according to Bankhead act regulations renders them invalid the secretary said that all such certificates would be cancelled to protect producers who have followed the proper procedure.

U. S. BAR SCRUTINIZES NOVEL LEGISLATION

Committee Named To Study Effects of New National Trends, Laws.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The American Bar Association today named a committee of seven to study the effect of recent developments in national legislation and governmental policies as affecting the rights and liberties of American citizens.

Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg, W. Va., former president of the bar association, is chairman of the investigating group which Loftin termed a "special committee to study federal legislation and policies as affecting the rights and liberties of American citizens."

Gas from ordinary moth balls is deadly to grubs of the Japanese beetle in the soil.

tee directed Loftin to appoint the special committee which will report its findings to the executive council, which in turn will place the report and the council's comment before the association's membership at the next annual meeting.

The investigation was ordered by the bar association at its annual meeting last August and the executive committee directed Loftin to appoint the special committee which will report its findings to the executive council, which in turn will place the report and the council's comment before the association's membership at the next annual meeting.

Men are still losing ground in the war with parasites of domestic animals, says Dr. Maurice G. Hall, of the United States department of agriculture.

Local Contractors And Supply Houses Extend Every Help

Owners of Vacant Rental Property Now Have Wonderful Opportunity To Put Buildings in Condition To Secure Tenants.

Property owners who have found difficulty in renting obsolete or dilapidated houses, stores, offices, garages, warehouses, etc., now have the opportunity to make their property attractive to tenants or purchasers through Federal Housing Administration Loans. Landlords may borrow to improve as many as five pieces of property in sums of $100.00 to $2,000.00 on each for periods of from one to three years.

Money so borrowed may be used to add rooms, sleeping porches, bathrooms, garages, etc., or to paper, paint, plaster, screen, decorate, remodel, wire, re-roof, replace plumbing, refloor or to make any other physical improvements.

Without question no other opportunity of such liberal nature has ever been offered to property owners to improve their holdings with as little effort or with as convenient length of time for repayment.

The Contractors, building supply firms and financial institutions advertising on this page are inviting all landlords as well as home owners to call upon them for every assistance. Every possible assistance is offered in the widespread movement that will put houses and buildings in proper condition and go far toward bringing business conditions back to normal.

Protect Now -- Pay Later

The following paragraph from the new Federal Housing Administration Bulletin indicates the importance the Government attaches to EFFECTIVE termite control: "HOW ABOUT YOUR FOUNDATIONS? Rot and termites work quietly, without your knowledge. A check-up by an expert might disclose vital wood portions of your home that need to be treated, repaired or replaced."

This means the Government is ready to lend you money to protect your property against termites. Please us for complete details. And, if you are not certain whether termites are attacking your property, ask for our reliable, free inspection of your home.

AFTER MODERNIZATION.

Uncle Sam Says:

Go ahead and borrow to modernize, repair, repaint your home; or if you don't have one, go ahead and build one. There is little or no chance that you will be caught in the midst of another depression, for there will be no short term mortgage hanging over your head. All that is required is that you have good character and a means of livelihood, with a reasonable expectation of repaying the loan.

BEFORE MODERNIZATION.

Home modernizing contributes to the happiness and prosperity of you, your family and the entire community. It enhances your neighborhood real estate values. It adds immeasurably to the joy of living.

Modernizing increases pride in the home—pride of you, your wife and your children. For modernization indicates good taste, appreciation of the better things of life, worldly success and a high standing in the community.

It pays from every human standpoint to modernize your home—in money value and those equally important but intangible benefits—happiness, pride, social position, comfort, convenience—all the big and little factors that make home life worth while.

A few simple changes, slight needed repairs, changing a roof line, regrouping windows often makes a decided improvement in the exterior. Landscaping—and it need not be expensive—adds charm that is almost indescribable. Interiors by a few deft touches and artistic changes make of the old gloomy rooms places of beauty, joy and comfort.

Take a look around your house and grounds today. Is it what you desire? Make up your mind what is needed. Call in the help of firms advertising on this page. Learn how little it will take to change your dwelling into a charming, distinctive, up-to-date home with all the modern comforts and conveniences.

The money with which to do it is now waiting for you.

Red Tape Will Not Be Encountered In Making Your Loan

Leading Atlanta Lending Institutions Join Enthusiastically With Government in Offering Personal Loans at 5 Per Cent Interest.

The ease and facility with which loans are being made in Atlanta under the National Housing Act to home lovers so they may repair, modernize and rebuild their homes is gratifying to all applicants. None of the "red tape" so often surrounding governmental projects is apparent.

You simply decide the improvements or repairs you wish to make, list them with the cost, which is gladly furnished you by any of the contractors or building supply firms listed on this page. Then go to the Atlanta Lending Agencies co-operating in this campaign, and make application for your loan.

You give no collateral, not even a mortgage on your property. All you are asked to do is sign a personal note. That is your security to Uncle Sam that you will repay the loan. With your credit reputation good and your income sufficient to meet the small monthly repayments you may secure from $100 to $2,000.

You are charged only 5 per cent interest and your monthly repayments extend over a period of from one to three years, according to the amount borrowed. The money is paid to you when the work is completed or as it progresses. It will be paid either to you or to your contractor on your order.

The way is made easy for you to secure better living facilities for your family, to protect and safeguard your investment, to improve the standards and civic pride of your neighborhood

ATLANTA MUSIC NOTES

Lawrence Tibbett returns to Atlanta in concert! And this concert is Friday evening, November 9, at 8:30 o'clock, in the city auditorium, one of the presentations of the All-Star Concert Series. This is the glad news of the week. Lawrence Tibbett has in two previous concerts proven a favorite in Atlanta, and his return engagement will be popular request. He is one of the leading baritone of the day, a baritone possessing a rarely beautiful voice, and using his gift with the finest intelligence and musical integrity. His interpretations are considered everywhere as authoritative. The title this reviewer gave him at his last Atlanta concert two seasons ago, "Ruler of the Kingdom of Songland," has followed him since. Tibbett is not only a national favorite on the concert stage, but his fame as an operatic star, as a motion picture actor, and as a radio singer, have made him one of the most versatile musical personalities of America. He is one of the leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Song Literature Program. The November morning program of the Atlanta Music Club, Mrs. Harold McKee, president, will be presented Wednesday morning at 10:45 o'clock in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's Club, Mrs. Howard C. Smith Jr., chairman of the program, chosen for her subject, "Song Literature." Mrs. Harold McKee is chairman of this morning series for the year.

Mrs. Smith, known to Atlanta music lovers as Helen Coyne Riley Smith, has given generously of her time and talent to the music since she came to this city several years ago. A director of the Atlanta Music Club, and later as president of the Atlanta Music Club, she is widely known both for her ability as an executive and for her lovely voice. She has arranged this morning program for the Atlanta Music Club, to illustrate the various types in song literature—folk songs, dance songs, art songs and operas.

Folk Songs.—Les Cloches de Nantes (Britany, 17th century), arrangement by Ferrar; "O ma tendre Moutte" (A. Beranger), Monigny; "Le Chant du Départ" (Revolutionary), Medul; "Ma Gazelle" (Moorish-African), arrangement by Daniel; "The Virginia Plant" (From an Old Spanish Mystery Play), two Spanish folk songs, "Sequidilla," "Bolo," arrangement by Reimann; Mrs. McKee, soprano; "Tangalo" (Swedish, 17th century), "When I Was Seventeen" (Sweden), two Italian folk songs, "Ninna-Nanna" (Neapolitan) arrangement by Bellini; "In Mezo al Mar" (sea song), arrangement by Sader; Mrs. McKee, soprano.

Art Songs.—"Der Tod und das Mädchen," Schubert; "Widmung," Schumann; "Sapphische Ode," Schumann; "Der Asra," Rubenstein; "Traume," Wagner; Mrs. McKee, soprano. Operas—"Carmen," Cavalli; "Minnelied," Cavalli; "La Fausette" (Zemira and Azor), Gretry; "Non più coia son" (Marriage of Figaro), Mozart; "On te le donne" (Lakme), Delibes; Mrs. McKee, soprano.

Sunday Recital. Another in the series of organ recitals which are given on the first Sunday night in each month at Trinity church by Dr. Ben J. Potter, associate of the organ, will be given, and fellow of the Guild of St. Cecilia, London, will be offered tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Paris Lee, who has a baritone voice of rare beauty, will assist Dr. Potter on this program.

The programs of these recitals are made up of numbers taken from the works of the greatest composers, for the most part are those which are best known, and have endeared themselves in the hearts of the people.

The program tonight will include Keltch's meditation, "In a Monastery Garden," Handel's "Air in the Breeze," Schubert's "Military March in D," and the three songs, "The Bohemian Girl," by Balfe.

Dr. Potter is head of the organ department at Brenau College and he maintains a studio in the Studio Arts Building.

Prosperity Indications. An evidence in the upturn in the musical appreciation over the country was demonstrated to me in a chat with the sales manager of the International Library of Music, who has been in our city for the past six months. He is James E. Parker, of New York, and he tells me that his organization up to October 15 has had an increase of 40 per cent over any one year for the past ten, and that Atlanta has helped vitally in the making of this increase. His sales over the last months' period in Atlanta show over $42,000 worth of their publications delivered in and within a radius of fifty miles of the city. This should truly be a barometer of the musical interest in our community.

Sometimes I gave a resume in this column of the International Library which I had added to my collection of musical books, and which I found very valuable. I learned that the organization has recently issued a new edition which has been enhanced by fifty more compositions of MacDowell, Cui, Tchaikovsky, Mussorgsky, Rachmaninoff, Liszt, Grieg, Handel, Debussy, and other composers, together with some more valuable text material, making the library one of the outstanding musical publications.

Over the Network. Emilio Volpi told me yesterday of a "thrill" he received this week of his pupils called over the phone and said, "Did you hear your song sung on a national broadcasting program this morning?" Imagine Mr. Volpi's compositions, a sacred song, "My Peace I Give Unto You," was sung by a Mr. Gilbert baritone, who had been playing the piano in the choir program over a national network Tuesday morning. Mr. Volpi's only disappointment concerning the program was that he was not "listening in" on the program. This song is bringing Mr. Volpi letters of commendation from all parts of the world, and is being sung in churches throughout America and Europe.

Druid Hills Club. The Junior Music Club of the Druid Hills School of Music held the first meeting of the year Saturday morning. The new officers for the year elected were: Lilouise Croft Green, president; Bobby Pendergast, secretary; and Isabel Bryan, vice president in charge of programs. An interesting feature of the program was the club was climaxed by a beautiful selection of Strauss waltzes, played by the guest artists of the afternoon, Herminia and the Collins, and Mrs. Paul Bryan, pianist.

Executive Meeting. The executive board meeting of the College Park Music Club, Miss Eloise Olds, president, was held Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. W. S. Northcutt, with Mrs. D. M. Hicks, joint hostess. The meeting was presided over by the chairman of the various committees. Announcement was made by Mrs. Raymond Williams, chairman, that the first meeting of the group would be held at her home the first Friday morning in November.

All club members are eligible and those who are interested are advised to get in touch with Mrs. Williams, Calhoun 9787.

After the business session a salad course was served. The members included: Mrs. Northcutt, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. C. W. Wall, Mrs. Raymond Williams, Mrs. Fred Shaefer, Mrs. John Routs, Mrs. H. L. L. L., Mrs. E. G. Mathews, Mrs. Hugh Couch, Mrs. S. R. Young, Mrs. D. M. Berry, Mrs. S. D. Truit, Mrs. T. H. Porch and Miss Eloise Olds.

Piano Artists Ensemble. Committee chairmen were appointed and plans made for the Piano Artists' Ensemble, which the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guild will sponsor. The ensemble will play at the city auditorium on November 23. At a meeting of the guild held at the Piedmont Driving Club, Mrs. Jeff Hutchings, the president, directed the group, who outlined plans for the concert. More than 100 teachers, artists and students of music will participate in the ensemble, featuring two, four and eight pianos, simultaneously.

A well-balanced program of classical and modern compositions will be presented during the evening. Mrs. Wall and her co-chairman, Mrs. Paul Bryan, are assisted by Miss Edna Bartholomew, Earle Chester Smith, Mrs. John E. Beyer, Mrs. Lane and Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey.

Committee chairmen appointed by Mrs. Hutchings include Mesdames John H. Mullin, Edna Duvall, Mrs. Young and John Eagan, advertisements; Mesdames R. G. Merry and Paul Fleming, ticket printing and delivery; Mrs. Murray Hubbard, Mrs. Anderson, chairman with Mrs. Dan Plaster, for P-T-A contact; Mesdames A. B. Pease, W. T. Perkins, Mrs. McGill, for collection contact; Miss Frances Barzwell and Mrs. Hutchings are the committee for publicity. Other committees will be announced later. The entire program of the ensemble will go to the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school in the mountains of north Georgia. The tickets are printed and sold at the city auditorium, the popular prices of 25 and 50 cents and $1 for box seats.

Study Club. The piano pupils of Mrs. E. R. Vaughn held their monthly study meeting at her studio Thursday afternoon. The officers elected for the year were: Mary Jane Parker, president, and Angela Wilkerson, secretary. A brief program was rendered by Betty Hargis and Dickie Duvall, piano soloists; Pauline Garvine, reader, and Madge Scoggins, who gave a short biography of Mozart.

Visits Alabama Federation. I received a letter from Florence Golson Bateman, College Park soprano, yesterday, posted at Wetumpka, Ala., and telling me that she was spending the week in Alabama fulfilling several engagements. She was guest artist at the fourth district meeting of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs, held at the University of Alabama.

Success Versus Depression. "It can be done," is the title of an article by Mrs. Richard H. Beckett, telling of the success of the Richmond symphony orchestra, which was organized three seasons ago, during the darkest hours of the depression, and telling how it is launching its third season on a firm artistic and financial basis. Mrs. Beckett, American conductor and composer, is the leader of the orchestra. The guarantee fund is not supplied by one or two wealthy men, but it is democratically subscribed by 150 contributing members who give $100 each for the season.

What Richmond has done, other cities are doing. Mrs. Beckett declares, "This country is not a failure. There is no reason why only the larger cities should have their symphonies. We

WILL LECTURE HERE

Noted Poetess Will Open Season at Agnes Scott on November 23.

Edna St. Vincent Millay, the well-known American poetess, will open the Agnes Scott Lecture Association season with a reading of a number of her own poems in the college auditorium on the night of November 23, this organization has been invited to the lecture Saturday.

The poetess published her first volume in 1917 and found herself immediately famous. She followed with another volume in 1920 and since that time publication of her work has been eventful.

The public has been invited to the lecture. Tickets will go on sale November 16.

In addition to these volumes of poetry, Miss Millay has experimented with poetic drama. The King's Henchman, a poetic play, written in Anglo-Saxon days, was the libretto for the most successful American opera that the Metropolitan Opera Company has produced. The Lamp and the Bell, a five-act drama, was written in Paris and produced in the open-air theater at Vassar. Aida da Capo, a powerful satire on war, has been produced by the Provincetown Players and translated into French for production in Paris.

Miss Millay has at one time or another won all the poetry prizes offered in America. She was awarded the Pulitzer prize for her poem, "Weaver and Other Poems in 1925," and has been called the greatest woman poet since Sappho. She explains her popularity as being due to the fact that she writes in simple language and traditional forms on experiences which everyone has had. She has never allied herself with such groups as the Imagists or the Futurists, and that she does not use free verse, and that she does represent the reactions of this generation.

DR. OGDEN WILL OPEN SERIES OF SERVICES
"The Unchanging Christ in a Changing World" will be the subject of the opening sermon at 11 o'clock.

DR. DUNBAR H. OGDEN.

This morning in a series of special services to be conducted by Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden at Central Presbyterian church, opportunity will be afforded on Washington street. Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby is pastor.

Dr. Ogden's subject at 7:30 o'clock this evening will be "The Church and Its Ancestors." The evening service will take the place of the vesper service usually conducted at 5:30 o'clock by the pastor.

LINDER AND VANSANT ON FARM DEBT BOARD
Tom Linder, commissioner of agriculture, and R. L. Vansant, director of rural rehabilitation in Georgia, have been appointed members of the Georgia farm debt adjustment commission by Governor Eugene Talmadge. Charles J. Haden, state chairman of the commission, announced Saturday.

The work of the commission has been accelerated by the intensive campaign of its field representatives, who visit the county committees and aid in the adjustment of farm debts.

SYNAGOGUE WILL GIVE DINNER THIS WEEK
The synagogue banquet of the congregation, which will be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday night at the Jewish Progressive Club. The affair is being sponsored by the Synagogue Brotherhood of the congregation. A program of wide variety and novelty features has been arranged. Reservations should be made through one of the officers of the congregation.

The officers of the congregation are: Oscar Gershon is vice president; H. Smith, treasurer, and Max M. Cuba is secretary.

have the musicians, fine ones, starving for work; we have the public, starving for music. If every city had its own orchestra, our programs and performances of high standard, this tragic unemployment would be a thing of the past and the lives of the people would be enriched by an experience that they need and crave."

Cesar Franck's Works. I am told that one of the highlights of the musical season this far was the Cesar Franck program presented by Edna Bartholomew at Saint Mark's Methodist church last Sunday afternoon. I regret having to miss it, for comments have been most enthusiastic and praise from her auditors has been lavish. Miss Bartholomew was assisted by a group of young artists, including Miss St. Mark's, Mrs. D. C. Adams, soprano; Mrs. L. D. King, contralto; Millard Lewis, tenor, and Dr. E. L. Bishop, bass. The choir sang "O Be Joyful in the Lord," "O Lamb of God" and "Lord Have Mercy."

Mrs. Adams sang a solo, "La Procession." Miss Bartholomew's organ included "Prelude, Fugue and Variations," "Pastorale," "Prayer" and "Final, Opus No. 2, No. 6."

A beautiful musical service was presented at the Druid Hills Methodist church on the fourth Monday in October. The program was presented by the organist of the church, on the celebration of her 25th anniversary as organist of that post. Honor was paid to the church by the organist, Rev. John Brandon Peters, pastor of the church, and the choir seemed to excel all former performances in their rendition of the service. The organist and choir director at the console.

Vrono Observes Anniversary

Council To Be Asked To Regulate Sale of Contraceptive Devices

City council Monday will be asked to adopt an ordinance, sponsored by physicians and druggists, "regulating the sale of contraceptive devices" and providing a penalty for violations of the ordinance.

Dr. John L. Baker, medical director and research expert of the Julius Schmid, Inc., laboratories, of New York, who was brought to Atlanta by the Dr. Storker, Inc., is expected to appear before council and explain the ordinance as well as to speak for its adoption.

Preamble to the ordinance states that it is "an ordinance regulating the sale of contraceptive devices, prophylactic rubber goods and articles for the prevention of venereal diseases and other diseases and infections or any sex-inciting devices or contrivances except by regularly licensed practitioners of medicine or registered pharmacists in a licensed drug store or by wholesale druggists within the limits of the city of Atlanta."

The ordinance makes unlawful for any person, corporation, firm, association or partnership to vend, sell, or distribute at retail or to the public in any manner whatsoever, produced or intended for use as, or which may be used as a contraceptive within the corporate limits of the city of Atlanta, except by regularly licensed practitioners of medicine or registered pharmacists in a licensed drug store or by wholesale druggists within the limits of the city of Atlanta.

Control would be vested in a "commission of not less than three regularly registered pharmacists to inspect the merchandise offered for sale by the aforementioned authorized persons or firms." This commission would be appointed annually by the city-county health officer.

Penalty is Cited. For violation of provisions of the ordinance one would be liable to a fine of not more than $100 or not more than 60 days confinement in the city stockade, or both, at the discretion of the city recorder.

In case of sale or vending by slot machines, the slot machines and their contents would be seized and destroyed by order of the recorder.

In conclusion the ordinance states that it "is hereby declared to be an emergency measure, necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health and morals and shall be published as a Locomotive effective when and as required by law."

Passage of the ordinance is urged by Dr. Baker who said that he is backed by the United States public health service and the American Society of Social Hygiene.

In an interview last night he declared: "The very existence of venereal diseases is a public health problem, a subject, but physicians and health authorities are now being aroused by the shocking results of public ignorance. The fact that 35,000 are killed annually by automobiles have created safety councils and crusades in an attempt to reduce this slaughter. And now our tabulation of venereal diseases from our recent entry in the World War disclosed that we had lost 50,000 of our boys in France, this country has been accelerated by the intensive campaign of its field representatives, who visit the county committees and aid in the adjustment of farm debts."

Institutions Overflowing. "Most of our public institutions are overflowing their normal capacity with victims of venereal diseases, that have become so intolerable a burden on the community as to absorb a considerable amount of taxation," Dr. Baker added.

"Do you know that practically 25 per cent of the venereal diseases of your state are set aside to support these institutions, so that from that angle alone, it is a grave economic menace to the state. Therefore state must be taken to protect the public from the cause and at the source."

AGNES SCOTT FIXES NEW REQUIREMENTS

Students who submit two units in Latin and two in a modern language will be admitted to Agnes Scott College as unconditional freshmen beginning next September. The college has a considerable amount of taxation, Dr. Baker added.

V. F. W. Plan To Request Robert E. Lee Pardon

A pardon for General Robert E. Lee will be sought by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. A resolution that that effect was passed unanimously at their meeting held at Louisville, Ky., September 30 and October 5, and the resolution in the form of a bill will be introduced to the national congress this winter, Commander Green of the Greater Atlanta Post No. 390, announced Saturday.

Although many of the participants in the cause of the south were granted pardons at the close of the war, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Lee was not included, and at the time of his death was a paroled prisoner of war. He is still so listed upon the records of the government.

CELEBRATION PLANNED FOR 'EDUCATION WEEK'

Atlanta schools will join with the nation Monday in observing American Education Week, a program of exercises will be held by teachers and pupils while many other organizations will sponsor educational features. The purpose of the fourteenth annual "American Education Week" from November 5 to 11 is to adjust schools to the changed conditions of teaching and to note the advances made in education.

Enforcement of child labor laws will be stressed during the week and educators pointed that since business and industry are closed to children they are attending the schools and it is necessary to provide new course of instruction and to adapt the old courses to the new conditions.

Themes to be used in the programs this week include "Planning for Tomorrow," "Developing New Types of Schooling," "Improving Rural Schools," "Financing Schools," "Quickening the Sense of Civic Responsibility," "Preparing for New Kinds of Service," and "Enriching Character Through Education."

Agreement Is Reached In Gasoline Price War

A step toward settlement of the gasoline price war between independent and major oil companies came Saturday in New York when representatives of leading companies agreed on a margin of 3 1/2 cents a gallon on regular gas to take effect Saturday.

The margin in Atlanta had been 3 cents per gallon with major companies cutting it to 4 cents a gallon. The agreement settled the difference. No official statement was issued by the oil companies following conferences but it was reported that the new plan will be put into effect perhaps Monday or Tuesday. The agreement will not necessarily mean a change in price of gasoline in Atlanta, where it costs 15 1/2 cents a gallon at the stations of the leading companies.

Man Held in Kentucky Is Believed To Be Still

Photographs of Floyd Still, young county teacher who murdered his wife in October, 1933, Saturday were rushed to Louisville, Ky., where a man believed to be Still was being held by police.

Louisville detectives wired Chief T. O. Sturdivant for fingerprints and pictures of Still Saturday afternoon and the chief immediately dispatched the photos but told the Kentucky officers there are no recorded fingerprints of Still. The teacher last year wrote a letter directing a friend where to find the mutilated body of his wife whom he said he had killed. Still disappeared, presumably to drown himself, but police think he is alive. He has been the object of a nation-wide search since.

Grand Jury Will Get Lee Robbery Counts

A bill drawn in the solicitor-general's office and to be presented to the new grand jury Monday charges J. D. Lee, serving a life sentence for robbing of Eugene L. Lichtenstein, with two holdup robberies.

Lee's attorney has filed a petition for pardon which has been set for Monday by the prison commission on Monday.

In two counts the bill charges Lee with robbing Dr. R. F. Ingram Jr. and Dr. N. C. Foster at Atlanta, Georgia, of $6 and $7, respectively, on September 13, 1931. Lichtenstein was shot to death on September 31 of that year.

The record of Lee's trial shows that Dr. Ingram testified that Lee and another man held the two doctors in a building, Lichtenstein was sitting in an automobile in front of Dr. Ingram's home at 44 Inman circle. It was said that Harry Kofsky, director of the state prison, had been told that Lee had confessed that he and Lee staged the holdup.

When appetite fails—don't gamble
Life insurance companies tell us that the gradual breakdown of the human body causes more deaths every year than disease germs.

If your physical lightness is evidenced by lack of appetite... loss of weight... nervousness... sleeplessness... a tired feeling or lassitude caused by a lowered red-blood-cell and hemoglobin content in the blood—then S.S.S. is waiting to help you... though, if you suspect an organic trouble, you will, of course, want to consult a physician or surgeon.

Make S.S.S. your health safeguard and, unless your case is exceptional, you should soon enjoy the satisfaction of appetizing food... sound sleep... and renewed strength.

Take a course of S.S.S. Remember, your present run-down condition may have been a slow, gradual process. Likewise, a reasonable time is required to rebuild full strength. S.S.S. is not a miracle worker—no rebuilding tonic is—but it is a scientifically proven and time-tested medicine. This is your guarantee of satisfaction. Its benefits are progressive... accumulative... and enduring.

Moreover, S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic. It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the natural elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemoglobin in the blood. This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

If your condition suggests a tonic... if your appetite is not keen... get a bottle of S.S.S. take an appetizing portion just before meals. You will find it is truly a blood and body tonic. You should feel and look years younger... with life giving and purifying blood surging through your body. You owe this to yourself and friends.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two convenient sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 regular size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the uproad today. S.S.S. is really an inexpensive way to better health and more happiness. So many have said—"S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again"

Do not be misled by the efforts of a few unscrupulous dealers who may suggest that you gamble with substitutes. You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.

Highspots in Cruise Itinerary

The picturesque harbor at Bridgetown, Barbados, a high spot in the itinerary of the various West Indies cruises scheduled to leave New York during the forthcoming season.

HAPAG-LLOYD TO OPEN INCREASE INDICATED LARGE GAIN SHOWN CRUISE SEASON DEC. 26 IN CALIFORNIA TRAVEL IN CRUISE BOOKINGS

The S. S. Reliance, famous cruise ship of the Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd will inaugurate the beginning of the winter cruise season when she sails from New York on December 26 for a five-day cruise to Bermuda over New Year.

The S. S. Europa, the fastest steamer between New York, England, France and Germany, will make a short cruise to Nassau over the New Year, sailing from New York December 20. Special rail fares from Atlanta to New York will be in effect for this four-day cruise.

The Reliance will then make two other short cruises to Nassau and Bermuda in January.

On January 26 the Reliance will begin a series of 19-day cruises to the West Indies and South America. These trips will be filled with interesting calls at the most important islands in the West Indies and this year will include Grenada.

The Reliance will conclude her winter cruises with three short trips to Nassau and Bermuda in April.

Passengers interested in short winter cruises will be happy to know that R. C. Halaszek, assistant general passenger agent, of the Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd, now stationed in Atlanta and formerly connected with the New York office, spent last winter on the Reliance West Indies cruises and is prepared to give expert advice regarding the several trips offered this winter.

Each winter thousands of Americans are taking advantage of these short cruises, and the south has not failed to have her part in enjoying these trips in connection with trips to New York.

Winter vacation travel to California, both along the coast and to the hinterland desert areas, to southern Arizona, and to the southwest generally, gives solid indications of materially exceeding that of last year, states W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe, basing his opinion on current reports from widely scattered sources.

"From the Mexican border to San Francisco a healthy spirit of optimism over both the extent and quality of this winter's influx of warmth and pleasure-bound travelers seems to prevail," says Mr. Black. "Hotel operators at San Diego and Coronado report present business from 10 per cent to 25 per cent ahead of last year, and the feeling is unanimous that winter travel will be heavy. At Los Angeles, Pasadena, Santa Barbara and many other similar points, managers are finding pleasant reading in their advance inquiries and reservations. From Palm Springs, in eastern California, winter reservations are reported 10 per cent ahead of last year, although that season was the greatest that this famous desert oasis resort had ever enjoyed.

"Among the many interesting reasons advanced for this optimism is that the greatest winter racing season in California history, evidenced by the opening of the beautiful new Santa Anita Park race track, in Lucky Baldwin's famous old ranch at Arcadia, will attract an unusual number of horsemen and horse lovers. Others mention the close of Chicago's World's Fair, generally improved economic conditions, the low living costs in California, said to average 18 per cent less than for the country as a whole, and the steady increase in general western rail travel ever since western rail fares and sleeping car costs were drastically slashed.

"Our rail travel to the Grand Canyon, always a good barometer of the California tide, is holding, and apparently will extend its 38 per cent gain over last year. The Indian detours, sidetracks out of Old Santa Fe, New Mexico, are currently carrying three times the passengers of a year ago, while the hotels in that quaint Spanish city anticipate a busy winter after an excellent summer and fall.

The same story comes to us from the hotels and resorts in and about Phoenix, in Arizona's semi-tropical Salt River valley, where the last winter season was reminiscent of 1929-1930, and from the many "dude ranches" in our territory, not a few of which had capacity guest lists last summer and are now receiving unusually heavy winter bookings.

KING'S FUNERAL FILM ARRIVES IN FIVE DAYS

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—Newsreels showing the Belgrade funeral of the murdered King Alexander of Yugoslavia were delivered in New York in slightly under five days from the time the pictures were taken. This spectacular fast shipment made by Canadian Pacific Express across half the world was made possible through the combination of special airplanes, the high speed of the Empress of Britain and close attention given the films until they reached their destination.

A specially-chartered plane rushed the newsreels out of Belgrade a few moments after the king's "shot" and landed them in Cherbourg in time to catch the Empress of Britain, which had sailed from Southampton on the same day. The blue ribbon line carrying the north Atlantic was also carrying the news reels shots of the start of the England-Australia air race.

The films of the funeral of King Alexander and those of the start of the air race were transferred to an airplane at Rimouski on the St. Lawrence and flown to New York, reaching there a few hours later.

A British astronomer predicts that aluminum surfaced mirrors are likely to be used in future eclipses for astronomical purposes.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WILL RESUME RACING

A wave of enthusiasm and interest is preceding the return of racing to southern California on Christmas Day after a lapse of some 25 years—two tickets in that Santa Anita park will take its place in the most magnificent racing plant in the most ideal picturesque setting one could imagine. The outstanding group of sportsmen and financiers forming the Los Angeles Turf Club give assurance that the game will be staged for the season lasting until February 29, with all the éclat and prestige of a Belmont Park.

The racing season, opening as it does on Christmas Day and running every afternoon with the exception of Sundays, will furnish an exciting preliminary to the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena. The committee has expressed interest and is co-operating with the plans for Santa Anita Park in that it will provide another fine attraction for the thousands of visitors who come to southern California every year at that season.

That Santa Anita Park will draw the crowds is indicated by the plans being made to handle the traffic. Provision is being made for 65 acres of handy and convenient automobile parking areas—five entrances with rates well below the highway gain in the park are now being constructed—and there will be direct transportation by surface cars and buses. The park is conveniently located directly just east of Pasadena at the junction of Huntington drive and Colorado boulevard—a short and pleasant ride from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Hollywood and Beverly Hills and within easy access to all southern California. Facilities at Santa Anita Park will accommodate gatherings of 60,000 upwards with perfect modern appointments.

The great thoroughbreds of the world are being nominated for the rich stakes and purses. The Santa Anita handicap will have an approximate value of $140,000 and take on an international aspect as the richest stake in the world. Great turf celebrities like Equiano, Cavalcade, Discovery, Head Play, Fairness, Azucar, Broker's Tip—carrying the colors of the leading horsemen—have already been nominated and there will be famous horses and jockeys to crowd the capacity of the stabling accommodations at Santa Anita Park.

The track is all being set to thrill to the cry, "They're off!"

Frances Homer on Program Series Which Includes Beebe and Pearson

Frances Homer, talented interpreter actress, will be presented at Glenn Memorial auditorium, at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday night, November 14, the first presentation of the 1934-35 program of the Student Lecture Association, according to announcement by Dr. Ross H. McLean.

Miss Homer will offer her latest absorbing glimpses into the lives of Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, Isabella of Spain, Mary Fliton, Empress Josephine, Lady Hamilton and several other famous feminine characters.

On Monday, February 14, Archibald Henderson, of the University of North Carolina, probably the ablest mathematician in the south and a historian of unusual ability, will lecture in the Glenn auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. His subject will be "Bernard Shaw, Playboy and Prophet."

The third number on the program will be the presentation of Dr. William Beebe on Friday evening, February 8, at 8:15 o'clock. This noted scientist, author, and explorer will lecture on his most interesting subject, "Five Hundred Fathoms Down," a discussion of his underwater adventures.

Drew Pearson, well-known newspaperman, university professor, lecturer, and world traveler, will speak on Monday, March 11, at 8:15 o'clock. He has chosen as his subject, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," which will consist of an intimate story of the men at the head of our national government. The lecture will also contain amusing anecdotes and personal pictures of these men.

The concluding number of the program will be presented on Monday evening, April 8, at 8:15 o'clock, when follows Fred Boring, president, internationally famous educator, minister and writer, speaks on "The Objects of Education."

Rev. Alington was headmaster of Eton College from 1916 to 1933. In 1933 he was appointed dean of Durham cathedral, a position which he now holds. From 1921 to 1933 he was chaplain to King George.

Season tickets will be sold to the general public for the price of $1.50. For the individual presentations, season tickets may be secured from Dr. McLean or at the auditorium on the night of November 14. Emory students will be admitted free to each number by showing proper identification.

Officers of the Student Lecture Association for the present year are as follows: President, Dr. R. H. McLean; Chiles, secretary; and Warren Williams, treasurer. William Coles, vice president-elect, did not return to Emory this fall. Dr. R. H. McLean serves as faculty adviser of the association.

Cyclorama Could Bring City $100,000 Yearly, Auditor Says

By FRANK DRAKE.

Because of the amazing beauty and magnitude of the Cyclorama of the Battle of Atlanta, it could be developed into a $100,000 a year business, an auditor reported today to Acting Mayor Frank H. Reynolds Saturday, pointed out.

Artists now are further perfecting the illusion of realism between the famous painted canvas and the foreground and the new lighting system is installed the Cyclorama will be one of the most remarkable exhibitions of its kind in the world, it was said.

The auditor reported that the Cyclorama took in $7,000 in 1933 but that with proper promotion could bring in approximately $100,000 annually. The special report of the Auditor-Comptroller of the South, of which Charles J. Metz is president, highly commended the work now being done on the picture and urged the city to use the direction of J. J. Haverly, regional director of art projects, and Wilbur Kurtz, noted Atlanta artist.

The Cyclorama already is much improved and an effect startlingly realistic has been achieved.

The historical picture was painted many years ago by German artists who painted the scene from a point of view that was not the same as the one presented by the city. It was housed in a wooden building in Grant park but the city constructed a new stone, fireproof building a few years ago. Though the Cyclorama was remarkable, the realistic effect between the picture and the foreground was not the same as the one presented by the city.

But now Artist Joseph Victor Lorenz and Sculptor W. C. Sael have created a large number of soldiers, guns and bales of cotton out of plaster of Paris in direct proportion to the size of the figures and articles painted on the canvas. The perspective is carried out and the illusion is perfected.

Lorenz is creating groups of soldiers on this foreground to complete the scene on the canvas and in many instances parts of an object, or a man, is painted and the remainder is made of plaster of Paris. The figures of the group of northern soldiers charging up a hill toward a southern stronghold at the old brick house range in size from 12 to 24 inches according to the distance they are from the foreground.

The foreground itself has been changed. Originally it was flat but now it has hills and gullies, roads, torn and twisted trees and stumps as though blasted by the shells of the cannon, and a stream of water. All these things are exactly proportionate in color and size to corresponding scenes on the painting. The dirt of the foreground was carefully selected by Artist Lorenz and it matches in color the land painted on the canvas. Lorenz painted with vari-colored dirt just as the German artists did with oil on the canvas.

The stream of water running through the painting will be effected with mirrors in the foreground and the green grass along the banks and road is made of painted excelsior. The roadway itself is a work of art, almost the masterpiece of the entire project, for even at close examination it is difficult to distinguish the line between the painting and the real dirt.

In one spot of hot fighting, Lorenz and Sael are completing the action with 125 figures of Yankee soldiers—all caught in lifelike postures depicting strained action and the fury of battle. The artist spared nothing in creating a real effect. Many of the figures represent men with shot-gun flesh, pictured in the posture of death's agony. War is hell and the artists working on the Cyclorama are presenting an accurate and true picture of Atlanta's great battle.

The foreground is constructed up to the edge of the picture so that the action of the painting and in many instances parts of an object, or a man, is painted and the remainder is made of plaster of Paris. The figures of the group of northern soldiers charging up a hill toward a southern stronghold at the old brick house range in size from 12 to 24 inches according to the distance they are from the foreground.

The foreground itself has been changed. Originally it was flat but now it has hills and gullies, roads, torn and twisted trees and stumps as though blasted by the shells of the cannon, and a stream of water. All these things are exactly proportionate in color and size to corresponding scenes on the painting. The dirt of the foreground was carefully selected by Artist Lorenz and it matches in color the land painted on the canvas. Lorenz painted with vari-colored dirt just as the German artists did with oil on the canvas.

Six Persons Injured When Auto Hits Pole

Six persons were injured early Saturday morning when an automobile driven by Russell Barstead, 30, of 850 Gordon street, S. W., struck a telephone pole at Whitehall and Murphy streets.

Barstead was taken to Grady hospital suffering from a possible skull fracture. His condition was reported Saturday night as "fair."

Others injured in the accident are Miss Bernice Threlkell, 20, of 505 Lee street, S. W.; Frank Whaley, 21, 792 Park street, S. W.; Miss Alice Sibley and Miss Florence Sibley, sisters, of 505 Lee street, S. W.; and John Carnahan, of 500 Gordon street, S. W.

A charge of drunken driving was booked against Barstead and Whaley was charged with disorderly conduct when he was found by officers walking away from the scene of the accident.

LADY ON CAPITOL CAN'T HAVE BATH; TOO LOVELY AS IS

Georgia's state capitol is getting a cleaning on the outside—but the workmen are not going to bathe the lady who adorns the very tip of the dome.

L. T. Snider, superintendent of the building, says to brighten up her burnished copper dress would rob her of some of her natural loveliness. She stands 18 feet high.

However, the cupola pedestal on which she stands will be given a covering of gold paint.

The big job, Snider says, is cleaning the dome. At a distance it appears of modest size but in fact it is 77 feet square at the base.

Snider estimates it will take 100 gallons of paint to give the metal portion a new look.

Under arrangements with the FERA, the state is giving the structure its first cleaning since the $1,000,000 building was built back in 1889. The state is furnishing the equipment and certain materials for the cleaning with the federal relief administration labor.

Snider estimates without FERA the cleaning job would cost about $10,000, but the state will expend only about $3,000.

Some idea of the task of cleaning can be gathered from the building dimensions. The structure covers a ground area of 63,425 feet or about an acre and a half. It is 325 feet long and 172 feet wide.

MIDDLEBROOKS' RACE BASED ON COOPERATION

B. W. Middlebrooks, of Barnesville, who is running for congress in the fourth district as a farm-labor candidate, favors "the elimination of this heartless time called competition."

In his statement, Mr. Middlebrooks announces that the "co-operation" era, producing in such abundance and distributing with such fairness that never again will America be faced with this misery which has been repeated with each depression since the coming of the machine age and intensified since 1930.

Mr. Middlebrooks also favors immediate payment of the veterans' bonus.

FULTON DELEGATION SEEKS SUGGESTIONS

The Fulton county delegation in the next house and senate Saturday urged all persons interested in new local legislation make suggestions or petitions at an early date, as no last-minute legislative proposals can be given careful consideration or public hearing.

The Fulton county delegation to the next legislature, which meets in January, is composed of Senator-elect G. Everett Millican, Representative William B. Hartsfield, Representative-elect Ralph L. Ramsey and Representative-elect Bond Almond.

The delegation's statement follows: "The Fulton county delegation in the next house and senate respectfully urges all persons interested in any new local legislation, to submit the same for their consideration before the legislature meets in January.

"The delegation will be extremely cautious in giving support to any local legislation gotten up at the last moment and submitted in the rush and press of other legislative business when there is not sufficient time for careful consideration or public hearings."

FERA Student Program Aids 1,767 in Colleges of Georgia

Georgia boys and girls are getting a college education and at the same time doing creative and social work with the aid of scholarships from the federal emergency relief administration.

A total of 1,767 students, many of them otherwise unable to attend college, are being aided to work their way through 47 Georgia colleges by the FERA program.

The jobs are outside the general run of those open to college students—none of the scholarships call for work in campus dining rooms.

In one college the students do research in scientific laboratories, aid the weather bureau in making its daily survey, work with the forestry division of the state department of agriculture, or help in the city's recreational program.

Two students in another institution teach handicapped children in the Scottish Rite hospital, while at a third college students are making a survey of boy life under the direction of the local Scout executive. FERA officials believe this last project will be valuable in planning character, health and recreational programs for youngsters.

One college is making its extension service's office available to the surrounding community by employing a large number of students off the campus in extension work.

Character, need and ability to do college work are the requisites for obtaining a scholarship and FERA officials said the student quota in every college had been filled.

Each institution may request aid for as many as 12 per cent of its total enrollment on October 15, 1933, the amount paid each student not to exceed an average of $15 a month. The workers get 30 cents an hour and no one is allowed to earn more than $20 a month. Only non-profit colleges can participate in the educational program.

DAVISON BABY PHOTO WINS NATIONAL PRIZE

Little Miss Sue Stephenson, 506 West Walker street, College Park has just been awarded the fourth prize in the National Children's Photograph contest, as well as first local prize.

The photograph of this charming young lady was made in Davison-Pearson Company's studio. Thousands of photographs of children were entered in the contest from department stores in over 200 cities from Maine to California.

Awards were made for personality and character as reflected in photographs.

Can you fill in the blank spaces above with the numbers 1 to 9 so that the total will be 15 when added in every direction—up and down, crossways and diagonally? No number may be used more than once.

YES---Solve This Puzzle---Lots of Fun

Lots of fun? Of course it is. You and I know there's no indoor sport that compares with solving puzzles. It takes real cleverness to work a puzzle. Take this one for instance.

No one will have any trouble adding the figures 1 to 9. But take those figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 and arrange them so that they will total 15. Ah! That's different. Try your hand at it. Remember, the total of the figures in three spaces in any direction, upward, downward, crossways or diagonally, must always be 15.

No number may be used more than once and the figure must be in the center as printed above.

Here's Where You Fill Your Pockets With Dollars

Besides giving you the pleasure of this fascinating Puzzle it brings you the opportunity to share in the Big Cash Distribution. Cash awards of $1,000.00; $750.00; $350.00, etc., besides a beautiful Chevrolet Sedan Extra for Promptness are to be made.

Perhaps you have said, "Wouldn't I like to get my hands on $1,000.00?" Well, here you are. I have $1,000.00 that's going to someone, and it might just as well be you.

There's no need of reminding you of what you could do with $1,000.00. You know what you would do with it. Then you will have all the fun of spending it later on. Solve the puzzle now. If it occurs in the final cash awards, duplicate rewards will be given.

C. E. FREEMAN, INC., MOVES INTO PALAIS PEACHTREE BUILDING

Company Now Housed In One of the South's Finest Automobile Buildings

Tremendous Demand for the Ford V-8 and Their Own Popularity Make Move Necessary.

C. E. Freeman, president of the C. E. Freeman, Inc., local Ford dealers, announce the removal of the company to 452 Peachtree street, N. E., at the corner of Grant place. The building was formerly known as the Palais Peachtree.

This building was originally designed and built for the automobile business and at the time of its erection about eight years ago was considered the finest such plant in the entire country. It was publicized as such and was used as a model for similar buildings in other sections.

In their new home the company will be in a position to have the activities of their sales, service and parts departments all under one roof, this plan being necessary on account of the tremendous volume the company handles each year.

This move was made necessary by the tremendous demand for the Ford V-8 during the past 12 months, the company having completely outgrown their former quarters on Ivy street.

This move by Freeman gives Atlanta the distinction of being the only southern city with dealers all occupying major dealer plants. They are fully organized in all of their departments and Monday morning will find them ready to serve their clients in the same efficient manner as the past.

In their display rooms they will have on display a complete line of passenger cars and trucks. Their parts department and service have been equipped with new equipment which is of the very latest design to insure the utmost in efficiency to work they are called upon to do.

They announce a special celebration for all of this coming week and especially invite Atlanta motorists to visit them and inspect their plant and facilities.

Its Appeal
Typical Term Of Henry Ford

It is typical of Henry Ford that whenever he thinks of anything, he thinks of it in terms of its appeal, not to the few, but to the masses.

When he built an automobile, his dream was not to create a few expensive machines which would satisfy the vanity of the idle rich, but to create an automobile which would be inexpensive enough to be within the reach of millions, and serviceable enough to place a new tool of immeasurable value in the hands of humanity.

Correspondingly, when he thinks of art, he is not interested in art which can be made available only to the wealthy; his interest is in something which will bring new beauty and joy into the hearts of millions.

For that reason, the summer of music and entertainment which has recently been conducted in Ford Symphony Gardens is as typical of Henry Ford as the Ford motor car. Henry Ford has never been considered a patron of the arts in that he has never taken an active part in sponsoring artistic movements whose goal was to provide entertainment for the exclusive few. But, when an opportunity presented itself to bring the finer things in music and in art to the average person on a scale probably unprecedented in history, the great industrialist of Dearborn suddenly changed into such a patron of the arts as has never before existed.

During the space of three months, at the 1934 Century of Progress exposition, he brought to more than 1,000,000 people what was in the case of many, their first-hand contact with a symphony orchestra.

Under his sponsorship, the Detroit Symphony orchestra gave a 12-week series of twice-a-day, two-hour concerts, playing before an audience of more than 1,000,000. Supplementing the Detroit symphony the Ford exposition presented the "Woman's Symphony orchestra," of Chicago, the only organization of its kind in the world, which played two weeks on the same schedule. In addition to symphony music, the Mormon Tabernacle choir of 250 voices was transported from Salt Lake City, in order to present to world's fair visitors an opportunity to hear and see probably the most famous choir in America. And, changing to another form of art, for two weeks, in 30 performances, a ballet-pantomime whose cast included almost a hundred dancers, singers and musicians, headed by artists of international reputation, brought for the first time to the lives of many of its spectators, the true beauty and inspiration of the ballet.

Altogether, during the four-month season of Ford Symphony gardens more than 500 hours of entertainment were presented without cost to guests of the Ford exposition. In view of the average season of a symphony orchestra includes not much more than 150 hours of concerts, this figure means that in Ford Symphony gardens, the equivalent of more than three years of cultural entertainment were crowded into the space of a single summer.

But what is interesting to Mr. Ford, and what, according to his own statement, makes the effort worthwhile, is the fact that for the first time Main street, the farm, and the suburbs were placed on the same footing as Fifth Avenue and Lake Shore drives. The million or more who heard the Detroit Symphony, the hundreds of thousands who attended the concerts of the Mormon Tabernacle choir, the presentations of the ballet-pantomime, "A Century of the Dance," the concerts of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, or the numerous other performances in Ford Symphony gardens, because of the lack of admission prices and the resulting availability of the concerts for all, composed a true cross-section of America.

Important Records Of Chrysler Airflow Revealed in Tests

In the excitement engendered by the speed record run of an Airflow Chrysler imperial coupe on the Bonneville lake (Utah) course last August, and the subsequent economy run of the same car from Los Angeles to New York, some other very important records made by a sedan model of the same type were overlooked.

Examination of the speed figures achieved by this Airflow Chrysler imperial sedan reveals that it was able to come surprisingly close to the lighter coupe for distances up to 100 miles (the extent of the test given the sedan). In fact, the figures made by the larger and heavier car, equipped with the same motor as the record-holding coupe, would themselves have stood as stock car records but for the sensational performance of the coupe.

As a means of comparing the records made by the two models, the figures for both are given as: 10 miles, coupe 95.00, sedan 90.35; 25 miles, coupe 93.57, sedan 90.66; 50 miles, coupe 94.07, sedan 90.88; 100 kilometers, coupe 94.17, sedan 90.97; 50 miles, coupe 94.35, sedan 91.10; 75 miles, coupe 94.45, sedan 91.33; 100 kilometers, coupe 94.41, sedan 91.31; 100 miles, coupe 94.52, sedan 91.30.

The coupe, driven by Harry Harts and an alternate continued the record run for 24 hours, in which time it covered 2,026.32 miles, an average of 84.43 miles per hour. In the course of the 24 hours, it established 72 new closed stock car records for which official credit is given by the contest board of the A. A. A. On the economy run across the continent this same coupe attained an average of 18.1 miles per gallon of gasoline.

The fact that the sedan model traveled at speeds of better than 90 miles per hour for 100 miles and that it closely approached the coupe's record is hailed by Chrysler engineers as another proof of the soundness of the airflow design in diminishing wind resistance. Naturally the sedan offers slightly more air resistance than the coupe, as there are more square inches of body surface, as well as being heavier than the coupe. No records are available on the sedan's gasoline consumption for a distance as great as that traveled by the coupe on its transcontinental trip, but tests for lesser distances have proved that there is no substantial difference between the two body styles.

On the record runs, both coupe and sedan were equipped with the Chrysler automatic overdrive, a feature that was found to contribute greatly to engine efficiency.

and Miss Beverly Wheatcroft, chairman for teacher-training, will be in charge of the school. Standard training courses will be offered by instructors who include W. W. Davison, superintendent of the All Saint's Sunday school; the Rev. Charles Holding, rector of Holy Trinity church, Decatur; Canon W. S. Turner, of St. Philip's Pro Cathedral, and others.

Motorists Swamp U. S. Tire Service Station

As the result of the announcement of a "Budget Pay Plan" by the U. S. Tire Service here, motorists have literally swamped their station to secure their tire needs before the expected rise in tire prices. According to officials of the company, the rush exceeded anything the company has experienced in the last few years. Through the budget department, local motorists can purchase tires and other accessories on easy weekly or monthly payments. The above is an indication of the rush, when this picture was made, cars had filled their service shed and were backed up out on the drive in court.

This entry in the four capitals mortortrade the past week attracted attention all along its start on the "ruggedness run" it had already been in the hands of its original owner for 12 months, but in spite of its actual year's use it was put on the road and covered over 11,000 miles in 15 days without a hitch, and today Terraplane dealers throughout this section can demonstrate this car with two years' actual service already on it. It enables a prospective purchaser to see exactly how his car will perform after it has been in service two years. Upon arrival in Savannah this car was put on display in the showrooms of the Hudson-Terraplane dealer there.

Chevrolet Pulling Heavy Duty Loads

Here's one of the six Chevrolet trucks operated by the Montgomery & Atlanta Motor Freight Lines, a company hauling loads between Atlanta and Montgomery. This truck, powered by the Chevrolet six-cylinder motor, many times carries the capacity load of 16,000 pounds and, according to officials of the company, is proving with performance the ideal truck, no matter what the load. The above photo shows Hugh V. Benton, president, and R. H. Neill, agent of the trucking firm.

Present-Day Car Requires Different Winter Service

The season for winter warnings to motorists is here again, but the warnings vary somewhat from former years. Chevrolet, for instance, is emphasizing that the improvements in motor construction which produce superior power and speed have introduced new requirements for cold weather operation and protection.

It is especially in engine lubrication requirements that the modern automobile differs from earlier models, both summer and winter. Chevrolet owners are being told that it would be better to use light winter oils all year than to use summer oils after cold weather arrives. In short, it is asserted, there is virtually no danger of a motorist's using too light an oil; the real danger is that many drivers will cause serious trouble by using oils not light enough.

Grades of oil to meet the new conditions are known as 20-W and 10-W. Chevrolet recommends 20-W when the atmosphere runs between 75 degrees and 32 (freezing); 10-W for temperatures from freezing to 15 degrees below zero, and a mixture of 10-W and 10 per cent of kerosene for still lower temperatures.

The main change that makes advisable the use of lighter oils is the efficiency of crankcase ventilating systems, which prevent the thinning out of engine oil in use. Thinner oil, therefore, is required in the beginning to serve the modern high-speed engines, with their closer fitted bearings and heavier loads.

The modern theory is to use oil sufficiently light to flow immediately to all the bearings of a cold engine the moment it starts. The reason is that an engine is extremely liable to damage in the first few minutes of cold operation through lack of lubrication, if the oil is heavy and slow flowing.

The use of light oils as recommended by car manufacturers will, besides giving better lubrication, end one of winter's chief annoyances, that is, difficult starting. In subfreezing temperatures, when the starter fails to turn over the engine fast enough to start it, or can't turn it over at all, its failure is because the engine oil in the bearings and cylinders has become so thick that it binds the parts. In cold weather, too, battery power is reduced, and light oil, therefore, is a great battery saver for, to start the engine, the battery need work but a short time and at a reduced output.

GROWING OF WHEAT IN GEORGIA URGED
BY CHARLES HADEN

Charles J. Haden, chairman of the farm debt adjustment commission for Georgia, again urges the planting of wheat in Georgia. He compared the Georgia of before the War Between the States to the Georgia of today, and showed how the state is not growing enough foodstuff to support its population as it did then.

He said that under the federal Bankhead act Georgia was limited to about 800,000 bales of cotton each year, which is about one-half of the old output. At best this can yield hardly more than $300,000, which would not pay the state's gasoline bill, he pointed out.

According to Mr. Haden, hogs can be raised in Georgia, on peanuts grown in the state, up to 150 pounds in weight for less than it costs to grow the same hog in Illinois on corn. The commission is saving, by debt adjustments, about $50,000 a week for the farmers of Georgia, and is helping them to regain their feet through federal loans, he said.

New Austins
At Evans Motors

H. C. French, vice president and general manager of Evans Motors of Georgia, Incorporated, announces a new line of Austin cars, the Series 475, now on display at the company showrooms, 232 Peachtree. The new models carry improvements and refinements in the motor and chassis and body that are said to boost performance, while maintaining the remarkable gasoline economy for which this car is famous. Body lines have been changed slightly, and several lustrous new colors are now available. Mr. French reports that the new Series 475 Austin models include the de luxe coupe, the standard coupe, the business coupe, the pick-up truck, and the panel truck. Both the truck models, he added, have a one-fourth-ton capacity. All the body types are all-steel, unit-constructed, with a proven type of cable-controlled four-wheel brakes. Production of the new cars is in full swing now, and sales are expected to surpass the totals for previous series Austin cars.

Olds Sales Continue at High Peak

For the third time in five months Oldsmobile, in September, outsold all automobiles except the three lowest priced cars.

Registration figures just made public by R. L. Polk & Company disclose that again the Oldsmobile is firmly entrenched in the coveted fourth position in the automobile industry.

"From the time the 1934 Oldsmobile was introduced, it struck a popular chord in public favor," said D. E. Halston, vice president and general sales manager, in commenting on the September sales figures.

"Oldsmobile retail sales have doubled in 1934 as compared with the preceding year. Oldsmobile this year had its best September since 1928, and was only a few cars behind the sales of that year."

"Dealers all over the country are asking about the Oldsmobile franchise. In the first nine months of 1934, we have added 1,200 dealers, and many more are now seeking the Oldsmobile line."

Anticipating that the increase in Oldsmobile popularity will be even greater in the future, we are making definite plans so that production will be ample to supply all cars wanted.

"We are enthusiastic, having our expectations on definite arithmetic, that 1935 will be the greatest year in the history of the Oldsmobile division of General Motors."

Dodge Chief
Very Confident Of '35 Prospects

DETROIT, Nov. 3.—Belief that the automobile industry during 1935 will maintain and may materially improve its record of progress for this year as against 1934 was expressed by A. vanDerZee, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers Corporation, in addressing a group of advertising representatives in Detroit Thursday.

In citing facts which justified this feeling of confidence, vanDerZee said: "Last year showed an increase of 594,375 units of passenger car and truck production for the United States and Canada, including export, as against the record for 1932—an increase of 41.6 per cent. This rate of progress has been more than maintained this year, according to the most reliable estimates we can obtain—which are based on actual production figures for the industry as a whole for the first nine months of 1934."

"These estimates show, for 1934, a total production figure of 2,861,828 passenger cars and trucks for the United States and Canada, or an increase of 50.2 per cent over last year."

Mr. vanDerZee expressed the opinion that more and more the public is demanding automobiles from the standpoint of economical, comfortable and safe transportation. These fundamentals, he believes, constitute the formula that must be adopted by any manufacturing and sales organization that expects to compete successfully during the coming year.

"Another fact of at least equal significance is that the Dodge dealer organization, as of October 1, 1934, comprised a total of 4,645 dealers as against 3,483 dealers a year ago—which means that we have today the largest dealer organization in the 20 years of Dodge Brothers' history," added vanDerZee. "These and other facts—relating both to our own organization and the industry as a whole—make us feel highly enthusiastic regarding the outlook for 1935."

Sales Executive

Jack L. Briscoe, well-known automobile expert and sales executive, has been appointed sales manager for the National Motors, Inc., located at 394 Peachtree street, next door to the Medical Arts building. This concern is engaged in buying and selling high-grade used cars exclusively. The display ground of this company is concrete paved, allowing the demonstration of cars in all kinds of weather.

Fall Proper Time To Change Tires,
Engineers Report

From the viewpoint of both economy and safety, fall is the logical time of year to buy tires.

Fall is the economical period in which to buy tires because wear is negligible during winter months. This is evidenced by figures of the United States Rubber Company which show, for example, that a drop from the summer temperature of 70 degrees to the winter temperature of 30 degrees so reduces the rate of wear of a tire traveling 30 miles an hour that it may be expected to deliver one and a half times as much mileage. In other words, the motorist can purchase new tires in the fall, use them all winter, and still ride into the spring on equipment practically as good as new.

From the viewpoint of safety, fall is the logical time for tire purchase because this season ushers in the most dangerous driving period of the year. The only tire which offers security on wet, icy streets is one with a sharp tread. The great margin of safety which a new tire, with sharp tread, provides, in comparison to an old smooth tire is shown in the following figures prepared by the United States Rubber Company. A car equipped with new tires can be stopped from a 30-mile-an-hour speed on wet asphalt in 51 feet, whereas the same car equipped with smooth tires requires 76 feet, or 25 extra feet, which may be the margin between life and death.

EPISCOPAL SCHOOL OPENS WEDNESDAY

A training school for Episcopal church school teachers is to be opened at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the All Saints' parish house, it was announced Saturday. The school will be conducted under the auspices of the department of religious education of the diocese of Atlanta.

YALE BOVL. NEW HAVEN
Nov. 3.—(UP)—Call it a jinx, call it what you may, but Dartmouth, securing its first victory against Yale in 50 years, lost again today, 7 to 2, in the first of two games in the contest of the two eastern universities with the Indians undefeated and unscorred this season, a favorite to hang the first of the season on the Indians.

Yale broke into the open in the first period when dependable Morton of the Blue's formidable backfield men, with a series of brilliant passes, rushes and short passes to the visitors' 8-yard line. Captain Clare Curcio then kicked a field goal.

For the succeeding two and one-half periods, it was an open game. In the second period Yale, on rushes and passes, broke through the back to about 10 feet, brought the ball to

The third period, with Dartmouth trying to best Yale at its own aerial game, was almost productive for the Red Indians. They scored three touchdowns in its last four games. The mediocre improvement Head Coach Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond predicted and the Dartmouth was stopped at the 45-yard line.

From then on until the final quarter, it was a series of line bucks with neither team doing much.

The old, traditional jinx, nicknamed the "Twelfth Man" on the Dartmouth football team, was broken in the last period after the Indians were given a 100-yard kick from his own 2-yard line, turned the play into a safety and the only attempt by the visitors. ## THE SOPHOMORS

By Melvin Pazol.

Two great lines battled at Emory Saturday morning as the Sophomores and Juniors waged a scoreless tie, the second of the season for the Juniors, who are still leading the intramural league with one victory and two ties.

The only touchdown threat of the game came in the fourth quarter as the Sophomores marched from their own 45-yard line to the Juniors' 14. Cline and Barton led the way to this point, but their teammates were unable to help them break through the solid defense put up by the emattled Juniors.

The Juniors took over the ball here and Puleston ran it 20 yards. On the and back to the Junior 20-line; but still no score resulted. The play of the two lines took all honors away from the backs.

Conyers, West and Coxwell played best for the Sophomores. For the Juniors, Conyers and Reichert are best.

Eddie Moore Is Named Manager of Crackers for Next Year

MAN'S MADE VICE PRESIDENT SITUATION 'SET-UP'

Spencer Abbott To Be Retained in Advisory Capacity.

By Jimmy Jones.

After several weeks of deliberation, directors of the Atlanta Baseball Corporation finally met in concave Friday and decided on the Crackers' official setup for the season of 1935.

The announcement, officially released for publication today in three installments:

First, that Eddie Moore, the club's third baseman and an important leader of the Crackers' stirring 1934 finish, will be the team's manager, the appointment becoming effective as of October 1, 1935.

Secondly, that Earl Mann, the popular Atlanta who has risen rapidly in the baseball business, has been elevated to the position of vice president and secretary, which means that he will be the club's nominal president, in charge of club affairs, with power vested by the directors.

Third, that Spencer Abbott, the club's manager for the major part of last season and its acting president after the death of Wilbert Robinson, has been elected an advisory vice president. Abbott's exact duties will be determined by the directors at a later date.

SITUATION CLEARED.

This trio of announcements, while not entirely unexpected, clears up a situation which has been speculative in the minds of the public since Moore was installed as playing manager near the season's close and spurred the lagging Crackers to nine victories in the last 10 games played.

That Moore would be named manager for 1935 and Mann promoted was expected following the close of the season. And it was also roundly hinted that Abbott either would return in an official capacity, or would be given other duties.

In appreciation of Spencer's zeal in assembling the present roster of players and his aggressiveness in steering the Crackers to a first division finish in the first half for the first time, the directors have decided to return to him the honor of the honorary position by the club directors.

The fact that he had previously signed a contract as manager prior to the temporary change automatically means that he will receive the salary so stipulated for 1935.

READY FOR DEALS.

The directors acted as promptly as possible so that the new roster of executives, Moore and Mann, could proceed at once with the important business of discharging the club's immediate duties, as well as the necessary player deals for 1935.

Moore and Mann will represent the club at the national association meeting at Louisville, November 21, where they expect to consummate several player deals which will bring to the Crackers at least one slugging outfielder, a hard-hitting second baseman, and possibly a pitcher, these being considered the club's major needs right now to bring a winner here.

Several players on the present Crackers roster who were somewhat disappointing last year, are expected to be used as bait in these deals. And a cash budget for purchasing players has been prepared, and such legislative issues as are favored by the Atlanta club.

OPPOSE SPLIT SEASON.

They are, notably, amplification of the present plan of playing 15 games to admit 17 men, or to extend the limit on Class A players to 11 such players, instead of the present restriction of 10 A players, either by the addition of the extra man or reducing the requirement of six rookies to five.

The Atlanta delegation also will campaign for the split season plan, which is rapidly losing favor, and discuss the advisability of considering the Shaugnessy system of determining the champion among the first four clubs, has hitherto been looked upon somewhat coldly by the Southern league managers.

Whether or not the Atlanta group will oppose it depends largely upon the practicality with which it is considered. Larry Gilbert, of New Orleans, is said to be a booster for the Shaugnessy plan.

The new Atlanta officials need no introduction to the Atlanta group. MAN'S HOME PRODUCT.

Earl Mann is strictly a home product, having learned the intricacies of baseball business management from the ground up to speak, first as a concession employee at Ponce de Leon park, then office man and road secretary of the Crackers.

He left his native home in 1929 to serve as business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and last year, he was returned as business manager of the club, winning popular favor in that position by his efficiency and ability to "motivate" the team.

Eddie Moore, the new manager, likewise may be considered of Atlanta origin, since he broke in as the Crackers' shortstop back in 1922 and then advanced successively to Pittsburgh, New York, Boston, Brooklyn and Cleveland, from which club he came to the Crackers last May after 10 years as a major and Class AA infielder.

The official announcement of the new setup was made by Hughes Spalding, acting for the directors.

Western Reserve Loses to Buckeyes

Classed as one of the fastest professional football teams in the city, Western Reserve Athletic Club meets the Lion Tamers from Moline Park Sunday afternoon at Ponce de Leon.

It starts at 3 o'clock.

R. Bennett, coach and manager of the "Heights" team, is proud of his work and has scheduled games through New Year with outstanding grid clubs in the city and nearby vicinity.

The Lion Tamers are one of the toughest foes on the schedule. They have a splendid record among local fans on the gridiron and in other forms of athletics. The season they have a good percentage of their football material back from last season.

A small admission is charged to the games.

New Cracker Bosses - - - Good Luck, Boys!

Having tried one experienced setup after the other without notable success, the directors of the Atlanta baseball club fell back upon younger men in an effort to strike a winning combination for 1935. In the photo above you are witnessing through the cameraman's lens the mutual congratulations between Earl Mann (the smiling young man at the left), who has been named vice president, actively in charge of the club's business affairs, and Eddie Moore, the aggressive third baseman whose inspired leadership in the last season rush of the Crackers won him the managerial appointment. Both announcements are made in today's sports section, along with that of Spencer Abbott as advisory director of the club. Staff photo.

INDIANA HELD TO TIE SCORE

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 3.—(AP)—An alert Indiana University football team led by Ray Fox, elusive sophomore quarterback, smothered Iowa's hopes for a Western conference comeback by outplaying the Hawkeyes today as the eleven battled to a scoreless tie.

The last Hoosier scoring threat ended on the Iowa 2-yard line in the fourth period when Reed Kelo, Indiana center, tried a place-kick. The kick was too low and to the right of the goal posts.

The Iowans showed flashes of power, but they never threatened to score, and only on rare occasions carried the ball past midfield. Dick Crane's running and punting were high lights of the Hawkeye attack.

Ross, Hackney T. C. U. SMOTHERS Will Meet BAYLOR BEARS Thursday

Black Jack Ross, "public enemy No. 1" of the mat game, will meet Honey Roy Hackney, one of the most popular wrestlers ever to appear here, in the main match of Jason Thompson's card at the city auditorium Thursday night.

Ross was suspended a couple of weeks ago for using a bare knuckle, but he is back in the ring again, and he is expected to win the match. Hackney is a clean and smooth worker who can handle himself against anybody.

Matchmaker Thompson believes Hackney, one of the cleverest light-heavyweights ever to appear here, is capable of beating Ross, a very tough and experienced fighter. Hackney's record is 12 wins and 1 loss, while Ross has 11 wins and 1 loss.

BIRDS PREPARE FOR CATHOLIC SUNDAY

Petrels Journey to Washington To Battle Favored Cardinal Team.

By Jack Troy.

Those Oglethepe Petrels, who clicked like a 75-cent waxy against Erskine Saturday, will get back on firm ground Monday and try to resurrect the timing of their intricate play.

Triple passes, reverses and such were just so much smoke in the wind Saturday at Greenwood, S. C., because the plays of this type, where the ball changes hands as much as four times, call for substantial footing and perfect timing. The ground was very soft and sandy.

The fairgrounds gridiron, where the game was played, had seen too many cows in its time. And not so long before there had been a circus. The elephants further softened the playing field.

And so it was that Captain Frank Mitrick, plunging mightily for the second touchdown, slipped and fell heavily on his shoulder. The injury, though not serious, is very painful.

FOR MITRICK.

Mitrick will not be lost for the Catholic game in Washington Saturday, however. Coach John Patrick will allow the great fullback and captain to take it easy all week.

Trainer Stacy Rowell already has started "baking" the injury and taking the soreness out.

The Petrels board a rattler Thursday afternoon bound for the capital. There is only one other injured player. Belton Clark, quarterback, slipped and fell exactly as Mitrick did and has a shoulder injury.

With the Catholic game coming up, the Oglethepe Petrels are no longer called Pets, for short. They'll start preparing Monday with a desperate hope that they'll be able to stay on the same field with Catholic.

And the reason is this: Holy Cross 17; Catholic 6. Catholic 62; University of Baltimore 31; Manhattan 0.

HIGH SCORERS.

Catholic has a high scoring machine and is likewise strong defensively. Chick Meehan's Manhattan team is not used to being kicked around in any such manner. And Holy Cross, which has been one of the holy terrors of the gridiron season, was unopposed in its goal line inviolate against Catholic.

It is very likely that Frank Tuppitt will get a chance to pass more often as a result of the Erskine game. Few people have ever had the opportunity to see a prettier pass than Tuppitt threw to Cecil Moon.

The toss, thrown in side-arm fashion, traveled 50 yards in the air and landed in the hands of Cecil Moon, who was downed by Al Whitesides, mighty midge of the Erskine backfield.

PURYEAR GREAT.

Jack Puryear, unshackled at last of the Erskine team, was the star of the game. He collected a total of 104 yards. Puryear is a sophomore quarterback and he brings back punts like a machine gunning for All-American honors. Puryear punts and passes well.

Catholic likely will rule the favorite Saturday, but the Oglethepe Petrels have a chance to win. The game will be a big part.

Catholic has no stronger line than Howard, whom Oglethepe battled to a scoreless tie and almost defeated. It is doubted that the Washington club has two sets of backs in whom rest more capabilities than in the Oglethepe backs.

It will be a great intersectional duel. Oglethepe, having won five games, is in the mood to make it six.

MORRIS BROWN LOSES, 20 TO 0

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 3.—Kentucky State continued its march to the colored national football championship by taking to the air to win a decisive victory over the unbeaten Morris Brown eleven by the score of 20 to 0 on Alumni field here today.

The passing combination of Kendall and Harding went into action competing for the lead. The Wolf verities their first defeat in two years, but the Morris Brown line put up a fight.

Every touchdown made by the Kentuckians was made through the air with Wood and Reed, halfback and end, respectively, alternating with Harding on the receiving end.

Within the first seven minutes of play they had scored the first touchdown. In the closing moments of play they added the final touchdown, with Edwards plunging for the extra point to make it 20 to 0.

Morris Brown threatened twice, but the stellar performance of Captain White at center and Bumpas at guard for Kentucky stopped the Atlanta team.

Coach Kean and his able staff of assistants admitted after the game that the line play of the Morris Brown outfit was the best they have watched this year. But with the exception of Sam Jones, backfield star for Morris Brown, the backfield never got started.

Brown played a good hard clean game and fought to the last moment but the aerial attack of the Kentuckians proved their undoing.

Hedkin, Guthren Top Avondale Card

Action aplenty is promised for mat fans Monday night at the Avondale arena when two popular heavyweight wrestlers will clash in the main match of the evening.

The card starts promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Elmer Guthren, of Oklahoma City, will tangle with Alex Hedkin, Scandia champion, in the headline.

Their rough bout is slated for 90 minutes, best two out of three falls.

The semi-windup will be between White Patterson, who hails from Panhandle, and John Dameron, the Kirkwood terror, in an hour bout.

Reserve seats can be obtained by calling 9172. Promoter Anderson announces that due to the disapproval of former referees, he will referee all of the evening's matches. But some day someone will come

KENNEL BARKS AND YELPS by RALPH MCGILL

They are by Hillsman Walters' great dog, New Deal. Hillsman is one of the finest dog men in Georgia. He resides at Albany, Ga. Hillsman and his boys are always popular attendants at the southern amateur trials.

He can do more with a dog than most people. Charles Jordan, who owns the two setter pups, writes that he will start them in the trials this season. He also plans to start Land's Dot, a great all-age pointer. He will have a derby dog also.

A picture of Land's Dot, which will appear in a later issue, the pups having won the honor this week, shows her to be a beautifully marked and well-built bitch. She makes a beautiful point and the form she showed for the picture is really remarkable.

Charles Jordan is a veteran dog man and sportsman. He has judged from Canada to Florida and a visit to Charles and his friends at Monticello is a visit to remember.

The Monticello sportsman has the club, "Camp Suits-Us," and it suits any one who visits. They took up the singing at Camp Suits-Us is wonderful. No one can really sing but it is one place where everyone tries. And to hear the celebrated Mr. Hunter Pope sing the song about Johnson grass is to hear something.

The Monticello dogs are always formidable entries in the southern amateur trials. This season there should be some 15 or more dogs entered from that city.

"I don't know if I will win," writes Charles Jordan, "but I want to have some fun and give the boys some trouble."

PERSON'S BONFIRE.

Roy Person, of Monticello, has a great setter derby dog for the trials this year. It is Bonfire, the puppy Hunter Pope sired. The puppy was born last year and then went on to set a record.

The puppy won the puppy and derby stakes at Selma; captured the puppy stakes at Camp Knox and was second at Aiken.

Person has some other setters to enter this year. But Bonfire will be his chief entry.

Frank Ezell also has some setters to enter.

POPE'S SWEDISH DOGS.

Hunter Pope has his friends stopped this with some new blood. He has some puppies which were sired by an imported setter from Sweden, where the dog was rated the champion.

The Swedish puppies are the first ones to come to Georgia as directly as these. They are said to be fine big puppies with good bones and big, handsome muzzles and heads.

At least one of the Swedes will start in the trials at Albany. Pope is hardly speaking to his old rivals, Jordan, Ezell and Persons, now that he has imported royalty in his kennels. These pups will be watched with interest by all bird dog men in Georgia.

THE DOG SHOWS.

Dog shows are in full swing in New York and on Long Island. The southern shows, of course, do not start until later.

There are, however, a number of dogs from Atlanta which will be entered in the trials at Albany. The "world series" for dogs, the Westminster show.

There dogs will be entered in the western and mid-western circuits and also in the Florida shows.

A SCHNAUZER'S JAWS.

One dog owner in Atlanta likes Schnauzers. He has three of them in a large back yard. They have recently found they could, with a little effort, go through small strips on a wood fence and escape. The strips are an inch and a quarter wide and a quarter of an inch thick but the Schnauzers chew them in two.

It does not seem to want to go anywhere.

BAER THE BEST.

"Who'll lick Baer? No one but Baer and the heavyweight champion. As a fighter Baer can rule the heavyweight division for the time being. As a champion, it's just a question of time before the forced inactivity that goes with the title beats him."

"Baer can knock out men like Hamas and Laskey in three rounds at the most. That's the Baer we saw against Schmeling and Carnera. But that's not the Baer we are going to see in the new time out, and the time after that."

"By next June he'll have fought two fights in three years. That's what licks you, I know. I never cracked up in the ring. I cracked up in training, trying to make up in six weeks all the work I hadn't done in a year. Your body won't stand it. You try to do too much in too short a time. You crack up."

THEY'LL LEARN.

"Some day a heavyweight champion is going to be smart enough to demand a title fight every six months. He's going to fight once in the winter and once in the summer. He's going to get that winter fight if he has to pay money out of his own pocket for it. Then he'll last as a champion."

The way things are, Dempsey isn't interested in promoting a fight for Baer after the champion completes his contract with Madison Square Garden in December.

"Nope," he said. "Not against the kind of fighters that are around now. But some day someone will come business, the thrills of brand-new fatherhood, and the fun of furnishing the first real home he's ever had.

He isn't even thinking about the fight game. That is not until someone starts talking about it. Then he's the same old Dempsey.

BRONCOS KEEP RECORD CLEAR

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Striking with rapier-like thrusts for three great touchdown marches, Santa Clara's unbeaten Broncos set California's once-feared Bears tumbling to a 20-to-0 defeat today in a game capped by a huge free-for-all fist battle between the rival students.

Fifteen minutes after the Bears had been routed with the most one-sided beating since Southern California set them back, 27 to 7, two years ago, rosters were tossing punches at each other on the field.

The Broncos galloped to touchdown ground for the first time in a game period, with De Rosa, sub left half, running the last 33 yards on an off tackle slash.

They pounded 85 yards down the field in the third. With line smashes until Frank Sobrero, left half, faked a pass and then ran 13 yards to score.

In the fourth period Sobrero made another touchdown from California's 47-yard line on faked pass.

Marching in out of the cane brakes, an iron man with cement in his soul, fired for fights. I'll want that fellow, want to be around him."

It sounded as though he were talking about another Dempsey.

TIGHT BATTLES BEING WAGED IN PIN LOOPS

Paramount, Theatrical Printing Hold Lead in Motion Picture League.

The Motion Picture League bowlers are witnessing one of the best races of any duckpin league in the city, with Paramount and Theatrical Printing Company tied for first place and the other six teams showing marked improvement.

Epperson, of Theatrical Printing Company, leads the league in average with a mark slightly in excess of 105 for the full amount of games that have been bowled to date.

Sid Laird had the high series of the league for the new season when he amassed a 362 last Tuesday.

The Gulf Refining Company duckpin league is one of the most popular intercompany groups to bowl at the moment. It has a ten team, two of which are composed of women, makes up the roster of the league.

Cole, of Gulf Refining, led in the individual scoring last Wednesday as he spilled 342 pins in the three games that were bowled, and is credited with a 114 average.

Miss Johnnie Carter had an average of 88 for the evening and led the fair pin smasher in scoring.

Frank Burns is largely responsible for the showing that the Fox Manufacturing Company is making as it holds a single game advantage for the lead in the Capital City Duckpin league. Burns holds an average that is close to the 104 mark.

Wells, of S. E. Brewing Company, will be a tower of strength on the offense of his team and is invaluable to his squad, as they are in second place in the league. Wells' average of 103 puts him in second place in the individual averages of the league.

Regular week-end sweepstakes will be continued at the bowling alleys and it is altogether likely that a trophy or some similar award will be presented for the high score each Saturday evening in the handicap event. Duckpin and tenpin meets are both to be staged.

Fire Insurance took the lead in the Merchants league after a gallant fight up the ladder and now hold a two-game advantage. Frank Reeves, genial pilot of the Insurers, is largely responsible for the splendid bowling of the team as his pep talks and performances have urged his teammates to bowl their best games.

Ketchum Leader In 'Y' Volley Ball

Doy Ketchum ascended the throne of king of the Ham league volleyballers at the "Y" for the week with 22 points. Jake Hill closely follows with 20 points. H. C. Smith and Mark Rivers are tied for third place with 19 points each.

A banquet will be held November 12 in the "Y" dining room for the volleyball men. Awards will be given to victors in the current Ham league.

TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS

Congressional elections will be held in 47 states Tuesday, with the chief issue in each state being the New Deal. From present indications it appears the results will again verify the prediction that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation."

In the Maine election in September the democrats won two of the three seats in the house, re-elected a governor and came within a few thousand votes of defeating the republican senator. These results, in a normally strong republican state, came as a sweeping endorsement of the New Deal.

Four hundred and thirty-two representatives will be named in Tuesday's elections, and democratic congressional leaders are confident they will preserve the two-thirds majority now held in the house. Even if a few seats are lost, which is probable, it will be counted as a democratic triumph, because it has been the invariable rule for the administration to lose some of its strength in congress in the off-year elections.

The loss in strength is generally brought about as the result of conditions developing within the states and not come as a result of dissatisfaction with administration policies. This is illustrated by the situation this year in California and Nebraska, in which it is probable some of the democratic incumbents will be displaced. In the former, the swing away from Sinclair may mean the defeat of some democratic representatives, while the bitter fight among the democrats of Nebraska over Governor Bryan's senatorial candidacy may cause losses in that state.

With the senate, the situation is different and the probability is that the democratic strength will be increased by eight or nine seats. The republican senators who seem slated to be replaced by democrats are chiefly those who would certainly have been defeated in the 1932 landslide had they been up for re-election then.

As the election has grown closer, the democratic leaders have become more confident, while the attitude of the republicans has undergone a significant change. During the early period of the campaign the republicans put forward claims of sweeping gains. More recently, and especially since the Maine election, they have changed their tune and let it be known that their efforts in the campaign would be largely for the purpose of paying the way for the 1936 elections.

Indications are that the approaching elections will register as impressive a democratic victory as resulted in the fall of 1932, when the republicans went down to the most disastrous defeat in the history of the party.

WHY STREETS ARE DANGEROUS

Thoughtful comment on traffic conditions in Atlanta is made by George T. Bryant, a new resident of the city, in a communication appearing on the opposite page.

While questioning the wisdom of some of the traffic ordinances, Mr. Bryant lays particular stress on the necessity for more vigorous enforcement, and expresses the opinion that "what this city needs is a concentrated educational program, whereby every possible facility would be used to impress upon the citizens the elements of safe and sane automobile and truck driving." Every Atlantian who has given even the slightest thought to the increasingly dangerous conditions existing on the city's streets will realize the wisdom of the position taken by this newcomer. As he points out, there is no one single phase of these conditions that is responsible for the tragic toll being taken in dead and wounded as the result of preventable crashes. Rather it is necessary that there be regulations more in keeping with requirements, more rigid enforcement and a more intelligent use of the public thoroughfares by both automobilists and pedestrians.

There has been marked improvement in the work of the traffic squad during the past few months, but there is still much that could be done to improve existing conditions. Too many patrolmen lounge on corners when they should be alertly on the job directing traffic; thousands of infractions are permitted to go unnoticed when they occur in plain sight of officers, and speeding and improper lighting of cars are common sights throughout the city at all hours of the day and night.

The traffic officers are pitifully few in view of the task with which they are charged—but at least some of them need waking up. In fairness to the mounted traffic officers, the slothful members of the police force do not seem to be included in their ranks. Rather it is the patrolmen who either wander around, lackadaisically marking the tires of parked cars, or loaf on corners at intersections where traffic jams are not infrequent.

The tragic loss in life in Atlanta during October from automobile accidents should wake up the people to the seriousness of conditions on the streets. Every autoist should realize—and if he does not of his own accord, he should be made to—that violation of the safety ordinances means danger to himself and to others.

It would be impossible for Rip Van Winkle to have slept so long in this modern age, with an auto horn sounding ever so often.

MORE DOLLARS FOR HOMES

The conversion of the First Mutual Building & Loan Association, of Atlanta into the First Federal Savings & Loan Association, to operate under a federal charter, serves to attract attention to the widespread benefits to a community possible under the act creating the new type of home mortgage concerns.

Paramount among these benefits is the increase in the amount of money available for the construction of new homes and the creation of a new and safe investment for savings.

Home ownership in Atlanta is far below the average in other American cities of similar size because of the shortage in the past of mortgage money for use in the construction of residences. The local building and loan associations have been willing to finance such construction but have been unable to do so because their capital was tied up in loans and it has been practically impossible to secure new capital.

The associations that become federal savings and loan concerns will be able to call upon the government for three times as much money as is represented in their capital stock. Thus a concern with $250,000 working capital can increase their loans to a million dollars.

In order to encourage investment in the stock of the new associations, the government guarantees the investor against loss up to $5,000. In view of this insurance against loss, and the relatively high dividends that are paid by building and loan associations, this insurance makes such investments second to none in soundness and profitability.

The new federal associations bear the same relation to the state-chartered institutions as do federal banks to state banks, being operated under the direct supervision of the federal government, and the insurance plan is similar to that under which the government guarantees depositors in national banks from loss.

A start toward building a financial structure that would not only encourage the building of new homes but attract those who wanted to put their money to work safely and profitably, was begun during the Hoover administration and has been continued as a chief activity of the New Deal.

First there was created the Federal Home Loan Bank, the relation of which to the building and loan associations is identical with that of the Federal Reserve bank to the commercial banks of the country; then followed the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the charter of which provides for the organization of federal savings and loan associations; and last the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation was created to further encourage investment in the new associations.

fore the present rigid laws controlling their operation were enacted. Every dollar invested in one of the new federal associations will be as safe as if it were in the national treasury, and will earn handsome dividends. Local capital is certain to be attracted, bringing a large increase in the amount of money available for home building loans. If this is not sufficient to meet the demand, the federal treasury can be called on to add three dollars to each local dollar so invested.

Many billion dollars of the country's wealth is invested in home mortgages. These investments represent so important a part of the nation's financial structure that the addition of federal funds to the working capital of the building and loan associations, and the added safety to investments in them, is certain to have a stabilizing effect on all sound investments.

Money put in the new type of association will be as safe as that in savings accounts or postal savings, and will earn twice as much. Every Atlantian who takes his savings out of hiding and puts them to work in this way, will not only prove himself a wise investor but will render his community a valuable service in making certain an increase in home ownership.

Tipping hat checkers costs an individual an average of $50 a year, says a statistician. It's mainly an overhead expense.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

Two important changes in southern farm methods have been urged for upward of 20 years—comprehensive diversification, which includes the production of livestock of all kinds, food and feed, and "living at home"; and improvement in the grade and length of cotton staple.

These changes become more insistent as the years pass, not only because we are gradually losing our export business in cotton, as other cotton-producing countries increase their production of the lower grades and short staple, but on account of the rapidly increasing production and use of rayon as a substitute for cotton.

Comparatively unknown a few years ago, the use of rayon is now general, and the improvements achieved in its manufacture presage still wider uses for this material as production increases and its price touches lower levels.

In a booklet entitled "The Farm Chemurgic," recently issued by the Chemical Foundation of New York City, William J. Hale tells of the introduction of synthetic silk-like fiber as a substitute for natural fiber, and terming it a great conquest by the organic chemist, paints a rather gloomy picture of the future for cotton. Quoting from a chapter in this booklet, Mr. Hale says:

As early as 1889 in France we may record the first successful attempts in this direction by Count Hilair de Chardonnay. In 1905 Cross and Bevan in England introduced the viscose type of artificial silk, commonly called rayon. By 1910, at Marcus Hook, N. J., our production of viscose silk was under way. By 1926 our plants were producing 60,000,000 pounds of a then 200,000,000-pound output of the world's artificial silk. In 1931 we produced 144,000,000 pounds of the world's 480,000,000-pound output. In 1933 we manufactured 208,000,000 pounds of artificial silk made up of 76 per cent of viscose silk, 18 per cent of acetate silk and 6 per cent of other types. The world's total output in 1933 was 680,000,000 pounds.

The basis of silk-like fiber is alpha-cellulose. Cotton consists of 98 to 99 per cent pure alpha-cellulose. When wood is used as the starting material, the lignin, pectinase and hexonase, constituting about one-third of its weight, are removed in digesters, and finally an alpha-cellulose of from 97 to 98 per cent purity is obtained. The cost of this latter is never over 4 cents per pound. Hence artificial silk-like fiber is based upon a price for alpha-cellulose which forever forbids cotton, in substitution thereof, to rise materially over 5 cents a pound on our present-day valuation. In other words, alpha-cellulose from cheaper sources spells the doom of cotton plantations, except where cotton filament as such as demanded in the textile industry.

The writer is correct in his position that cotton can never compete with wood as the starting material from which to manufacture rayon and other synthetic silk-like fibers, and to just such an extent that these synthetic fibers displace cotton in the manufacture of garment material. That other uses may be found for the silk-like synthetic fibers is certain.

There are certain uses for cotton which the synthetic fibers cannot supplant, and these particular uses call for the highest grade of a long-staple cotton, such as American cotton growers can exclusively grow, instead of average grade short staple, of which there is now a superabundance produced, both at home and abroad.

—but the output of rayon has been increasing at the rate of 50 per cent every year, and if that rate continues, it is something to think about now and take measures to meet the problem that will eventually confront us for solution.

Too long the south has gone ahead without thought for the future. Cotton growers must realize that the all-cotton plan is a dismal failure, and the sooner universal adoption of comprehensive diversification, and production of only long-staple cotton supplants the present farm plan, the better it will be for farmers and the entire south.

They keep on tinkering with the working week but thank goodness they are unable to do anything with the 24-hour day.

NEW PROTECTION FOR DUCKS

The opening of the duck hunting season in northern and western sections of the country brings reassuring information of the strict enforcement of new laws, operative for the first time this year, enacted by various states in the effort to stop the threatened annihilation of game birds in the United States.

In Connecticut the new regulations reduce the number of days on which ducks can be hunted, the bag limit, and prohibit hunting before full daybreak, thus eliminating shooting during the half hour or so when the worst slaughter has taken place in the past. The game department of the state government points out that the regulations are adopted "in the hope that they will meet the undoubtedly serious problem of conserving the ducks of the nation."

The drouth has dried up much of the marshland of the central northern United States and Canada, where the bulk of the country's migratory ducks breed. It has destroyed much of the natural feed along the important central migratory routes. Many of the regions in which the ducks used to stop to feed and loaf during the southward flights are barren this year. Despite the progress that has been made in the establishment of refuges along the routes during the last few years, many of the natural resting spots are not so protected, and those that remain after the drouth will, in all probability, be heavily shot over.

The new regulations in force in Missouri are so strict the Kansas City Star is led to observe that "when Mr. Duck Hunter of Missouri loads up his motor caravan with guns, ammunition, duck calls, decoys, shooting togs, boots, boats, etc., he should check carefully to see if his duck lawyer is included, because the new rules for duck hunting this year call for the services of a lawyer as highly specialized as ever was demanded by the income tax regulations or the liability insurance laws."

The Kansas City newspaper feels, and not without cause, that the average hunter would be thrown into a fret at the appearance of a flock of ducks, in view of the bag limit of five, "which may be all of one species, or they may represent different species of the restricted classes—but in no case may the total number of ducks belonging to these 11 species exceed five." Our Kansas contemporary evidently feels that the average hunter would bang down on a flock, regardless of variety—hence the suggestion of a duck lawyer as part of the equipment of a hunting party.

American ducks have been decreasing in numbers for many years as the result of the inroads of hunters and the destruction of their breeding places in the north-west and Canada, and this year millions will die from lack of food during the migration over the drouth-swept states of the west.

Georgia's experience in protective laws covering deer and quail has demonstrated the effectiveness of such regulations to increase game birds. Similar laws must be enacted either by the federal government or by the various states frequented by ducks, if their annihilation is to be prevented.

A gardener in Virginia has succeeded in crossing the onion with the cabbage. We imagine it's about as deadly a crossing as a railroad crossing.

The Dalton Citizen doesn't think much of the chronic kicker. Somebody should kick the chronic kicker.

Weather forecasts cost the government $3,000,000 a year. Well, at least it is not conducted by fair weather friends.

It's a pity that profane isn't one of the dead languages.

Five Years In Green Hell

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN,
European Correspondent of The Constitution.

In the mysterious depths of the South American jungle where no modern white man has yet penetrated, lives a race of men and women of gigantic stature, whose edifices, which seem to be something of a cross between Egyptian pyramids and our own metropolitan skyscrapers. This race has either been lost contact with the outside world by accident, or its rulers are aware of the drawbacks of our civilization and have therefore decided to avoid all contact with the world we know.

Not very much is known of their habits and customs. Nobody has the faintest notion what language they speak. Only one thing seems certain. They are not negroes or Indians. They are white and therefore all likelihood descendants of European settlers. But of what European? Are these strange people who hide themselves behind a screen of thousands miles thick the sons of Spanish conquistadors, or was there a settlement in America prior to the discovery by Christopher Columbus? And how can the world find out about them?

I asked these questions of Major G. M. Dyott, the man who has just returned to Europe after a five years' journey into those impenetrable mysteries of South America. Five years' travel, pushing on every day, with the grim determination of the English explorer, and he did not permit himself a moment's rest in the district where the unknown tribes are located. He did not come within a thousand miles of the phantom cities of fabulous beauty.

Major Dyott had to admit failure. Double failure, in fact, for the real object of his daring enterprise had been the quest for Major Fawcett and his son John, who disappeared ten years ago in the Mato Grosso region and of whom no trace has been found since. Dyott did find traces of Fawcett's party. He is certain to have camped on his trail. But he is almost as certain that Fawcett has perished. That the son was killed, on that point there is no doubt.

Five years in the jungle have streaked the hair of Major Dyott heavily with grey. His face is burnt a deep red-brown. He is lean to the point of haggardness, but his muscles are hard as steel. The Mato Grosso in which so many men have disappeared without leaving a trace could not conquer this man. Yet the baffling jungle came near snapping his iron nerve.

"I've been in the jungle for five years," he admitted to me. "Five years of uninterrupted vigilance is apt to kill the strongest. I had to be on the alert night and day. Not only are there many places to sit in judgment on a radio program. There were men who cited the exclusive Union League Club and had answered the advertisement for a thrill, describing himself unprintably as a member of the club. He is in that ever lived. Further back there is a mechanic dressed in his neatest best and pitifully anxious to please. He had said in his letter, 'I am a member of the club.' The one thing that the depression's done for me is it's improved me in this regard. I'm meaner and crabbier now than ever."

There were men who cited their wives as their best references, a man who had said simply "I am a banker" and another who had made all his money in the stock market. Some were out for fun, the majority were hungry for jobs and one of these said, "I'll do anything to be mean to get on a pay roll again."

SMILE AND GET FIRED

The instructions to this congress of sour nugs are simple. "If you laugh during the rehearsal of the program, you're fired." The orchestra leader raises his baton and Gertrude Niesen, who is kind enough to wear those long eye-lashes of hers even at rehearsals, warbles to front center. She begins to melt into the microphone, giving the "Song of India" what the boys backstage call "plenty of uh."

The sourpuss congress out front scrooches down in its seats and the gentleman from the Union League Club says it's going to be easy not to like this. He says he stopped liking this the day after the song was written and the old uh only makes it worse. All the job-seekers are anxious to please and they don't laugh or hiss. They just want to hold on to their jobs, but they don't look mean at all, only mournful. They are beginning to feel that it's a funny situation and somebody must be having a high time out of it, but they personally weren't born for this kind of work.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—An advertisement in the public notices column of the morning newspapers this week read:

"Wanted for part-time work, 25 of the meanest, most cantankerous, ornariest, crabbiest, sourest, evil-dispositioned men in the city."

And now here they are, filing slowly down the aisles of a theater and taking their places to sit in judgment on a radio program. There were men who cited the exclusive Union League Club and had answered the advertisement for a thrill, describing himself unprintably as a member of the club. He is in that ever lived. Further back there is a mechanic dressed in his neatest best and pitifully anxious to please. He had said in his letter, "I am a member of the club." ## Atmosphere of Suspicion

Of course, whenever a communist attempts to carry out such a program, and is guilty of any acts of violence against life or property, the government very properly searches for the perpetrator of such crimes, arrests, tries, and punishes him. But the hunt for communists, which is sweeping over our country like a wave of hysteria, is not a search for the perpetrator of any acts of violence, but for people who are "suspicious" as intended to commit such acts. Here to my mind is the crux of this whole dangerous business. People are pursued on the basis of grounds of suspicion, and then evidence is sought to indict them, not for any criminal act, but for their intention to commit such an act.

The technique of this communist hunt, is a terrible assault upon the spirit of American democracy. First of all an atmosphere of suspicion is created. This is done by absolutely unauthenticated statements, and irresponsible charges, of the prevalence of communists in our midst. The most dangerous declaration, calculated to destroy the confidence of our people in our schools and religious leaders, are made by our public officials. The community is told that our schools are poisoned with radicalism, and many of our religious leaders are sympathetic with communism. A systematic attempt has been made to identify those who advocate disarmament, who strive for world peace, and those who seek a liberal social democracy, with the teachings of soviet Russia. It is inevitable that such propaganda will react hurtfully upon the sensitive, timid, and sensationally minded people of the United States.

The way has now been prepared for the "red revolution" in the "suspected" citizens. The evidence to be gathered in these raids is the kind of literature found. Here indeed the method and the spirit of Hitler, Mussolini, and the bolsheviks makes its debut in our American democracy. Perhaps that which did most to destroy the 18th amendment was the protest of the American people against those they termed federal "snoopers" violating the privacy of homes in search of illegal liquor. Is it possible our citizenship will tolerate the invasion of the "snooper" in search of contraband literature? Or are we to establish a state literary censorship, and in the process, to destroy the very thing we are supposed to protect? The evidence to be gathered in these raids is the kind of literature found. Here indeed the method and the spirit of Hitler, Mussolini, and the bolsheviks makes its debut in our American democracy. Hunting Communists.

The hunt for communists differs from the usual hunt for criminals. In the search for a thief, a crime has been committed, and the search is definitely for the man who committed it. But in the search for communists, we are not looking for the perpetrator of a crime, but for people who are "suspicious" as intended to commit such acts. Here to my mind is the crux of this whole dangerous business. People are pursued on the basis of grounds of suspicion, and then evidence is sought to indict them, not for any criminal act, but for their intention to commit such an act.

Back-to-God Movement Is Surest Recovery Route, Writes Georgian

Editor Constitution: Back to recovery is the cry throughout the land. Some say the way back is through the New Deal. Others say the way back is through the Old Deal. The only way to real lasting recovery is God. Recovery is not measured in dollars and cents because Christ says, "Take heed, and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Our generation is suffering from a most total eclipse of faith and understanding of God's word.

God to many is just a name, for something they know not what, instead of a real divine energizing presence. God is only a memory to some and a glorious expectation to others. Therefore, we are often reminded by thoughtful observers of our religious life that the great need of our day is a back-to-God movement and a recovery of faith.

The seriousness of our present situation is not due merely to a loss in dollars and cents but is due to lack of faith and knowledge of God. Our greatest peril of the present day is godliness. What the world needs is a recovery of God. It is the only "Deal" that will bring lasting peace and increase the oil in the cruse and the meal in the barrel. God taught us to pray thus: "Give us this day our daily bread." GEORGE N. WOODDALL, Dallas, Ga., October 23, 1934.

GIRLS' HIGH SENIORS HAVE BENEFIT BRIDGE

The senior benefit bridge, given in Rich's tea room Friday, October 26, proved to be a tremendous success. The proceeds amounted to approximately $250, from which a few expenses will be deducted. The seniors are deeply grateful to the school as a whole, and to the generous merchants of Atlanta, who donated the prizes given at the party.

Two prizes were awarded by the yearbook staff for the sale of bridge tickets. D-1 won the unique vase offered to the senior classes. A-3 and C-2 tied for the tiny silvered globe offered to the under-classes.

The junior physical education classes held a ring tennis tournament Friday, October 26, on the school courts. Miss Gertrude Cadwell, head of the physical education department, was in charge.

In a recent contest of competitive writing, these three important members of the Girls' High Times staff were chosen: Virginia Hill, editor; Julia Sewell, literary editor; and Anne Morris, feature editor. Having been selected last year, these girls hold the other positions on the High Times staff: Prentiss MacIntyre and Betty Holloway, business managers; Douglas Lyle, news editor; Nannette Bagwell, make-up editor; Louise Lovelace and Catherine Etheridge, circulation managers. The editorial and business advisors are Miss Catharine Parker and Miss Sarah Fulton, respectively.

The Girls' High bank, under Miss Stess Patten's supervision, elected Martha Coley, president, and Anne Morris, vice president, at an election October 9 and 12.

JOE BROWN TO HAVE OPEN HOUSE NOV. 17

KEY SCHOOL CHILDREN WRITE CIRCUS STORY

Open house will be held Thursday, November 17, in order to display the work of Joe Brown pupils.

For the purpose of beautifying the campus, a project is being launched by teachers and pupils, under the supervision of Miss Mary Holder, head of the art department. The project will feature display material for the various departments in the school.

In order that adults of the West End community might receive benefit from their leisure time, an FERA recreation program is being held in the school auditorium each evening.

The Joe Brown P.T.A. conducted a paper sale last week and offered prizes that interested the students. The pupils and homeroom with the greatest amount of papers, received boxes of candy. Individuals receiving prizes were as follows: Catherine Simmons, Dorothy Thompson, Frances Fitzgerald, Arthur Eisenman, and George Denham. Receiving prizes were: 9-H-4, 7-L-9, S-H-7, 8-L-3, 7-H-5 and 7-L-2.

In a recent contest conducted by Rich's Joe Junior staff editors submitted an advertisement. The staff editors are Dorothy Camp and Dorothy Jones.

The Red Cross and Humane Society are sponsoring a contest in which elective art pupils will compete.

JEROME JONES PUPILS TAKE SAVANNAH TRIP

All aboard for Savannah! And four cents of happy children set off down the road from the city of Savannah to a long day's journey, but what a good time we had, and how much we learned. We enjoyed our lunch in Midway, one of the old capitals of our state, and enjoyed seeing the old slave market in Louisville, another of Georgia's capitals.

We were met at Midway Savannah by our hosts and hostesses, and what a good time we had from that very minute. We enjoyed their school very much. We thought it was very interesting to have a citizenship program like theirs, so they took great care to see that we understood it all.

In the afternoon, and at night they entertained us with such interesting things. Thursday afternoon we went to Tybee Island for a picnic, and did have a good time wading in the Atlantic ocean.

The best time of all came Friday night when Midway Savannah gave us a banquet which they planned themselves. We thought it was the best banquet we had ever heard of, they gave us many good wishes for our school, and many souvenirs to bring home to remind us of this good time.

Saturday morning early we started home and got back in time to tell our families all about it before bedtime.

We are looking forward to having Midway Savannah visit us in the spring.

We appreciate so much the good times Miss Riley, their principal, the teachers, the mothers and the children gave us.

We decided it was the best time we have ever had.

MARY E. WHITE.

CHILDREN AT HIGHLAND FIX CARDBOARD LOOMS

The children of Highland are looking forward to the art exhibit, which will be held in the school auditorium. Our mothers, fathers, friends and others interested in pictures are invited.

MILTON SECOND GRADE PUPILS BUILD PLANES

Who would care to go on an airplane ride? Come to the Low Second grade. These little folks are busy making airplanes.

High 3 and High 2 are making plans for a testing post to use in connection with their Indian work.

Low 4 are enjoying carving Greek gods out of soap. They are also modeling in clay.

High 4 and High 5 made some pictures about their study of Egypt.

Low 5 made an attractive border for their room. One of the children in the room made a beautiful Sunday school chart.

TECH HIGH GRADUATES PICK CLASS OFFICERS

As Charlotte's football team has, up to last Friday night, defeated Tech High's five times out of seven, the victory over this team was received with rejoicing by all of Tech High. So far no team has been able to score against the students.

A dance, sponsored by T. J. Collins, instructor in the department of history at Tech High school, was held in the Shrine temple, both under the direction of Mr. Taylor, also entertained at the alumni banquet which was held last Wednesday.

KEY SCHOOL CHILDREN WRITE CIRCUS STORY

High 6 pupils all have perfect teeth except one. They hope to have 100 per cent soon.

Low 6-1 are keeping a record of all the good books they read. Many interesting reports have been given.

Low 6-2 enjoyed their trip to the library Friday. They are almost 100 per cent members of the library.

High 5 were very happy to have a visit from their sponsor, Dr. Roy D. Mitchell.

Low 5-1 are enjoying their study of trees. They are collecting and pressing leaves for their notebooks.

High 4 are very proud of their new aquarium.

Low 4-1 are 100 per cent in Red Cross membership.

Low 3-1 are glad to welcome William Martin to their class. He comes from Grant Park school.

High 2 made an Indian paper airplane, and they are making a story about it.

Low 2-2 made a story about the circus and are reading it from the chart.

Low 2-1 and High 1-2 enjoyed the Halloween carnival. They are making a grocery store.

Low 1-1 are making things for Halloween. Richard Townsend has joined their class.

Johnny Germany, in Low kindergarten, has made a little red wagon and now he has built sand and stones.

AARON EPSTEIN.

FAITH SIXTH GRADERS MAKE LIBRARY MONEY

On Friday evening the sixth graders of Faith sponsored a program by the Westbrook Conservatory Players at the school and were very successful in buying library books for the school.

Myrtle Warren, from Whiteford, has been welcomed as a new member in Low 6.

Mildred Thomas, who is ill with scarlet fever, is being missed by Low kindergarten.

The kindergarten pupils are enjoying planting flowers in the window boxes of their house.

Low 2 had a visit to Flora Land and enjoyed the lovely flowers.

This week members of Low 3 who have perfect teeth are coming to a Halloween party as a reward.

Elsie McBrayer returned to Faith.

Betty Strickland and Milton James have made the highest athletic records in Low 5-2. Mrs. Potts gave this grade some fish, which they are enjoying very much.

Low 5-1 are enjoying making people and animals of acorns, and also planting flowers on the banks of our school.

The fastest runner in Low 4 is C. D. Casey. William James can chin more times than any boy in the grade.

High 4 enjoyed a trip to Chamberlain recently. They visited the Irvinville dam for a whole hour and learned many interesting things. These boys and girls are happy winners of the paper sale prize last week.

JACK MAXWING.

PUPILS AT KIRKWOOD
PRESS WILD FLOWERS

Low 4-2 have enjoyed making Halloween favors.

Low 5-2 have decorated their room to look like autumn with cornstalks, cotton and persimmons.

High 5-1 are interested in pressing leaves and wild flowers.

Low 6-2 are very proud of Peggy Bagwell and Billy Elford, who made the highest records in jumping.

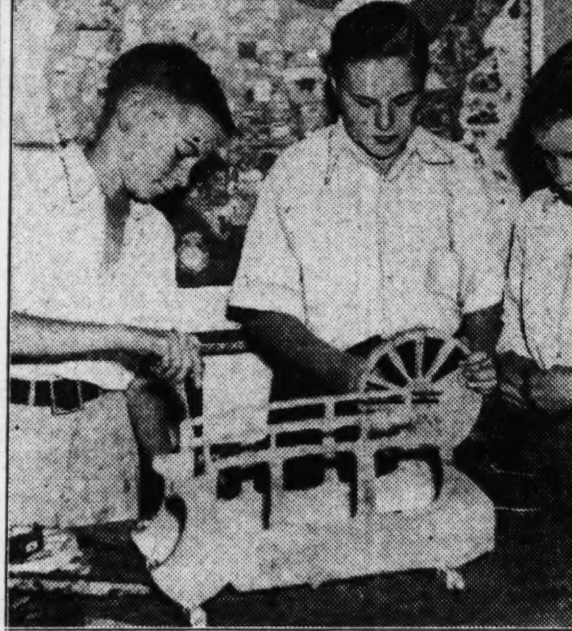

High 6-1 and High 6-2 finished their work on Argentina by using the slides, showing interesting pictures of that country.

High 6-4 have modeled several South American animals out of clay.

Pioneer Life at Milton

Superintendent's Message

My dear Boys and Girls:

This is Conservation Week in the state of Georgia. The plans are being sponsored by Governor Talmadge, the Garden Clubs of Georgia and many other organizations. Each boy and each girl should assist in saving the beautiful plants that fill the woods and grow on the hillsides by the roads and in the valleys of Georgia. The forests are full of many beautiful dogwood trees and our boys and girls should not dig up these trees.

Through the garden clubs of Georgia arrangements have been made with nurseries so that you may purchase dogwood trees, 18 inches high, for a very small price. They will grow much better; they will be very much more suitable for our lawns than those which are dug from the woods, and the trees in the woods will be left to grow and bloom and be beautiful for everybody to see.

The woods should be preserved for the development of our state. They help to hold back the waters, prevent floods, and to give us a greater country. The beautiful trees and shrubbery make the hillsides attractive for the great masses of people.

I urge that you see to it that dogwood trees are not dug up, and that azaleas and dogwood blossoms, redbud, holly, and other shrubs and wild flowers are not destroyed. I hope you all will join with the garden clubs in helping to make the state of Georgia more beautiful and more attractive for all of the people.

Always your friend,

WILLIS A. SUTTON,
Superintendent of Schools.

FORMWALT CHILDREN ENJOY LIBRARY VISIT

The children of Formwalt enjoyed their visits to the Carnegie library last week. We are grateful to Miss Hines, of the south branch, who always gives us so much help and so much pleasure. We thank Miss Cox, too, and Miss Slomb, who make these visits possible.

We are all planting tulips in our gardens and in pots, so that our homes and our school will be beautiful in the spring.

Low 5-2 are happy to announce that they have 100 per cent perfect teeth.

Low 4-1 have sailed down the Nile with Mottet. These people are proud of their lovely narcissus bulbs.

High 4 have fixed their sand table to look like a farm and a field in Norway.

Low and High kindergarten children had a Halloween party.

High 5 have formed a Fair and Square Club. They have brought buttons to wear.

High 2-2 are so happy over their new little girl, Hazel Jones, from Covington. They were very proud when they won the last P.T.A. prize for the lower grades.

High 1 are planning a trip to Grant Park.

Low 5-2 and Low 2-2 are at the tip-top of the attendance race.

Low 2-1 are still working on the zoo. They had a circus during the Halloween carnival. They have a new girl, Mildred Woods, from Lee Street school.

Low 3 will go to see some real show on Monday.

High 2 and High 3 had a Halloween party. They made their own refreshments and liked them very much.

Low 4 are having a party. Their tourists' sight-seeing in the warm countries around the Mediterranean sea.

High 5 are planting bulbs at home.

The fifth and sixth grades had an interesting assembly on the history and symbolism of cornerstones. Annie Kate Davenport and Carolyn Stone were especially helpful in getting this information for us.

ANN WHITE.

TENTH SCHOOL PLANS CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW

Thyrs Street school is glad to be the hostess for the City Chrysanthemum show which will be held next Monday, November 5, from 2 until 4 o'clock. Every one is invited.

High 6 were pleased to have a visit from Miss Charlotte Smith, who taught us how to make new Halloween boxes.

Low 6 are interested in writing upon topics relating to medieval life.

Low 6-1 have been studying about stained glass windows.

High 5 have enjoyed coloring the invitations to our chrysanthemum show.

Low 5-3 are having a play on early colonial life.

High 4 are so happy to have Mr. P. W. Schack as their sponsor.

Low 4-4 are so glad to welcome back Sarah Dawson, who has been sick for several weeks.

High 1 are writing a few clay animals to go in our miniature circus, and we have a real circus tent.

In the kindergarten, Colin Pound and Aselinger Brown brought three racing turtles to school and Hunting-ton Hardisty brought a chameleon. We are enjoying them very much.

Music Clubs Announce Hymn Chosen for Study in November

The hymn of the month for November, as suggested by the department of music in religious education of the Atlanta Music Club and the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, Miss Anna Tucker, chairman, one of the most celebrated hymns written especially for the season of Thanksgiving, is "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come." The hymn, chosen by this department for last Thanksgiving, is again suggested this year in co-operation with a special committee from the Atlanta public schools and the Evangelical Ministers' Association, who will have special study given to the singing of this hymn in the public schools and Sunday schools of Atlanta.

"Come, Ye Thankful People, Come," a poem of thankfulness written for "After Harvest" by Henry Alford, dean of Canterbury, in 1841, is one of the hymns most widely used for the season of Thanksgiving, both in America and in England in churches of various denominations.

The author, born in London in 1810, was graduated from Trinity College, Cambridge; became editor of the Canterbury Review, and immediately began his monumental work, Greek Testament with Notes, upon which he labored for 20 years, and which has made his name a household word with divinity students in two continents. At 47 he was made dean of Canterbury cathedral, where he remained until his death in 1871. The hymn known as "St. George's, Windsor," is the one to which the words of "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come," are set.

Briefly Told

A Presbyterian club was organized recently at Grady hospital among the student nurses. Miss Nell Chappell, of Athens, was elected president, and Miss Blanche Lowe, of Roswell, secretary.

Tech "Y" singers and Dr. G. W. Gasque, of the Church of the Incarnation, will form the program of the Cathedral Young People's Service League Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. St. Luke's Y. P. S. L. will be the guest of the Cathedral league for this meeting. Miss Gail Nelson, president of the St. Philip's Y. P. S. L., will preside.

Mrs. A. B. Wheat, superintendent of mission study of Payne Memorial Methodist church, conducted a study class Tuesday at the church, using the book, "Suzuki Looks at Japan," Mount Vernon Society and Mrs. Morris, St. Mark's mission study superintendent, were guests. Mrs. W. T. Mann led the devotional and music was rendered by Mrs. George H. Sims and Mrs. F. K. Frye. A delicious luncheon was served.

R. A. of the Avondale Baptist church met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jack Osborn with 14 present. The program was on South America.

W. M. S. of the Avondale Baptist church held the monthly program and business meeting at the church Monday. Mrs. B. L. Bond, president. An interesting program on "Brothers in Black Here and There" was presented by Circle 1. Music was provided by Mrs. R. O. Cole and Mrs. J. T. Allen. The next meeting of Circle 1 will be with Mrs. S. F. Jenkins on Memorial drive, and Circle 2 with Mrs. J. H. Sassamon on the meeting date.

Clarksville W. M. S. Celebrate Jubilee.

Tuesday, October 17, the Clarksville Methodist W. M. S. celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with Mrs. Frank L. Ashby presiding. Miss Ashby has been president of this organization more than 25 years. Those making speeches were the pastor, Rev. J. B. Smith, Mrs. J. B. Cheat-usually sung. It was written by Sir George Elvey, noted English composer of church and organ music, whose oratorios and anthems are sung the world over. Born at Canterbury, 1816, Elvey began his career as chorister in the famous cathedral. Graduated from Oxford as bachelor of music, he was appointed as organist of St. George's chapel, Windsor, a post which he held nearly 50 years.

The words of the hymn are as follows: Come, ye thankful people, come, Raise the song of harvest-home: All is safely gathered in, Ere the winter storms begin: God, our Maker, doth provide For our wants to be supplied: Come to God's own temple, come, Raise the song of harvest-home.

All the world is God's own field, From the east unto the west, From the south unto the north, Wheat and tares together sown, Into joy or sorrow grown: First the blade and then the ear, Then the full corn shall appear: Give His angels charge at last In the fire the tares to cast: But the fruitful ears to store In His garner evermore.

Even so, Lord, quickly come, To Thy final harvest-home: Gather Thou Thy people in, Free from sorrow, free from sin: In Thy presence to abide: Come, with all Thine angels, come, Raise the glorious harvest-home.

Episcopal Training Classes To Begin

The first of a series of inter-parochial church school teachers training institute classes to be given this fall by the Episcopal church will start Wednesday evening, November 7, at 7:30 o'clock at All Saints' parish house. This course will continue through November from 7:30 o'clock to 10:15 each Wednesday evening. Those teachers completing the course and passing their examinations will be given National Accredited Teachers' Association certificates.

W. W. Davison will teach "Principles of Teaching"; Dr. G. W. Gasque will conduct a class on "Story Telling"; Rev. Charles Holding will teach "Educational Program of the Parish"; Canon W. S. Turner will teach "Outline of the Prayer Book" and additional courses in methods and materials for kindergarten, primary, junior, junior high school, and senior high school departments are being offered.

Miss Beverly Wheatcroft, chairman of teacher training department of the religious education of the diocese of Atlanta, and the diocesan board of religious education is backing this series of classes.

ham, zone leader; Mrs. R. A. Seegers, of the Baptist church; Miss Tattie Sutton, of the Episcopal; Mrs. J. A. Simpson, of the Presbyterian church, and Miss Mary Kempson, of the Young Women's Circle.

Mrs. W. R. Ramsey read a letter from Mrs. Andrew Lipscomb, of Auburn, Ala., who as Miss Kate Dowdell, organized the society in 1884. Miss Parula Hill read minutes covering some of the work of the early years. Mrs. G. C. Walters, of Toccoa, spoke on "Peace."

There was an impressive candle-lighting ceremony in honor of the 13 charter members, at the close of which Mrs. A. C. Adams introduced Mrs. I. A. Ketron, of Murphy, N. C., only living charter member, who was presented a lovely bunch of yellow dahlias by little Katherine Rhodes. A love gift of gold was presented while the anniversary song, "Safely Through These Fifty Years," was sung.

Baptist Divisional Institute Holds Annual Meeting in Gainesville, Ga.

Northeast Divisional Institute of Baptist W. M. U. held the annual session at the Central church, in Gainesville, October 16 and 17, with Mrs. Marshall Nelms, divisional vice president, presiding. The keynote of the convention was "Crown Him Lord of All," and around this theme the program was centered. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Frank Harben, of Gainesville, and Mrs. W. S. Bearden, of Clayton, made the response. Dr. Young, pastor of the Central church, led the worship period. Mrs. W. C. Tribble spoke briefly on "Crowning Him Through Stewardship." She introduced Mrs. Roland G. Leavitt, chairman, who gave the state plans. After a report on "Crowning Him Through Personal Service" by Mrs. A. C. McEver, Mrs. Marshall Nelms gave a resume of the work done in the division the past year.

Mrs. Ben Thompson, president B. W. M. U. of Georgia, addressed the body of workers. The evening session was devoted to the work of young people. John Zellars, an R. A. of Hartwell, gave the devotional, stewardship declaration, "Seeing Ourselves as Others See Us." Miss Grace Hendricks, of Bowman, Young People's leader, brought a message on "Polishing Precious Jewels for the King." Stewardship declaration contest winners were introduced as follows: Y. W. A., Elene Wiggin, Habersham association; International G. A. Grace Wiggins, Habersham association; Junior G. A., Virginia Ballenger, Chattahoochee association; Junior R. A., John Zellars, Hebron association; Sunbeams, Elizabeth Pendergrass, Chattahoochee association. Echoes of 1934 encampment of Young People, Ridgecrest Y. W. A. camp, Miss Ellene Wiggins; state G. A. house party, Miss Margaret Culpepper. In absence of Linton Crawford, Miss Mary Christian told of the R. A. house party. Miss Emma Leachman brought a message on "Youth on King's Business."

Wednesday's program began with a general conference of Young People's work, presided over by Miss Christian. The devotional message was given by Mrs. A. J. Johnson. "Crowning Him Through the Margaret Fund" was discussed by Mrs. McMahon and $4 was voted to go as northeast division's apportionment for two Margarets to be enrolled in the Margaret Fund book. The following superintendents and Young People's leaders were present and gave reports of their associational work: Mrs. A. C. McEver, Gainesville, Chattahoochee association; Mrs. H. K. Cleveland, Cornelia, Habersham association; Mrs. W. C. Allen and Miss Grace Hendricks, Hebron association; Mrs. W. S. Bearden, Clayton, Rabun County Association; Mrs. George Allen, Toccoa, Tugalo association. In the absence of Mrs. A. B. Green, her report was read of the work done in the Hiawasse association. Mrs. McMahon spoke again on "Crowning Him Through Publicity." In absence of chairman, Mrs. Ben Thompson spoke on "The Value of Mission Study." Mrs. Charles Garrett spoke on "Crowning Him Through White Cross." Stewardship declaration contest winners were introduced as follows: Y. W. A., Elene Wiggin, Habersham association; International G. A. Grace Wiggins, Habersham association; Junior G. A., Virginia Ballenger, Chattahoochee association; Junior R. A., John Zellars, Hebron association; Sunbeams, Elizabeth Pendergrass, Chattahoochee association. Echoes of 1934 encampment of Young People, Ridgecrest Y. W. A. camp, Miss Ellene Wiggins; state G. ## The CONSTITUTION'S STAMP CORNER

By N. S. Noble

INDO-CHINA "SERVICE."
A complete set of 16 denominations purchased "service" for official use has just arrived from Indo-China.

Values run from one cent to 20 cents. The stamp used for the surcharge is the regular postage stamp of 1922-1923, picturing a native girl. The overprint is in black on all varieties except the 10-cent green, the 10-cent blue, and the 20-cent black and blue, on which red ink is used.

It develops that there are two types of the two recently issued postage stamps of Belgium which picture the king Leopold. One set was issued specially on behalf of the Brussels Philatelic exposition, the 75-centime being olive black, the 75-centime red violet. The other set is 75-centimes dark violet and one-franc red brown. Each type bears a 25-centime surtax for the war invalid fund. The stamp show pair was printed in limited quantities.

The recently announced Shipka pass commemorative group of six stamps from Bulgaria is coming out in new colors, doubling the number of varieties of the issue.

A 100-pennig black and ochre is the latest addition to the group of Germany's von Hindenburg stamps. There are now something like 40 varieties of these stamps.

In honor of Austria's assassinated chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss, a 24-groschen stamp is being issued. Printed in black on white paper the stamp has an engraving made from one of the last photographs of Dollfuss. The issue is to total 3,000,000.

Liechtenstein has brought out a miniature sheet of a five-franc stamp in connection with the recent Philatelic exhibition at Vaduz. In addition to a carefully placed perforation, the stamp is enclosed in a decorative border.

WASHINGTON NOTES.
By James Waldo Fawcett.

The special sheet of 1-cent Yosemite stamps, authorized and produced in face of violent protest, was a post-office department courtesy to a group of 150 collectors organized in the Omaha Philatelic Society. It is understood that the appeal was rejected by Postmaster-General Farley when first submitted, but another department official was more easily convinced.

Reports from Omaha indicate that the Yosemite sheets available October 10 were insufficient to meet the demand and that there were more orders canceled the second than the first day.

Third Assistant Postmaster-General Clinton B. Eilenberger told Omaha stamp collectors that, in his judgment, the 3-cent Mother's Day stamp "has been one of the most popular that has ever been produced by the postoffice department." He also, when speaking at the American Philatelic Society convention, praised the national parks series. But it is an incontrovertible matter of history that originally he was opposed to all these issues and gave his approval only after those who wanted them carried their campaign to the White House. The credit in both cases belongs primarily to groups of collectors, not to the post-office department.

There are two varieties of the 3-cent Mount Rainier stamp, perforated. One is the common type with which practically all collectors are familiar; the other is longer, narrower and a red purple in color.

The Vicksburg (Miss.) Evening Post submits a cartoon on a new series of "See America First" stamps. Among the "sees" suggested for use are "Mount Taxmore," "Grand Defolt," "Idle Capital Rock," "Mount Livingroost" and "Hope Springs."

The Philatelic Agency, it is reported, is 15,000 orders behind at the present writing. Though the staff is working day and night, it has not yet reached the business of September 1. Patrons should be as patient and sympathetic as possible.—Washington Star.

LADIES ENTERTAIN CLUB.
The ladies of the Stamp Collectors' Club of Atlanta, last Monday night gave a surprise party for the members which for fun and pleasure surpassed anything so far put across by this active and interested group of stamp collectors.

Miss Elsie Hansen was in charge of the program which was kept secret as to details until the members gathered.

NEWS of STAGE and SCREEN

EDITED BY RALPH T. JOINES

Chevalier, MacDonald at Grand In Lehar's "The Merry Widow"

It was in 1908 that an entranced audience at Weber's theater, in New York, first heard Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow." Its effervescent music, its wit and gaiety made it an overnight sensation. Especially popular was "The Merry Widow Waltz," which remains today, nearly two decades later, still one of the most famous of operetta songs. As presented in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new screen version of "The Merry Widow," now at Loew's Grand theater, this music and comedy remain as fresh, as overwhelmingly lovely, as the first-nighters proclaimed it in another day.

Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Una Merkel and Edward Everett Horton are principals in "The Merry Widow," which the inimitable Ernst Lubitsch directed with smartness and grace and satire. The spirit of the original comedy has been retained, though many incidents of the plot have been adjusted to a modern viewpoint. Herbert Stothart has adapted the undying "Merry Widow" melodies most graciously, and Rodgers and Hart have devised new and apt words for many of the songs.

"The Merry Widow" opens in the microscopic Balkan kingdom of Marsovia in the year 1885. Even though the king is determined to find a Marsovia who must follow him to Paris, woo and win her, and bring her back to Marsovia, Chance favors the king. He finds the very man, in the queen's boudoir, when the king returns to the palace unexpectedly.

And so, with wit and music, begins the famous wooing of Sonia by Danilo and the events which lead to the famous evening at Maxim's, where Danilo dances with Sonia, never guessing she is the widow he is pursuing, never realizing that he is already deeply in love with the woman he must inveigle into matrimony.

Edith Wharton's Age of Innocence On Screen at the Paramount

"The Age of Innocence," a period when girls were supposed to blush at the mention of the word "limb," chaperons were necessary adjuncts to romance and conventions ruled with an iron hand, is authentically pictured in RKO-Radio's film version of Edith Wharton's famous novel of that name.

Playing at the Paramount this week and co-starring Irene Dunne and John Boles for the first time since the memorable "Back Street," the story deals with a love tangle in the caste-bound social circles of New York in the seventies.

Miss Dunne is seen as a girl who returns to her blue-blooded American relatives after a disastrous marital venture in Europe. Dreading scandal worse than the plague, the family opposes the severance of her ties with her dissolute husband.

When Boles and she, drawn together by mutual tastes and a common revolt against the sham of the world, fall in love, the relatives are faced with an even more foundation-rocking scandal, since he is engaged to be married to her cousin.

The drama is said to reach its height when the lovers are forced to choose between their own happiness and the stilted standards of the times. Julie Haydon portrays the engaged cousin who is the perfect trustful clinging vine type of that "age of innocence." Others in the noteworthy cast include five New York Theater Guild artists, Lionel Atwill, Helen Westley, Laura Hope Crews, Herbert Yost and Edith Van Cleve; and Theresa Maxwell-Cover and Leonard Carey.

Phillip Moeller, of the Theater Guild and one of the drama's foremost geniuses, directed the picture. The screen play version of Miss Wharton's novel was written by Sara Y. Mason and Victor Herman.

Four Theaters Play 'Redhead' For First Run

A story that was acclaimed by tens of thousands of readers when it first appeared in book form some 12 months ago, "Redhead," by Vera Brown, has been made into a most delightful talking picture under the same title, with Bruce Cabot and Grace Bradley in the leading roles.

"Redhead" will be shown in Atlanta for the first time today at the Buckhead, Hilan and Madison theaters, and at the College Park theater, where there is no Sunday operation, starting tomorrow. None of the theaters have announced any advance in price, despite the exceptional first-run offering, and seekers after really fine screen entertainment will find it economical and convenient to drive to the nearest of the four theaters. There are no traffic problems or parking worries at any one of the four, while the cozy intimacy of these neighborhood houses provides a pleasant atmosphere for family enjoyment.

Local Theaters Offer Superlative Screen Attractions

Vodevil Stars Dot New Show At the Capitol

A stage show that promises to be highly entertaining, has been booked for the Capitol theater, for one week, starting today. The title is "Southern Scandals" and features an array of vaudeville stars. That it should prove pleasing is evidenced by the fact that the show was booked through the RKO office in Kansas City. On several occasions the Capitol has offered these RKO unit shows, and they have always proved very good. On the screen, also for the week, the Capitol offers "365 Nights in Hollywood," which will star, together again, Alice Faye and James Dunn.

The theater now offers four complete stage and screen programs on Sundays, with the first stage show starting today at 2:15. The box office will open at the usual time of 1:15 with the Pathe News leading off the first program at 2 o'clock. Many Atlantans are now taking advantage of this first show to avoid the usual large Capitol crowds on Sundays.

Winter Season Opens at Atlanta With New Type of Show This Week

Start of the official winter season in the theater, with the coming of November, is signaled at the Atlanta theater by the arrival of a new producer, one of the most famous in modern revue, musical comedy and burlesque circles, new scenery and a new type of performance throughout.

Paul Morokoff, the new producer, comes direct from Broadway, where he has recently been producing for the new burlesque wheel shows, where he has long been famous for his work with the Minsky shows and many others.

The production he is to give Atlanta this week is entitled "Temptations of 1934" and is a replica of a new show of the same name which is now having its tryout week at the Shubert theater in Philadelphia prior to its Broadway opening.

In line with the new type of entertainment to be offered henceforth at the Atlanta, entertainment that, while retaining all the features that have made burlesque locally popular, will be a type to attract all kinds of patronage and with no offense for anyone, the management has announced a special policy this week for lady patrons. Ladies will be admitted to all matinees, except Sunday and Saturday, at the special price of 15 cents for any seat in the house.

New scenery will be hung at the Atlanta for the first show this afternoon under the new regime, coming directly from New York. It is a type and quality of stage settings that will delight and astonish local theatergoers.

Competent Cast Presages Well For New Stock

Now that the Charles Emerson Cook Players have arrived in Atlanta, Mr. Cook feels he can state his honest conviction that the company he has brought down from New York for his Atlanta season at the Erlanger theater is the finest, the most attractive and the cleverest group of actors and actresses any New York producer could have assembled. All of them have recently played important roles in New York hits, and many of them will play the identical parts when these successes are presented by Mr. Cook at the Erlanger.

This is especially true of "Her Master's Voice," the outstanding Broadway comedy hit of last season which opens the engagement at the Erlanger Monday night, November 12. Helen Kingsley, Evelyn Varden and Jessie Rogers will have the comedy roles they have played before.

A man of Mr. Cook's standing is in a position to select the pick of Broadway actors for his out-of-town productions. This is due to the fact that the recent output of new plays has been about half the usual number. Actors who a few years ago were

May Robson in 'Lady by Choice,' Special Production at Rialto

You remember "Lady for a Day" with May Robson. Also, "It Happened One Night," with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert. And, "One Night of Love," with Grace Moore, Columbia, producer of all these smash hits, has added another outstanding screen production to its list. This time it is "Lady by Choice," now playing at the Rialto theater with May Robson, Carole Lombard, Walter Connolly and Roger Pryor playing the principal roles.

David Burton directed this story by Dwight Taylor for the screen and the result is a group of characterizations unforgettable in a story unsurpassed for its human appeal. It is the kind of entertainment you want to see two or three times yourself and that you actually worry over if you think your friends and neighbors are in danger of missing it.

May Robson, the lovable old character of "Lady for a Day," never had a better role than that of Patsy, the bedraggled old gin-bound of "Lady by Choice," who finally realizes her dream of becoming a "real lady." Carole Lombard is perfect as a rough-and-ready fan dancer of burlesque, while Walter Connolly makes the lovable old judge everyone would like to see presiding over a night court. Roger Pryor is handsome enough to make it altogether reasonable for any woman to fall in love with him.

The story begins when Alabama, the fan dancer, decides to "adopt" a mother as a publicity stunt. She chooses Patsy the drunken old derelict and the adopted "mother" promptly starts in to reform her charge and act like a real mother to the girl. She discovers that Alabama's manager is stealing her money and straightens that out. Then she plots to arrange a wealthy marriage for the girl she thinks so much of and the trouble really begins.

It would be unfair to tell more of the plot until you see it for yourselves but it must be mentioned that the old lady finds it necessary to secure the co-operation of the night court judge who had in the past so often sentenced her to the workhouse.

It is gorgeously human entertainment, packed with laughs that are ever new and then interrupted by the suspicion of a tear, just the kind of story and production everyone likes. Which means you ought to see it before the word gets around town and draws more than capacity audiences to the Rialto for every performance.

Clever short subjects complete the Patsy the drunken old derelict and bill.

Ann Harding, Brian Aherne Teamed in Romance at the Fox

One of the most interesting productions of the year is Ann Harding's new vehicle, "The Fountain," now showing at the Fox theater. Based on the famous novel by Charles Morgan, English writer, this picture is one of the season's specials, big and important in every way. The plot of this story is one of the oldest in the world—a triangle situation. It presents a deviation, however, that is inspiring different.

The part played by Miss Harding gives her every opportunity to display the full range of her fine dramatic ability and sympathetic interpretation. She is called upon to run the gamut of emotion—from an adolescent girlhood infatuation to an overpowering spiritual adoration and grief. In that she is married to a man she cannot love, and in that her sympathies are opposed to his interests in the World War, the girl finds herself in a doubly intolerable situation. A childhood affection for a worthy and attractive countryman (played by Brian Aherne) is revived and grows to considerable proportions. Her husband, however, the count (played by Paul Lukas) has attained

U. D. C. Resolutions Adopted in Griffin Are Published on Today's Official Page

By MRS. J. L. McCORD,
Of Atlanta, Editor of Georgia
Division, U. D. C.

Having concluded a successful convention of the Georgia division, U. D. C., at Griffin, which was enjoyed by the large number of delegates present, the attention of the organization is now turned to the general convention, United Daughters of the Confederacy, which opens on Tuesday, November 20, in the ballroom of the Roosevelt hotel, in New York.

Mrs. T. W. Reed, president of the Georgia division, U. D. C., in the following message to the chapters states: "It is the hope that a large number of delegates from the Georgia division will be in attendance. Many beautiful social affairs have been arranged by the New York division and neighboring chapters, and the convention promises to be an enjoyable and interesting occasion. All chapters of the Georgia division that have not already done so are urged to send one general credential blank, properly filled out to Mrs. Frank P. Canby, chairman of committee on credentials, Box 102, Smithburg, Md. This must be attended to at once. In addition to sending one copy to Mrs. Canby, one must be sent to the Georgia division president, Athens, Ga. These credentials should be sent immediately. Reduced railroad fares have been authorized for delegates attending the New York convention and the delegates who expect to go by train should write the division president to secure the railroad certificate upon which the reduced fare is based."

Chapter members are requested to note carefully the following resolutions passed at the Griffin convention and members are urged to perform such duties as are called for in the resolutions:

Resolution 1—The division requests all chapters to name their nominating committees at the chapter meetings in September, and to elect their officers in October; the old officers to continue in office until after the annual division convention, and the new officers to take over the business of the chapters in November.

Resolution 2—Resolved that all motions or resolutions involving the expenditure of money by the division must be referred to the finance committee, and no action shall be taken on such motions or resolutions until the finance committee has made its report thereon.

Resolution 3—Great improvements have been made at Liberty hall, the old home of Georgia's great commander, Alexander H. Stephens, looking to the conversion of that historic property into a shrine to which all lovers of good government will delight to go. It is necessary that Liberty hall be refurnished, and that a balance of $1,500 still due on land purchased be paid in order that it be made a fitting memorial to the great Georgian who spent there the greater part of his long and useful life. Georgia division, U. D. C., requests the general assembly of Georgia to appropriate the sum of $2,500 for the refurnishing of Liberty hall, and clearing up the debt on this land, and that this resolution be brought to the attention of that body by the committee on legislation.

Resolution 4—The Soldiers' Home has heretofore, under the law, admitted only Confederate soldiers.

There being danger of the discontinuance of said home, because of the small number of veterans who are receiving benefit therefrom. In the opinion of this convention the widows of Confederate veterans are, and ought to be, just as much the subject of affection and care and support of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. It is resolved by this convention in regular session assembled that in the opinion of its members all widows of Confederate veterans who are eligible for pensions should be received into the Soldiers' Home under the same conditions, privileges and restrictions as the Confederate veterans are now received therein.

A similar resolution passed by the convention of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, and a similar resolution having been passed by the convention of Confederate veterans, in their annual meetings, a committee of three from this convention be appointed to act on a joint committee appointed by the two conventions above named, and that the joint committee appointed of nine, be empowered and instructed to consider and pass upon the conditions and restrictions under which the widows of Confederate veterans be admitted to the Soldiers' Home. A committee will draft such bill as may be necessary and submit same to the general assembly of Georgia for passage to effectuate the object of this resolution.

Resolution 5—The finance committee requests that all chapters that did not send in the 10 cents per capita emergency contribution during the past year do so at as early a date as possible.

Resolution 6—There are now only a small number of Confederate veterans in Georgia, and these are dying almost daily. An overwhelming majority of these grand old veterans of gray are without any material assistance other than their small pension and in their present aged and feeble condition they are in greater need for financial assistance than ever before, and throughout the state the widows of Confederate veterans are likewise suffering for the actual necessities of life.

Under an act of the general assembly, the cigar and cigarette stamp tax was reduced on April 1, 1933, from 20 to 10 per cent, depriving these veterans and their widows of this additional aid, and the 20 per cent cigar and cigarette tax will not work a hardship on any of the citizens of the state and will completely care for the few remaining Confederate veterans of Georgia and their widows in the future.

Georgia division, U. D. C., does hereby recommend and urge the enactment of the 20 per cent clause in the cigar and cigarette tax law at the session of the general assembly of Georgia to be convened in January, 1935, in order that our Confederate veterans and their widows may be properly cared for during the remainder of their lives.

Also, that the legislative committee of this association is hereby instructed to lend its whole-hearted aid toward passage of such legislation at the next session of the legislature and that all local chapters of this organization throughout our state be urged to cooperate in securing the adoption of this act, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the governor of Georgia, president of the state senate and speaker of the house of representatives.

Resolution 7—Resolved that the Georgia division, U. D. C., in convention assembled, extend greetings and best wishes for continued success and good health to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Resolution 8—Georgia division, U. D. C., in session assembled in Griffin, Ga., October, 1934, extends greetings to Charles J. Haden and express to him the grateful appreciation of the organization for both the gift of the silver loving cup and his kind interest in this feature of work, which the division is striving to accomplish through the department of marking historic Georgia, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Hon. Charles J. Haden, 1521 Peachtree street, N. E., Atlanta, Ga., by the secretary.

Resolution 9—Since the Jefferson Davis highway in Georgia has never been officially designated by the Georgia legislature, and the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, wishes to mark with permanent granite markers Route 2 of this highway (Route 1 having been marked), we, the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, move to request the Georgia legislature at the next session to designate this highway, both Route 1 and Route 2, as the Jefferson Davis highway in Georgia, said route to follow the original plan of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, as set forth in the pamphlet published by the general society, U. D. C.

Resolution 10—That each chapter of the Georgia division appoint a committee to confer with their county representative and senator, and urge their support in the passage of a bill that will be introduced at the next session of Georgia legislature, to appropriate $2,500 for a suitable marker to be placed on the site of the capture of our beloved and only president of the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, in Jefferson Davis Memorial park, near Irwinville, Irwin county, Georgia.

Resolution 11—That the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in convention assembled October 18, 1934, at Griffin, Ga., in behalf of more than 10,000 women and the entire south, send a day letter to Miss Gay B. Shepperson, emergency relief administrator for Georgia, Atlanta, and respectfully urge her to provide sufficient federal funds to resume unfinished work at once on Jefferson Davis Memorial park, near Irwinville, Irwin county, Georgia, and carry same forward to completion.

The materials donated for U. D. C. hall and relic room and caretaker's cabin are rapidly deteriorating. Leaving this project uncompleted would be a scar on the face of Georgia and the southland.

At the ruins believed to be Homer's Troy, an altar with votive stones was recently found, and these suggest that Troy had a religion different from that prevailing in the Aegean.

Miss Wilson Weds Kenneth Matthews In Davisboro, Ga.

DAVISBORO, Ga., Nov. 3.—The wedding of Miss Nannie Jordan Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Wilson, of Davisboro, Ga., to Kenneth Heidt Matthews, of Atlanta, was solemnized Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the Davisboro Baptist church. Dr. Aquila Chambliss, president of Beattie Tift College, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. The altar, rostrum and choir loft of the church were elaborately decorated for the occasion.

Miss Elizabeth Anderson, of Forsyth, gave a program of nuptial music. Just before the entrance of the bride party William A. Matthews, brother of the bridegroom, sang "At Dawning" and "Oli Promise Me." Acting as ushers were James Keen Wilson, brother of the bride, and T. E. Matthews Jr., of Atlanta, cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Sybil Wilson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attractively attired in a suit of rust shade trimmed with blonde. She wore black accessories and a bouquet of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley. The ring-bearer, little Jimmie Keen, of Dublin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Keen Jr., wore a suit of brown velvet, carrying the ring on a pink satin pillow.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Thomas Clifton Slade, of Jacksonville. The bride, a lovely brunette, wore a suit of blue wool crepe. The three-quarter length coat was form fitting and worn with a white tulle house having a high neckline. Her hair was blue trimmed with an eye veil. She wore a bouquet of gardenias.

Following the ceremony Mr. Matthews and his bride left for a wedding trip to Florida. After November 10 they will be at home at 1584 Gordon street, S. W., Atlanta.

Among out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Matthews, of Orlando, Fla., parents of the bridegroom; James L. Keen, of Dublin, Ga., grandfather of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Keen and son, McGrath; Mr. and Mrs. James L. Keen Jr. and daughter, Jane; Miss Ola Keen, all of Dublin; Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Keen and daughter, Ann, of Macon; Miss Esther Wilson, of Montgomery, Ala.; Miss Julia McArthur, of Mount Vernon; Miss Marjorie Huff, of LaGrange; Miss Elizabeth Birdsong, of Athens; Miss Sara Bond Matthews, of Lithonia, and others.

On Friday evening after the rehearsal Mrs. John H. Taylor, aunt of the bride, and of the bride's mother, gave a reception for the bride party at her home in Davisboro. Misses Gladys and Esther Wilson, sister and cousin of the bride, were in charge of the punch bowl.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Wilson. She received her A. B. degree from Beattie Tift College in the class of 1934, at which time she was editor-in-chief of the college annual and took an active part in all college activities. The bridegroom is the son of Arthur Lawrence Matthews, formerly of Decatur. He graduated from Emory Academy, Oxford, in 1927 and from Georgia Tech in the class of 1933 with a B. S. degree in electrical engineering. He is a member of Kappa Eta Kappa, honorary electrical fraternity, and also a member of the Mallett Club. He now holds a responsible position with the Western Electric Company of Atlanta.

Butler—Motley.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 3.—The marriage of Miss Martha Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Truman Butler, of Barnesville, to Van Buren Motley, of Barnesville, took place at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Harry V. Smith on Stafford avenue and was attended by only the families and a few close friends of the young couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Smith.

The charming bride was attired in a full ensemble of brown satin back crepe, with deep bertha, long sleeves and cream lace. Her shoes, hat, gloves and bag were of brown and she wore a shoulder spray of talisman roses. Mrs. Motley is an unusually attractive and popular young woman and was graduated from Gordon College and since that time has been an employee of William Carter Company. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Truman Butler, and her sisters are Misses Dorothy and Effie Butler. Mr. Motley came to Barnesville six years ago from his home in Alexander City, Ala., and is an employee of Carter Company. Out-of-town guests were sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Wade and Mrs. Crawford Motley, of Alexander City. After the ceremony the young couple left for a motor trip through Alabama and upon their return will reside on Greenwood street.

Mrs. L. W. Taylor entertained at a bridge luncheon at her home on Superior avenue on Tuesday, and Mrs. Cecil Rhodes, of Norcross, a recent bride, was a special guest. Invited were Mesdames W. E. Rinford, Henry Newton, Cadesman Pope, Minor Franks, Scott Candler, Tracy Newton, D. W. Leary, Alvin Smith, V. Alderman, Hardy Padgett, Hal Padgett, B. P. McWhorter, M. E. Cox, Dick Parham, R. S. ## Lovely Officer of Debutante Club of 1934-35

Grace Scarborough

The charming sketch of Miss Mary Ann Carr, vice president of the Debutante Club of 1934-35, was drawn by Grace Scarborough. Miss Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, is among the most attractive and vivacious members of the youthful coterie. She has expressive blue eyes, fringed with dark lashes; a sparkling personality, a gracious and engaging manner, and is endowed with the social graces for which the women of her family are noted. She graduated from the Spence school in New York city, and spent the past summer traveling in England and in continental Europe. Miss Carr was presented to their Britannic majesties at the Court of St. James in London last June. The sketch was made from a photograph by Neblett.

Miss Cooper, of Columbus, To Wed Edward Wohlwender in December

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 3.—Announcement is made today by Mr. and Mrs. Willard Cooper, of Columbus, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Bradley Cooper, and Edward Wohlwender Jr., whose marriage will be solemnized in December.

Miss Cooper is the second daughter of her parents and on paternal and maternal sides, is a descendant of distinguished southern families. Her mother before her marriage was Miss Mary Guyton Bradley, daughter of Emma Bryant Bradley and the late Dan Bradley, of Columbus. She is a great-niece on her maternal side of W. C. Bradley and the late Forbes Bradley, Edward Bradley, Mrs. Alden Bradley Nuckolls and Mrs. Emma Bradley Nuckolls, of Columbus, and of the late Mrs. Harriett Bradley Carter and Mrs. Frances Carter Orr, of Atlanta. The bride-elect is a niece of Mrs. Herbert W. Hemphill, of Atlantic City, and of Mrs. A. N. Dykes, of Columbus. Her sisters are Mrs. John Heuer and Miss Margaret Cooper, and Dan Cooper is her brother.

On her paternal side the bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late John Thomas and Leonora Newsom Cooper. She is a niece of J. T. Cooper and Charlie Cooper and the late Newsome Cooper, and is a great-granddaughter of the late Colonel Aladin Thomas Newsom. Miss Cooper possesses personal charm and beauty. She was graduated from the high school and attended Ward-Belmont College in Nashville and is a popular member of the debutante set. She is a charter member of the Delta Sigma Delta, the debutante club in Columbus, and is a member of the Collier Club.

Like his bride-to-be, Mr. Wohlwender comes from a line of distinguished forebears. He is the second son of the Hon. and Mrs. Edward Wohlwender. His mother was before her marriage Miss Willie Blankenship, daughter of the late William Harrison Blankenship and Josephine Hollenbeck Blankenship. He is a nephew of Mrs. T. D. Meador, Major George Blankenship and Miss Byrd Blankenship, of Oakland, Cal.

On his paternal side Mr. Wohlwender is the grandson of the late Katherine Bussac, of Cynthiana, Ky., and Joseph Wohlwender. His father, the Hon. Edward Wohlwender, was a member of the Georgia legislature for 18 years and county commissioner for four years, two years of which he served as chairman of the board. Mr. Wohlwender attended Riverside Academy and Washington & Lee University in Virginia and studied law at the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. Since being admitted to the bar in Columbus he has been a member of the firm of Palmer & Wohlwender.

The bride was married in a traveling suit of brown tulle trimmed with dyed squirrel fur. Her accessories were also brown and she wore a corsage of talisman roses and valley lilies. Mr. and Mrs. Wheat left on a short wedding journey at the Atlantic coast.

The bride, a striking beauty of the blonde type, is regarded as one of the loveliest and most popular young ladies. After graduating from the local schools she attended Georgia State Teachers College in Athens, where she was prominent in scholastic affairs.

Mr. Wheat, the only son of Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Wheat, of Bainbridge, is a well known young businessman, being secretary-treasurer of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Bainbridge, and a member of the firm of Wheat & O'Neal. He was educated at Riverside Military Academy, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Mercer University. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Garden Club of Georgia Launches Conservation Week With Program

Mrs. Thomas Hubbard McHatten, of Athens, president of the Garden Club of Georgia, whose regime has been marked by constructive effort toward preserving Georgia plant life, makes the following earnest appeal in behalf of conservation week from November 4 to 11.

"A great concerted movement toward the conservation of our forests, native flora and bird life, is being launched today by the Garden Club of Georgia.

"The governor has proclaimed the days of November 4 to 11 as Conservation Week and in co-operation the schools of Georgia, the press, the business houses, all state departments, horticulture and forestry association and all garden societies and clubs are joining hands to successfully put over this gigantic program.

"During this week lectures in schools and clubs have been arranged to stress the conservation needs and demands of each community and to make plans to take care of these needs.

In Atlanta, Rich's is generously lending their top floor and their support for such a meeting and for the occasion has secured the services of the eminent Dr. Edgar Wherry, of the University of Pennsylvania, and Georgia's own Dr. Charles Herty, who donated the 50,000 sheets of Georgia pine pulp paper on which the conservation bulletins recently sent to Georgia's schools were printed. Dr. Herty needs no introduction to any state.

"Dr. Wherry is coming to Georgia with a national reputation and his lantern slide illustrated lecture on 'Some Notable Georgia Wild Flowers' will probably be one of the most interesting, unusual and instructive lectures ever given in Georgia. It is urged that the state attend this lecture and take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to learn more about the native flora.

"In anticipation of this meeting, Dr. Wherry has been in Georgia several days making a collection of rare and unusual specimens and he hopes to have many of these to show on Monday afternoon.

Charleston has its azalea gardens. Washington its cherry blossom time and of no less importance should be Atlanta at the dogwood blooming season. Atlanta's citizenry in doing its part for the state-wide conservation program must work together to plant more and more dogwood trees so that Atlanta's fame as the nation's 'dogwood city' may spread far and wide, bringing with it added glory and honor to the state as a whole.

"The Garden Club of Georgia cordially invites all garden lovers, wild flower enthusiasts and all those interested in the conservation of Georgia's natural beauties to bespeak their interest and support by attending the meeting to be held on Monday, November 5, at 3 p. m. at Rich's, which during Georgia's Conservation Week will be lavishly decorated in artificial branches of Atlanta's chosen blossoms."

Perennial Garden Club

Perennial Garden Club's meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 6, at 10:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Walter R. Lamb, 543 Peoples street, which will be a happy choice, as Mrs. Lamb's beautiful fall-blooming irises and late roses are now at the peak, as well as many annuals.

The program will be furnished by Mrs. Sage Hardin, a paper on 'Delphinium,' and Mrs. Fritz Jones, 'Influence of Modern Garden Fashions.'

Mrs. John E. Brickman, the president, has returned from an extended trip north and east, and requests full attendance.

Womanless Wedding.

The Sandy Springs Methodist church is sponsoring a 'Womanless Wedding' the evening of November 8, at 8 o'clock at the Hammond school auditorium at Sandy Springs. The public is invited. Admission for adults is 25 cents, children 15 cents.

Attractive Georgians Enact Bridal Roles

Camp Fire Guardians To Sponsor Benefit

Guardians' Association of Camp Fire Girls will sponsor a benefit bridge Wednesday, November 7, at 3 o'clock in Davison-Paxon Company's tea room. Mrs. A. E. Wilson, president of the organization, requests the co-operation of parents and friends of Camp Fire girls to attend and to help make this annual money-making project a success. Tables will be $1 and tickets may be secured from Camp Fire headquarters, fifth floor, Davison-Paxon Company, or from Mrs. Arthur Gresham, Dearborn 1197-J.

Mrs. H. W. Morrow, chairman of prizes, announces that many lovely prizes have been secured, among them two $5 merchandising certificates on one of the leading department stores. Mrs. Raymond O'Brien is chairman of candy sales and her group, Navaho, will assist during the afternoon. Mrs. Arthur Gresham, Mrs. C. L. Cheek and Mrs. Stanley Hastings comprise the attendance committee.

The general public is invited and those reserving tables are asked to bring their own cards.

John Wilkinson O. E. S. To Meet.

John R. Wilkinson Chapter, O. E. S., meets at the chapter hall, corner of Bankhead avenue and Ashby street, on Monday evening, November 5, at 7:30 o'clock. Members of the order are especially invited to the meeting, which will be one of unusual interest, due to the fact that the largest number of candidates for initiation into the order will be given the degrees, 10 in all, being the largest number ever carried through any Atlanta chapter at one meeting. Special dispensation has been granted by the grand matron, Miss Irene Arden, for the ceremony, and presiding officers and those putting on the degree work will be Mrs. Ruth Whitfield, worthy matron; Clarence Whitfield, worthy patron; Mrs. Leone Nolan, associate matron; Mrs. Eunice Buckalew, secretary; Mrs. Maybelle Thomas, conductress; Mrs. Ella Beard, associate conductress, and the following Star points, Mrs. Laura Ellison, Adah; Mrs. Myrene Elliott, Ruth; Mrs. Alice Gibbs, Esther; Mrs. Rattie Allen, Martha, and Mrs. Addie McBride, Electa. Mrs. Belle Haley will be the organist.

Aviation Ball.

On Saturday evening, November 10, the Oriental Club will sponsor an aviation ball in honor of the visiting pilots who will participate in the great air show scheduled at Candler field on November 11 and 12. All visiting pilots will be guests of the club and the public will be invited to the dance. The Oriental Club, through its weekly dances, raises money that is devoted to charitable purposes and a large portion of the proceeds will be contributed to the Christmas Empty Stocking Fund. Roy M. Felker, chairman of the dance committee, has arranged an interesting program and a popular dance orchestra will furnish music from 9 to 12 o'clock. Admission will be $1 per couple with no additional charge for extra ladies.

Mrs. Turner To Fete Mrs. Pearson at Tea

Mrs. William S. Turner Jr. will entertain at a tea on Wednesday, November 14, at her home on Rumson road, in compliment to her mother, Mrs. William F. Pearson, of Washington, D. C., who arrives in Atlanta on November 10. Mrs. Robert C. Alston will preside at the tea table. The guests will include a small group of close friends of the honor guest. Mrs. Pearson formerly resided here for four years during Colonel Pearson's tour of duty with the general staff of the fourth corps area and has a host of friends in both civilian and military ranks. The tea is one of a series of entertainments planned in honor of this charming visitor.

Florence Marge Lectures Nov. 7

Every gardener thrills to the thought of boxwood, and for 2,000 years this beautiful and aristocratic evergreen has played an important role in the gardens of many lands. On Wednesday, November 7, at 3 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club the Planters' Garden Club will present Florence Marge in an illustrated talk on 'Boxwood Through the Ages.' She will discuss the use of boxwood in the gardens of ancient Rome, in the medieval cloister garths and Castle Plaisance, in the courtyards of Moorish Spain, in the splendid gardens of the renaissance and the eighteenth century and lastly in the beautiful old American gardens. This talk is open to the public. No tickets will be sold but admission at the door will be 50 cents. Mrs. L. G. Daingerfield, president of the Planters' Garden Club, will introduce the speaker.

Legion Auxiliary Editor Comments On Ga. Delegates Attending Convention

By LATIMER WATSON,
Director of Publicity, Georgia Department, American Legion Auxiliary.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 3.—With the spirit of patriotism burning deep in their hearts, the Georgia delegation returned last week from the national convention in Miami, fired with a new enthusiasm for the great work of the organization, the largest patriotic body of women in the world.

The convention was a magnificent one. For the first time in history it was held out of doors with the blue skies as a canopy, the royal palms and luxuriant tropical growth of the Bayfront park offering welcome and means of praise to "America the Beautiful."

The convention, which unanimously elected Mrs. A. C. Carlson, Wilmar, Minn., as president, made plans for a program of constructive service ranging from child welfare to national defense.

Twelve resolutions outlining work for the auxiliary were offered and adopted by the convention. Among them was one opposing relaxation of the present restrictions of immigration laws and calling for specific opposition to the Crowe bill and all other legislation of similar character. Another called for increased congressional appropriations to deport aliens convicted of crime and the transfer of this duty to the department of justice. Another made the speedy enactment of a universal draft law a part of the major legislative program and gave it preferred position on this program.

The auxiliary joined with the Legion in its recommendation for "immediate cash payment at face value of adjusted compensation certificates, with cancellation of interest accrued and refund of interest paid." In a resolution praising the work of the outgoing president, Mrs. William H. Biester, of Philadelphia, the auxiliary paid tribute to her "knowledge, energy, tact, charm, executive ability" and her "outstanding successful leadership" during her term of office.

A brilliant social program, climaxed by the states' dinner, made the convention a memorable one. Miss Mattie Kate Bagley, president of the Georgia department, presided at the table where Georgia's notables were seated. Among the distinguished guests were Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Winder; Sidney Camp, Newnan, commander; DeLancey Allen, Albany; Commander-Elect Quimby Mel-ton, Griffin; Mrs. Robert H. McNulty, Columbus; Lieutenant Stanley Jones, Macon; Mrs. J. W. Oglesby Jr., Quitman; Mrs. J. Witherspoon Daniel, Waycross; Mrs. Myrtle A. Young, Eatonton; General Peter C. Harris, Hon. Edgar E. Dunlap, Gainesville; Mrs. Arthur H. Hazard, Atlanta; Miss Helen Estes, Gainesville; Mrs. P. L. Dixon, Thomasville; Miss Lella Summerville, Waycross; Mr. and Mrs. Emory Bass, Valdosta, and William J. Parker, Cedartown.

During the dinner the Georgia party paid honor to its distinguished past national president, Mrs. Boyce Ficklen Jr., of Washington, Ga., and Lieutenant Jones presented her with a basket of beautiful flowers. The dinner was staged out of doors in a setting of fairy-like beauty. Miss Bagley was gowned in blue taffeta and silver with corsage of orchids. Miss Estes, vice president, wore white with orchid corsage, and Mrs. McNulty, secretary, was gowned in white with shoulder spray of gardenias. On Tuesday, Miss Bagley and Mrs. McNulty motored to Atlanta to be guests at the dinner given Wednesday evening as a compliment to Mrs. George Belgrano, California, wife of the new national commander, and were honored guests at the tea at which the Decatur unit entertained on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Scott Candler.

Miss Grant Honors Debutante Group.

Dr. Marx Addresses Council Of Atlanta Parents and Teachers

Dr. David Marx used character building as his subject in addressing the Atlanta Council of Parents and Teachers at its meeting held Thursday in Sterchi's clubroom. Mental education and character education are both important, stressed Dr. Marx, but the mental attitude of the child toward the home, the school and the teacher is the necessary fundamental in the development of the child. "Right morality will accompany right attitudes, and parents should realize that we are educating for life instead of for the present day and to make sure that the present-day education will meet the needs of the future," said Dr. Marx. Vocal selections were given by girls from Commercial High school under direction of Miss Ruth Weegand.

Dr. E. R. Enloe, director of the department of visual education exhibited educational motion picture slides showing that apparent mental deficiencies are due largely to the visual inability of the child. Many times children are unable to read because of visual handicaps.

Much progress was noted in the schools over a period of approximately 10 years. The enrollment in elementary schools has increased only 11 per cent whereas the enrollment in high schools increased 56 per cent. The average cost per year per pupil is $58.58.

Mrs. Straiton Hard announced study classes on "school education" for November 27 at the city hall. Mrs. C. G. Kemper announced classes on the publicity manual beginning Thursday, November 8, on the twelfth floor of the city hall. There will be five classes and a publicity luncheon will be given at the close of the classes. All local publicity chairmen are urged to attend these classes.

Mrs. D. B. Longino, council president, requested the co-operation of the local parent-teacher associations with relief agencies operating along child welfare lines, and that donations be made to the Atlanta council milk and shoe fund.

Carey Park Meets.
Carey Park P.T. A. met recently "Health" was the subject stressed by the program committee, Mrs. Ethel Cooper and Miss Dahlia Baker. Miss Estelle Murphy, winner in a milk bottle cutting contest, was awarded a bottle of milk. In another contest, Mrs. Grady Bell won the prize, a large box of groceries. The program was climaxed by a talk by Dr. Hines Roberts on "Immunization," who stated that children can be immunized against contagious disease for $1. Members of the Fulton County Medical Association have agreed to do the work without charge between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

John B. Gordon P.T. A. met Tuesday with Mrs. S. H. Griffin, president, presiding. Interesting talks were made by Dr. Hope Shirley from the Community Chest, and Dr. James Yampolsky from the Fulton Medical Society. A discussion of "Welfare of Youth of Community" was opened by Miss Barker. The mothers' chorus rendered two selections. Grade prizes were awarded Mrs. Johnston's grade for the higher grades and Miss Merck grade for the lower.

E. P. Howell P.T. A.
Daddies' Night was held Thursday at the E. P. Howell school auditorium. The invocation was given by Rev. Dodd, pastor of the Underwood Methodist church. Mrs. G. C. Robertson, P.T. A. president, extended a welcome to the parents and visitors. An attractive and enjoyable talk on how to utilize spare time was given by Mr. Wells, superintendent of the Fulton county schools. Mr. Wells pointed out the value derived from reading, the study of fine arts and other profitable uses of leisure time.

N. E. Ballard, who was introduced by Judge Irwin, gave an interesting speech on the subject of sacrificing wisely for the future. The attendance prizes were won by Miss Wade's third grade, Miss Rolander's fourth grade. Music and contests were enjoyed, following which refreshments were served.

E. P. Howell P.T. A. met in the school auditorium Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. G. C. Robertson, the president, presiding. An interesting health program, which emphasized 12 important laws of health, was presented by pupils of the third grade. Mrs. Frank Bettendorf, who presided, pointed out the value derived from ten county mothers' chorus was being organized by Mrs. J. C. Brown, instructor and musical director at Fulton county schools. All mothers who were interested were urged to see Mrs. Brown. The attendance prizes for the meeting were won by Miss Alma Wade's third grade and Miss Mabelle Rolander's fourth grade.

Lena H. Cox P.T. A.
Dr. C. W. Harwell brought an inspiring message to the Lena H. Cox P.T. A. on health at the meeting Wednesday. "An important factor in the life of the school child is the formation of health habits on which life is founded," he said. A demonstration in first aid was given.

Mrs. E. A. Mathis, president, is conducting a unique membership drive. A prize of $5 is offered to the room having 100 per cent P.T. A. membership. Several grades are using the 100 per cent mark and will be eligible for the prize offered by this association.

Mrs. Lena H. Cox, treasurer, reported $101.37 net proceeds, realized from the Halloween carnival. This money is being spent for individual libraries and for stereoscopes and stereograph units in geography for each room.

Five hundred bottles were sent to the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association this week. The amount spent for bottles can be used for hospital clothing, X-rays and many needy things.

An additional feature of the afternoon was the "United Show" given by the fourth grade.

Kle Club Luncheon.

The first in a series of parties to be given by the Kle Club for its Christmas charity fund will be a luncheon on Wednesday at Sterchi's, to which the public is invited. A delicious lunch will be served for 35 cents per person from 11:30 until 2 o'clock. Those desiring to play cards during the afternoon may do so by bringing their own cards.

State P.T. A. Executive Committee Meets in Atlanta Thursday, Nov. 8

By Mrs. WHEELER TOLBERT.
Publicity Director, Georgia P.T. A.
Mrs. Charles D. Center, president of Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, calls a meeting of the executive committee of the congress at the state office, Henry Grady building, Atlanta, on Thursday, November 8, at 10 a. m. The executive committee is the program committee and at this meeting the program will be outlined for the state convention to be held at Rome, Ga. in the spring. A full attendance of the members of the executive committee is requested by the president.

District Notes.
The seventh district held a school of instruction in Rome on Friday, November 2, at the Greystone hotel. The fall conference of the ninth district will take place in Gainesville on November 6. A new president will be elected to succeed Mrs. Sam Craig Jr., who has resigned on account of ill health. Mrs. Lawrence Kelly, president, will preside over the meeting of the first district in Reidsville on November 17, and the second district will meet at Liberty, November 9, with Mrs. V. F. Balkcom presiding.

The Brantley County Council was held on October 27 at an exceptionally splendid conference. Two hundred and twenty-five parents and teachers from the district came for the school of instruction. Mrs. T. D. Middleton, of Hortense, president of the Brantley county council, introduced the district president, Mrs. W. E. Sessions, of McRae. After music, introduction of presidents, a recreation period, led by Mrs. J. C. Hester, Mrs. Charles Center, state president, addressed the conference. Mrs. Center stressed membership—getting members through personal contact and holding them through programs, adapted to local needs. She urged the selection of a few objectives and an earnest effort to achieve those.

At the afternoon session, Zone No. 1, elected Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Waynesville, leader; Zone 2, Mrs. Jack Williams, Waycross, leader; Zone 3, Mrs. Thomas Overstreet, of Douglas, leader; Zone 4, to be supplied later. It was announced that Isabella Street P.T. A., of Waycross, has the largest membership in the district, reporting 100 members. Mrs. Katherine Weathersbee, state chairman of humane education, challenged the eighth district to keep the loving cup won for excellence in humane work. Delegates were present from Glynn, Bacon, Charlton, Coffee and Telfair counties.

Mrs. Center was also a guest speaker in Americus on October 25, addressing the district educational council, in the morning, and the district P.T. A. in the afternoon, at Southwestern College. The morning program also included Miss L. M. Adams, president, G. E. A.; Mrs. Gurr, of Dawson; Professor Urban Rumble, of Columbus High school; Nelson Shipp, editor of the Columbus and Lincoln McConell, of Macon. Greetings were extended by Dr. Peyton Jacobs, president of the college. A barbecue lunch was served. The afternoon session was devoted to the work of the state office, and Mrs. Center stressed membership, programs and the home, explained the working of the state office, and answered questions concerning P.T. A. problems. Mrs.

Mrs. R. L. Bowdoin, of Fitzgerald, presided at the afternoon session.

Library Chairman Offers Suggestions

Mrs. T. L. Slappey, 2033 North Side drive, chairman of library service for Fulton County Council of Parents and Teachers, offers the following program to her chairmen: 1. Encourage associations to make best possible use of library facilities. 2. Help build up school library, especially where there is no public library. 3. Promote interest in starting a county library through sponsoring a permissive library bill. Write R. L. Ramsey, Fulton High school, who will present this bill for us before the legislature. 4. Aid in developing school library service by furnishing information as to available library facilities, through, for instance, the Georgia library commission. Visit local library and discover its various kinds of work and its outstanding needs. Offer assistance if possible. 5. Establish well-organized children's reading room. 6. Work for state traveling library to county library or city library within driving distance. 8. See that your summer activity program included library service and that report of it is sent to the summer activity chairman in order that your school may be eligible for the "Mattie Talmadge Award." 9. Observe "Better Book Week" the second week of November.

The Fulton county chairman of library service is anxious to know each local chairman personally and would appreciate a call from her over the telephone. The state chairman, Mrs. George Slappey, advises that plans for "Better Book Week" be made as early as possible, in co-operation with school plans. This program should include posters in the halls of the school and in any neighborhood center, encouraging the community to make available to both youth and adults good books. Chairmen of parent education and of children's reading will be glad to aid in this work. "Better Book Week" offers also an opportunity of setting forth P.T. A. plans for better library facilities for the school and community and for summing up summer reading activities. Further suggestions may be had from our own congress publications, the American Library Association and from the Georgia library commission at the state capital.

Publicity Chairmen To Attend School

A new phase of parent-teacher activity will be launched in the fifth district Thursday, November 8, with a publicity school. The classes will be taught by Mrs. Z. V. Petersen, first vice president of the Fifth District P.T. A. council, and the school will be held in quarters on the twelfth floor of city hall.

The course of training to be offered is sponsored by National P.T. A. headquarters, at Washington. The object is to instruct local publicity chairmen in concise, skillful handling of news of the parent-teacher associations. All P.T. A. publicity chairmen in Fulton and DeKalb counties are eligible to attend and are urged to do so. Classes will meet from 10 to 12 a. m. The school will be held once a week for five weeks. Those completing the course will be granted a certificate at its conclusion.

The school is expected to prove of substantial assistance and will be especially helpful to those publicity chairmen whose experience in the work has been brief.

Katherine Weathersbee spoke on "Humane Education" and Mrs. C. D. Cumbs, of Columbus, was appointed chairman of this work in the third district. State officers present included Mrs. Frank David, Columbus fifth vice president of the Georgia congress, and Mrs. Wheeler Tolbert, Columbus, publicity chairman. Mrs. Bowdoin brought a message of interest to the entire district, and introduced her officers and zone chairmen.

It was announced that 73 certificates had been awarded members of the Muscogee County Council, for completing a study in parliamentary law, taught by Mrs. Nunnally Johnson, state parliamentarian. Forty-three of these were present at the Americus meet.

Plans were made for strengthening the work of the third district and report was given of the meeting of the executive board of the district, held the week previous at the home of the president, Mrs. Bowdoin, in Fitzgerald. Plans were made for district extension work. At a luncheon tendered the board by Mrs. Bowdoin at the Lee-Grant hotel, Miss Louise Smith spoke on the value to children of reading good books.

Education Week.
Attention is called to the fourteenth annual American Education Week to be observed from November 5 to 11. The programs to be held around the theme, "Educating for Tomorrow" and to be sponsored as usual by the National Education Association, the United States office of education, and the American Legion. Co-operation will be given by other organizations whose membership totals millions, and each community will be asked to adapt the observance to its own needs.

This observance is held each year in the week in which Armistice Day falls. The theme of this year's programs will make this a step in the adaptation of education to the needs of a changing social order. The purpose is to give the public an opportunity to participate in selecting educational objectives and appraising the work of the schools. Recent critical developments in national life make participation in the 1934 observance of Education Week a paramount duty of good citizenship, and the observance will include a study of social and economic goals toward which our nation is moving.

Daily topics for programs are suggested as follows: Monday, "Planning for Tomorrow"; Tuesday, "Developing New Types of Schooling"; Wednesday, "Improving the Rural School"; Thursday, "Financing Our Schools"; Friday, "Quickening the Sense of Responsibility"; Saturday, "Preparing for New Kinds of Service"; Sunday, "Enriching Character Through Education."

The department of education in the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers indorses this observance, and the head of this department, Mrs. Frank David, Columbus, and her chairman urge an observance of the week in every community of the state. Study groups, mass meetings, radio talks are some of the mediums through which thoughtful and inspiring messages on these subjects may be brought to the public.

Invitation Issued.
The following invitation setting forth what it means to be a parent-teacher worker, is addressed to all prospective members of a P.T. A.: "The one thing in the world on which everyone, regardless of race, creed or language, can agree is the worth of a little child. America is commited to the ideal that every child shall have a fair start in life. The organized parenthood of America is a mighty force for worthier homes, better schools and finer communities."

"As a member of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, you have a part in helping to realize that ideal in your home, in your community, in your state, in the nation and in the world. Everything that you put into the movement in time, energy, money and spirit, helps to magnify the finer and richer values of our civilization. It is an inspiring movement worthy of your best and you may well be proud of your part in it."

Miss Anderson Is Betrothed To Mr. Nesbitt

Of paramount importance today is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. James Cullen Anderson of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marguerite Claire Anderson, to John Taylor Nesbitt, of College Park, the date of the marriage to be announced later.

Numbered among the most popular of Atlanta's belles, Miss Anderson has a magnetic personality, coupled with charm of manner. She has been an admired figure at social affairs in Atlanta and in a number of other southern cities where she has been a fêted guest. The bride-elect is a graduate of Washington Seminary, and is a member of the Girls' Cotillion, Pi Pi, and Pirate clubs.

A representative of prominent Southern families, Miss Anderson is the only daughter of her parents, her mother having been the former Miss Lillian Hamilton, of Nashville, Tenn., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Polk Hamilton, of Cookeville, Tenn. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Anderson, of Lebanon, Tenn.

Like his future bride, Mr. Nesbitt is a member of influential families. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey Richard Nesbitt, his mother having been the former Miss Mary Jane Taylor, of Anniston, Ala. He is the brother of Richard, William, and Charles Nesbitt, Mrs. Ben Largent and Miss Mildred Nesbitt. Mr. Nesbitt is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology and is connected with the engineering department of the Southeastern Underwriters' Association.

Miss Broughton Weds Mr. Taylor On November 22

Engaging the interest of a host of friends throughout Georgia and North Carolina is the announcement made today of the engagement of Miss Mary Briscoe Broughton to Robert Brown Taylor, of Atlanta, formerly of Tarboro, N. C. Both the bride-elect and the bridegroom-elect are representatives of families prominently identified with the cultural and educational life of the south-east.

Miss Broughton is the only daughter of Dr. Joseph Broughton, well-known Atlanta dentist, and the late Frances Briscoe Broughton, who was the eldest daughter of the late Alexander Creagh Briscoe and the late Sarah Pope Hammock Briscoe, of this city. Her paternal grandparents were Gaston H. Broughton and Hawkins Francis Broughton, of Raleigh, N. C.

The lovely bride-elect attended Girls' High school and is an honor graduate of Randolph-Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg, Va., where she was a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

Mr. Taylor is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. David Dawson Taylor, of Tarboro, N. C., his mother having been before her marriage Miss Margaret Brown, of Martin county, North Carolina. His only sister is Miss Margaret Brown Taylor, of Knoxville, Tenn., and his brothers are David D. Taylor Jr., of Tarboro, N. C., and Dr. Haywood M. Taylor, of Durham, N. C.

The bridegroom-elect is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, where he was a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Mr. Taylor is now connected with the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company in this city.

The marriage of Miss Broughton and Mr. Taylor will be quietly solemnized at the bride-elect's home on Thursday afternoon, November 22, in the presence of the families and close friends.

Mrs. Wright, Maj. Richart Are Married

FORT BLISS, Texas, Nov. 3.—Of interest to army and civilian circles in Georgia and Texas is the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Mary McCleskey Wright, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., to Major Dunstan Grant Richart, U. S. A., of Fort Bliss, Texas, the ceremony taking place on last September 27 at Las Cruces, N. M., with the Rev. C. M. Darton officiating. Included among the small group of friends accompanying the bridal pair to Las Cruces were Colonel and Mrs. A. M. Milton, Captain and Mrs. B. G. Hudson and Miss Mary Beth Richart, daughter of Major Richart.

Following their marriage, Major and Mrs. Richart spent several days at Santa Fe and Taos, New Mexico. They are now quartered at Fort Bliss, where Major Richart is stationed. Mrs. Richart is the former Miss Mary McCleskey, daughter of Mrs. Henry S. McCleskey and the late Mr. McCleskey, who

Miss Ware Weds Dr. J. H. Venable In December

Of wide social interest is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Ware of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Felker Ware, to Dr. John Heinz Venable, the marriage to be solemnized in December. Miss Ware is the eldest of three attractive daughters, her sisters being Miss Rosalind and Miss Clare Felker Ware. Her mother was formerly Miss Clare Felker, of Monroe, Ga. On her maternal side Miss Ware is the granddaughter of Mrs. George Walton Felker and the late Mr. Felker, of Monroe. On her paternal side she is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Ware, of Jackson county.

Miss Ware moved with her family from Lawrenceville to Atlanta a few years ago and has made many friends during her short residence here. She is an honor graduate of Agnes Scott College, receiving her A. B. degree in 1931. Later she studied at Emory University, where she received her M. A. degree.

Dr. Venable is the only son of Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Venable, the latter having been before her marriage Miss Josephine Heinz, of Atlanta. His only sister is Miss Mary Elizabeth Venable, who is a student at Emory University.

Dr. Venable's father is one of the most beloved ministers in the North Georgia conference, having served many important charges. On his maternal side Dr. Venable is the grandson of Mrs. John M. Heinz and the late Mr. Heinz, of Atlanta. On his paternal side he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence Venable, of Bartow county.

Dr. Venable received his B. S. and M. D. degrees from Emory University and served his internship at Grady hospital. He is a member of the Chi Phi social fraternity and of the Alpha Kappa Kappa medical fraternity. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Caducius and Aesculapius honorary fraternities. At present he is instructor in the medical department of Emory University.

Mrs. Arthur Rylander, of Americus, Ga., the bride-elect's sister, will act as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will include Miss Betty Zimmer, of Montclair, N. J., the groom-elect's sister; Mrs. Frederic Rahr, of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mrs. Wylie Arnold and Mrs. Francis Gilbert, both of Atlanta. Little Miss Cornelle Rylander, the bride-elect's niece, will be flower girl.

Mr. Zimmer will be attended as best man by Henry B. du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., and acting as ushers will be Bascom Torrance, of New York, and Cobb Torrance, brothers of the bride-to-be; Epps Brown and Isaac J. Osburn, of this city.

Included among out-of-town guests attending the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. Emile John Zimmer, parents of the groom-to-be, and his sister, Miss Betty Zimmer, of Montclair, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas B. deJurenev, of New York, the groom-elect's brother and sister; Mr. and Mrs. Henry du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rahr, of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Prior to the wedding Miss Torrance will be honored guest at a number of social gayeties, the first of these lovely events scheduled for next week being a luncheon at which Miss Virginia Courts will be hostess at the Piedmont Driving Club on Tuesday, November 6. On Friday, November 9, Mrs. Walter Wellborn, Mrs. William Wellborn and Miss Mary Wellborn will entertain at tea at the home of the former.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. Osburn have planned an aperitif party for Miss Torrance and her fiance, who will arrive in the city several days prior to the wedding, for Saturday, November 17, the occasion to follow the Tech-Atlanta football game. On the evening of November 17 Miss Betty Timmons will entertain in honor of this popular bridal pair at a dinner party at the Piedmont Driving Club. Sunday, November 18, Mr. and Mrs. Cobb Caldwell will be hosts at tea at their home on Peachtree road, the affair to be followed that evening by a dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. Howard Candler Jr. will entertain.

Monday, November 19, Mrs. William Warren will honor Miss Torrance with a luncheon party, and in the evening of that date Price Gilbert will be host at a supper following the wedding rehearsal. Others entertaining in compliment to this prominent bride-elect will be Mrs. Howell Cobb Erwin, Mrs. Ross Hunter and Mrs. William Ogden.

Charm Group Plans To Give Style Show At University Nov. 6

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 3.—With Miss Dahlia McMurdo, of Atlanta, acting as master of ceremonies, the Charm group of the Co-ordinate College of the University of Georgia will sponsor a style show in Pound auditorium Tuesday evening. Among the entertainers will be Miss Anne Johnson and Bobby Brooks, singers, and Miss Edith Logue and Ed Cunningham, tap dancing team.

The Halloween festival of the Women's Athletic Association of the university will be held Tuesday evening at the physical education building. Miss Mae Dobbs Kincaid, president of the association, is in charge of the program and Miss Mary Campbell, new instructor in physical education, is the faculty adviser of the group.

The University's youngest national social sorority, Eta of Tau Alpha Omega, will entertain its members and pledges at open house Sunday evening at the chapter home on Millidge avenue.

Lambda chapter of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity entertained with an informal chapter house dance Saturday evening. Chaperons included Dean and Mrs. R. C. Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Mote, Professor Herbert Owens, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mathis, and Mrs. J. W. Warner.

Alumnae and patronesses of the Phi Mu sorority were honored with a tea at the chapter house Thursday. Receiving with Mrs. Burton Ferguson, housemother, and Miss Meta Shaw, president of the local chapter, were Mrs. Lee Bradberry, Mrs. R. P. Brooks, Mrs. Thomas Hooper, and Mrs. M. P. Jarnagin. Honorary members of the chapter were Mrs. Frank Stewart, members of the Gamma Alpha chapter of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority were hostesses at a tea Tuesday. In the receiving line were Miss Helen Williams, president of the chapter; Mrs. Stewart and Miss Esther Roberts, pledge president; Mesdames W. L. Florence and B. L. Boykin poured tea.

In honor of Miss Mary Merritt, national inspector of the Phi Mu sorority, the local chapter gave a buffet supper Tuesday evening.

"Syncopeated Circus" was the name given the campus Voluntary Religious Association to the annual Halloween carnival held Saturday evening in the physical education building. Dancing, fortune telling, side shows, and similar items gave the evening the carnival spirit. Miss Jane McKinnon was in charge of the arrangements. The chaperons were friends of the Voluntary Religious Association and included President and Mrs. R. V. Sanford, Dean and Mrs. Paul W. Chapman, Dean and Mrs. L. L. Hendren, Dean and Mrs. R. H. Powell, Dean of Women A. Rhodes, Mr. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Seacrest, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Aderhold, Mrs. Jennie B. Myers, Mrs. Cora A. Garwood, Mrs. Maude A. Hart, Miss Mary Arle and Miss Agnes Highsmith.

Annual "Stunt Night," sponsored by the university music department and glee club, and participated in and attended by most of the student body, will be held November 15. Hugh Hodgson, head of the music department, has announced.

Miss Wright, Major Richart Are Married

made their home for a number of years in Little Rock, Ark., prior to residence in Georgia, where they were members of prominent families in the latter state. Mrs. Richart's mother was before her marriage Miss Nina Fish, daughter of the distinguished jurist, the late Judge William Fish, and Mrs. Fish, of Atlanta. The bride's paternal grandparents were the late Dr. and Mrs. G. L. McCleskey, of Athens, Ga., whose families for generations have been prominently identified with the south's social, civic and educational circles.

Mrs. Richart's only sister is Mrs. Charles Gerhart, wife of Major Gerhart, U. S. A., who recently was transferred to the Philippines from Fort Bliss. Major and Mrs. Richart are prominent additions to military circles at this army post, the former coming here several months ago from Atlanta, Ga., where she was numbered among that city's most beautiful and popular young women.

Miss Katherine Eaves Will Visit Here

she was Miss Gresham's guest at her seashore cottage.

Pretty Miss Eaves is a decided brunette, with wavy dark hair and luminous brown eyes. Her winsome personality, her charming and gracious manner, and her prowess at tennis, swimming and horseback riding have won her many admirers. This attractive young girl was crowned queen of the Momus ball during the Mardi Gras celebration last year, and received a great deal of homage from the court-at-large and the social contingent attending the ball. Although Miss Eaves will not make her formal bow to society until next year, she is quite popular in New Orleans society. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Eaves, who belong to representative and aristocratic families who have long been prominent in the social life of the Crescent City.

Miss Gresham is combining serious and frivolous work during her debutante season, as she is attending the University of Georgia during the week and motor to Atlanta for the week-end to attend the social gaudies planned for the debutante coterie of which she is a charming member.

Friends To Toast Bridal Couple Today

No date more suitable for a party honoring Miss Marguerite Anderson and her fiancé, John Taylor Nesbitt, could have been chosen by Mr. and Mrs. James F. Dickey, who will compliment them this afternoon at an apertit party at their home on Maddox drive. A group of friends of the honor guests have been invited to call at 5 o'clock to toast the popular couple on the day of their betrothal announcement.

Among interesting wedding gifts to be received by Miss Anderson and Mr. Nesbitt will be the exquisite set of after-dinner coffee cups of fragile china, which were a wedding gift to the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cullen Anderson, and which they in turn will give their daughter and her future husband. Although no definite plans have been made for the Anderson-Nesbitt wedding, it will certainly be among the most interesting events of the early winter. After their marriage Mr. Nesbitt and his bride will reside in Atlanta.

Miss Thompson Writes Story for Magazine

The November issue of the Junior League magazine carries an interesting feature article written by Miss Elizabeth Thompson, a member of the staff of the woman's department of The Constitution. Entitled "Twenty-Four Hour Duty," the story deals with life in a newspaper office in a most amusing manner.

Interwoven into the pattern of the article is a bright thread of humor, very cleverly expressed. The rush of work, the hustle and bustle of the busy day, and the intriguing requests made by the public are depicted in the story. A serious note is struck in the big news breaks, and a sparkle of wit is achieved in the happenings of the daily routine.

Miss Thompson, who made her debut three years ago, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seymour Thompson, and is a talented member of the Atlanta Junior League. She is a member of the League's Scribblers' Club and possesses a natural flare for writing.

Atlantans Enjoy Week-End Trips

In addition to attending school at Gunston Hall, Washington, D. C., a trio of charming youthful Atlantans, Misses Judy Beers, Elizabeth L'Engle, and Christine Thiesen, find plenty of time for gay week-end and social activities in Washington. This week-end the trio are at Annapolis, Md., where they are attending the festivities at the United States Naval Academy, including a football game yesterday afternoon and dance last evening, besides other parties.

Miss Beers will go to Charlottesville, Va., next week to join Miss Frances Haven, a popular member of Atlanta's Debutante Club, and to attend the dances at the University of Virginia. For her Thanksgiving holidays Miss Beers will again be off for good times and will visit friends in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Beers and Mrs. Philip L'Engle have just returned from Washington, where they visited their daughters at the school. Miss Thiesen is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Thiesen, and a sister of Miss Mary Thiesen, one of the season's debutantes.

Miss King To Show Horses in New York

Green and white, the colors of Miss Judy King's stable, will be proudly borne into the ring next week at Madison Square Garden in New York by her handsome horses. Miss King, with Miss Peggy Gould, Elizabeth Spalding and Mrs. Lucile Allen Williams formed an attractive foursome leaving this morning for New York, where Miss King will show her horses vying for honors with the finest stables of the country in the annual equine classic held at Madison Square Garden.

Her sextet of animals will be represented in 26 classes and Miss King will show her "Night Bachelor" and "Danum Woodbine" in the ladies' class. Coupled with "Killarney Magi" and "Duffen Dare," "Night Bachelor" and "Danum Woodbine" will be shown in the four-in-hand class. "La La Success" and "Penwortham Creation," the clever little ponies recently purchased by Miss King will prove interesting exhibits, and will provide formidable competition.

The talented young horsewoman is proving most popular in horse show rings of the country and her fine animals have achieved an enviable array of ribbons. Numbered among the trophies captured by her stable are prizes awarded in the spring shows in Philadelphia, Pa., Atlantic City, Devon, and fall shows including Syracuse, New York, Springfield, Mass., and Wissahickon, Pa. One colorful entry at Madison Square Garden will be the gay nineties class, when exhibitors will appear in costumes suggestive of that period of history. Miss King will secure her costume of yesteryear will add an amusing note to the event. For the evening shows she will select the smartest gowns and in the afternoon will appear in sports clothes, the chic styles offsetting her titian tresses and radiant personality.

Auto Accident Has Its Compensations

Even an automobile accident has its compensations, according to Miss Ida Nevin, who recently had the painful experience of figuring in one to the extent of finding her leg in a plaster cast as a result. To make bad matters worse, she was scheduled to appear in the role of bridesmaid at the brilliant ceremony at which Miss Clara Jones recently became the bride of Dr. James L. Pittman at All Saints' church. The accident occurred two days before the nuptials, plans were disrupted and a substitute put in Miss Nevin's place.

However, the groomsmen were not willing to forego the pleasure of her company, not even for the rehearsal party the evening preceding the wedding. They called at her home and lifted her bodily into a motor to take her to the Bolling road residence of Dr. and Mrs. John Duncan, who entertained the wedding party at a buffet supper following the rehearsal.

The next evening, in addition to their role of groomsmen, they formed a self-appointed escort and again appeared to insure Miss Nevin's safe arrival at the church to witness the ceremony, in which she was to have taken part. Following the reception, the lovely bride lifted the cluster of delicately tinted orchids from the center of her exquisite bridal bouquet before tossing it from the stairway into the outstretched arms of her bridesmaids. The orchids were quickly dispatched to Miss Nevin as a reminder that never for a moment was she absent from the thoughts of the happy couple who were deprived of including her among their wedding personnel.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall To Sail for Europe

Combining business with pleasure, Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Hall will leave on Monday on a six weeks' tour of Europe. They will sail from Baltimore on the City of Hamburg, and will land at Le Havre, France. Taking the boat train down to Paris, they will spend the glorious autumn days in sight-seeing, shopping and motoring to near-by points of interest.

Later they will journey leisurely through the chateau country to the Riviera, where they will bask in the sun and enjoy the diversions offered by the famous resorts. Points of interest in Italy and Switzerland will also be included in Mr. and Mrs. Hall's itinerary, and they will sail for the return journey from Hamburg, Germany, arriving in Atlanta in time for the Christmas holidays.

During their absence, little Miss Virginia Hall, fifteen months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, will be the guest of her adoring grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Rhodes. The baby bears the name of her maternal aunt, the late Miss Virginia Rhodes, only sister of Mrs. Hall. She has recently returned with her mother from a visit to her grandmother, Mrs. Rhodes, who spent the past two months in Colorado Springs, Col., and who arrives in Atlanta today, having joined Mr. Rhodes in Lexington, Va., last week for a short visit.

BOOK REVIEWS IN TABLOID

"Design of Machine Elements." By V. M. Fairies.

People today use many pieces of equipment to which they give little thought unless something fails in its operation. Amongst these pieces of equipment may be mentioned street cars, railroads, elevators, boats, trucks, buses, automobiles and refrigerators.

The engineer is responsible for providing these almost foolproof devices. In order that the engineer may be able to provide these things, he must go through a course of rigorous training in which the design of machine elements plays a very important part. Good looks in this important field have lagged behind development. Therefore Professor Fairies' book comes at an advantageous time.

A quotation from the introduction of Professor Fairies' book explains the situation confronting the engineer engaged in design. "In the design of a machine, first comes the conception, a conception of a device to accomplish some useful purpose. After this follows a study of the arrangement of the parts, the location and length of links, the place of gears, bolts, rivets, springs, cams and other machine parts." The success of any machine depends upon the ability of the designer to make the right combination of parts of the right shape, strength and toughness.

It is obviously impossible to devote books to the designing of whole machines. On the other hand all machines may be divided into basic elements. The student of engineering studies all of these basic elements in his machine design. When he later goes out into industry he must make whatever combination of these elements he desires, to build some machine which people will use. Professor Fairies points the way in his book to successful designing, not of the whole machine, but those elements which appear most commonly used in machines. This background is what the young engineer needs.

Since materials are the basis of design Professor Fairies does well when he takes up materials and their characteristics first. Knowing materials however is not enough. The student must know how to figure the internal loads in the material, called stresses by the engineer, produced by external loading. This analysis follows materials in this book.

Fasteners such as rivets and bolts are taken up, followed by shafting, belting, pulleys, ropes, chain drives, gears of all kinds, bearings, springs, clutches, brakes, cylinders, cams and finally welding. The more simple calculations and designs are nicely followed by the complicated mechanisms thus proceeding to the advantage of the student from the easy to the difficult. After the student has mastered the above elements, which have been ably presented by Professor Fairies, he is ready to make combinations. For instance he may combine bearings, shafting, clutches, gears, cams, springs, brakes and cylinders in such a way that he has an automobile. Or he may combine them so that he ends up with an elevator, or a tractor, or a locomotive. Professor Fairies' book gives the engineer design fundamentals which are necessary to the making of any of these machines.

There is still much to be learned about the use of welding in design, but Professor Fairies has included a chapter on welding, about which it happens the most colorful and exciting story that Mr. Chambers has written. He unfolds the drama of the espionage systems, both Union and Confederate, during the Civil War. Gail Lyndon is a beautiful actress, craving excitement, is initiated into the Union secret service by being sent, with the famous agent, Pauline Cushman, to John Stuart's headquarters. The story is caught and hanged two of the north's best spies already, yet Gail, disguised as "Lucille Lyndon," mulatto laundress makes her way successfully to her post.

In the course of events she discovers in the handsome, eagle-eyed Confederate agent, Jack Galliard, just who is to be her most dangerous enemy, and decides that the dangers will not be entirely in the line of duty either.

It is from this initial situation that Mr. Chambers has built up his gripping narrative—a story of breath-taking action and exciting scenes of gallantry between friends and enemies which takes Gail and Jack through the whole sweep of the Civil War—Appleton-Century Company, New York.

Great Riches. Mateel Howe Farnham, author of the prize novel "Rebellion," turns the spotlight west for the locale of her new novel. Set in a small pioneer town on the banks of the Missouri, the story of James Brewster Stinson is told with rich humor and rare insight into the emotions which make or break the life of a sensitive individual.

"Great Riches" is the story of the reactions of a charming masculine personality to the women who furnish his background. Which would make him the better wife—Jane, the strong, shrewd, practical type inclined to dominate, or the gentler Leslie, who flatters and admires . . . and leans?

The problem is worked out through the lives of well-born, entertaining and intelligent people whom the reader, almost immediately, looks upon as members of his own family. It is built up swiftly and surely to a dramatic denouement which will cause heated discussions among married people.—(Dodd, Mead & Company, New York.)

FICTION WITH AN EASTERN BACKGROUND. The Ginger Griffin—By Ann Bridge. The author of the $10,000 Atlantic prize novel, "Peking Picnic," one of the big successes of 1932—has again chosen China for the setting of her story. Amber Harrison wanted to get away from England and the stifled romance. An invitation from her uncle in Peking offered the opportunity, and the Grant-Howard family, just assigned to the embassy in Peking, offered escort on the long P. & O. voyage. In Peking, Amber was thrown into the middle of Chinese European society, diplomatic and commercial—people who worked harder at their pastimes than at their desks. Horses, racing, steeplechasing, furnished the chief interests. Outside the compound with its cocktail parties and flirtations lay the China of old with its exquisite temples, its russet plains and a people whose endurance was superior to famine and war.

"Most girls leave Peking engaged, generally to the wrong man, and nearly all women leave it with a broken heart." Amber's curiosity led her into dangerous places. She explored the Temple of Heaven and she also explored—though unwittingly—the secret places in the affections of these diplomats. (Little, Brown & Company.)

Hundred Altars.—By Juliet Breton. Hundred Altars is the chronicle of three generations of Chinese life—of elders born under the imperial rule and following customs and traditions established for centuries, and of their grandsons born to revolution and democracy, who saw the civilization of their forefathers, grown brittle with age, shattered by the hands of impatient youth. It is the story of the death of old China and the birth of the new, and at the same time the story of men and women who were the backbone of old China and remain the backbone of the new—the peasants and the merchants.

This splendid story is woven about the characters of the little farming village of Hundred Altars, north of Peking. There is power and loveliness in the description and a deep affection for the countryside. In addition, there is sympathy and understanding in the character portrayal. To say that the author interprets the Chinese people to us is true, and yet so subtly is it done that the reader is never an examiner of a curious foreign species; he becomes, instead, a Chinese peasant, engrossed in neighbors of the village whose race has little effect on their pleasures, sufferings and problems. (Dodd, Mead & Company.)

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS. Diet Book. The Safe Way to Reduce. This book is published by the demand of the many readers of Dr. Rudenstam's famous book entitled "Diet Derby." It was said that almost every newspaper in the United States carried stories on it, and that it was so subtly is it done that the reader is never an examiner of a curious foreign species; he becomes, instead, a Chinese peasant, engrossed in neighbors of the village whose race has little effect on their pleasures, sufferings and problems. (Dodd, Mead & Company.)

Wish-Hunting in the Unconscious. An Analysis of Psychoanalysis. By Dr. Milton Harrington. "Is the edifice built by Freud now tottering on its foundations?" This question is being asked. The author of this work, being a psychiatrist, answers five questions concerning it. Dr. Harrington has views of his own which the reader will find of interest. (The Macmillan Company, New York.)

Through Failure to Success. By James Alexander. Author of "Through Control in Everyday Life." "Mastering Your Own Mind." The author presents to his readers a clear, common-sense plan founded on psychology, and which will be of assistance to the average person. There is something encouraging about the way in which Mr. Alexander presents the various phases of his subject. He offers to all at least a degree of success which if followed, will be of assistance in making you happy regardless of economic conditions. This book is written for the average man and woman, young and old, and while there are many books written along this line, this one is filled with advice that is plain and practical. (Funk & Wagnalls Company.)

Lake of Fire. By Lionel Houser. The story of a "dead" man's search for his own murderer is one of the strangest adventures in all fiction. Thrilling, gruesome, enchanting, it stirred the enthusiasm of the late Frederick O'Brien, author of "White Shadows in the South Seas," who read the manuscript before it was completed and induced the author to finish it. "Lake of Fire" is not a mystery story. It is unlike any novel you have ever read. Blended of violent horror and wild beauty, of passion and bitterness, it is a story so unique and so startling that you will never forget it.

The story begins on the Irrawaddy river in the fierce heat of Burma, where the heir to millions and a lovely young lady are snared by the terms of a father's will. It moves to New York, across the continent to San Francisco, on to an old gambling ship anchored off the coast of California, down to Mexico, and back finally to the torrid peace of Burma. (Dodd, Mead & Company.)

EXPERIMENT IN AUTO-BIOGRAPHY. H. G. Wells has written the story of his life. It is 250,000 words long and will tell the intimate story of Wells' life, from his humble birth as the son of a professional cricket player and a domestic servant, through his school days, his young manhood, his love affairs, etc., as well as the story of his literary and public career, from his first struggles as a writer for the newspapers, while he was supporting both his parents' to his sudden recognition and steadily increasing fame as an author, which resulted in his being lionized by society and welcomed in literary circles everywhere.

Many interesting and amusing letters written by and to Mr. Wells are included. Wells often illustrated his letters with pen and ink sketches, and a goodly number of these are reproduced in the book. There are also about 30 half-tones, including a fine portrait of Wells by a French artist, and pictures of his family and friends. Throughout the story there is lively Wellsian comment on men and affairs, love and marriage, government, religion, etc.

This book ranks high as one of the really important representative biographies of our time. (Macmillan.)

"The Berlin Diaries," by Helmut Klotz. By a German officer who has been closely associated with von Hindenburg, von Papen, and other leaders of the day. His diary jottings cover the period from 1932, when Brüning was dismissed, to the accession of Hitler. They are frank revelations of secret intrigues.

"The Chinese Soviets," by Victor Yakobovitch. By a former member of the Russian embassy at Tokyo. He shows that the soviet movement is fast gaining ground.

Biography: "Cleopatra," by Gaston Delany. A revision of the traditional picture of the world's famous siren queen. The author believes that Cleopatra's love affairs with Caesar and Anthony were calculated and planned by her in the hope of advancing her political aspirations for a peaceful alliance with Rome.

"Vol I. But the Wind," by Frieda Lawrence. A life of D. H. Lawrence by his wife, written with grace and charm and frankness. Many photographic snapshots make the book particularly interesting.

"Rebel Raider," by Howard Swigg. Biography of John Morgan and his amazing cavalry raids. A vivid and animated portrait of an important leader in the Civil War.

"The Ghost of Napoleon," by Liddell Hart. The author takes as his theme the historical importance of those who have moulded the minds of the men whose actions have moulded history.

"People Worth Talking About," by Cosmo Hamilton. Among the immortals Mr. Hamilton mentions Hardy, Galsworthy and Conrad. There is a rich fund of anecdotes about such personages as Kipling, Barrie, Chesterton and Shaw.

Religion: "What Men are Asking," by Henry Coffin. Answers six of the perennial questions in religion in our country.

"Outline of Religion," by E. R. Appleton. Clergymen and members of every church, whether Jewish, Catholic or Protestant can find important information in this volume.

"A Short History of Religions," by E. E. Killeit. A study of comparative religions, very stimulating to persons interested in the theme.

"The Reformation and the Contemporary Life," by David Mathew. A study of the conflict between the monastic order of the Carthusians and the new forces brought into play by the Renaissance State.

MEN LAUGHED!

I couldn't help but overhear what they said about me... cruel, sarcastic, biting things about my fat. It was awful. I was a social outcast in spite of diet, exercise and drastic purgatives. For nothing, did me any good. Everything I ate turned to fat.

I WAS TOO FAT!

Then, a real friend told me of a simple corrective for abnormal obesity, prescribed by doctors the world over, and put up in convenient tablets containing the right quantity. I took 4 a day. Results were amazing. I ate what I liked, took no purgatives or exercise, yet all that excess fat disappeared. Today I'm as slender and graceful as an artist's model.

That is what thousands who have reduced the Marmola way might tell you if they had the chance. Would you like to learn their secret? Then buy a package of Marmola.

"MISS RACCOON COAT"—

Since there's a Miss Almost Everything these times, why not? So, if you picked the beauty contest winner among the femmes who sport these collegiate, fuzzy sleeved rugs, wouldn't this youngster win?

The zippy H'l upturned hat (really, the last word in what the pretty young thing wears these afternoons) goes great with the girlish effect of the raccoon coat.

Of course, that smile and those eyes (anyway, the one eye you can see) help plenty, too, when you consider the whole fascinating ensemble to award this honey the title:

4-Shot Finale of the "Ghost Girl" in a Tropical Love Storm

When the High-Bred Latin Beauty Loved a Poor Man in Prison—and Her Fiance Learned of It—Romance's Zephyr Rose to a Gale of Death

CAUGHT IN LOVE-HURRICANE
The Latin-American Beauty, 18-Year-Old Dora Campodonico Cornejo, Whose Smouldering Black Eyes and Red Lips Concealed a Passion That Wrecked Two Men's Lives—and Ended Her Own.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador.
YOUNG love is much the same, whether in the Northern or Southern Hemisphere.
The high-bred, hot-blooded girl who loves beneath her station—who can't forget the old, hidden love for the new—lives and lays waste masculine hearts in every clime.
So, too, with the proud mother—the rival youths who want to leap at each other's throats—the heartbreak that comes from plotting and duplicity.
But not always is there a "Ghost Girl"—and not always does young love involve such poignant happenings or such a tragic end as in this remarkable affair, reported for this newspaper by Senor Martin de Lamota, the noted South American correspondent.

TWENTY, brilliant, rich and very happy—such was young Jaime Mirragui Jimenez as he came home at term-end last Spring to the residence of his father, a Guayaquil physician. Had he not finished his law course, graduating with honors? Was there not his assured social position to guarantee a successful career? And—was there not Dora?
When he thought of Dora, Jaime's whole being glowed. Meeting and winning the love of this 18-year-old Guayaquil belle, six months before, had been the most volcanic event of Jaime's life. Dora Campodonico y Cornejo had the dark Latin type of beauty in perfection—and the stormy, flirtatious, whimsical yet deeply loving heart that had caused more than one bitter feud among the romantic young bloods of the town. What a triumph it had been for Jaime to capture that love all for himself—and to gain the consent of her stern, proud, watchful mother, the Senora Angela Campodonico y Cornejo, as aristocratic as she was influential!

Jaime knew that Dora's rumored escapades had been innocent and harmless. He knew he was the only man she ever really loved.

He was furnishing their future apartment and their marriage would take place as soon as he opened his law office. Meanwhile he lived with his family, saw Dora nightly—and was in cloudland until, one afternoon, an anonymous letter arrived.

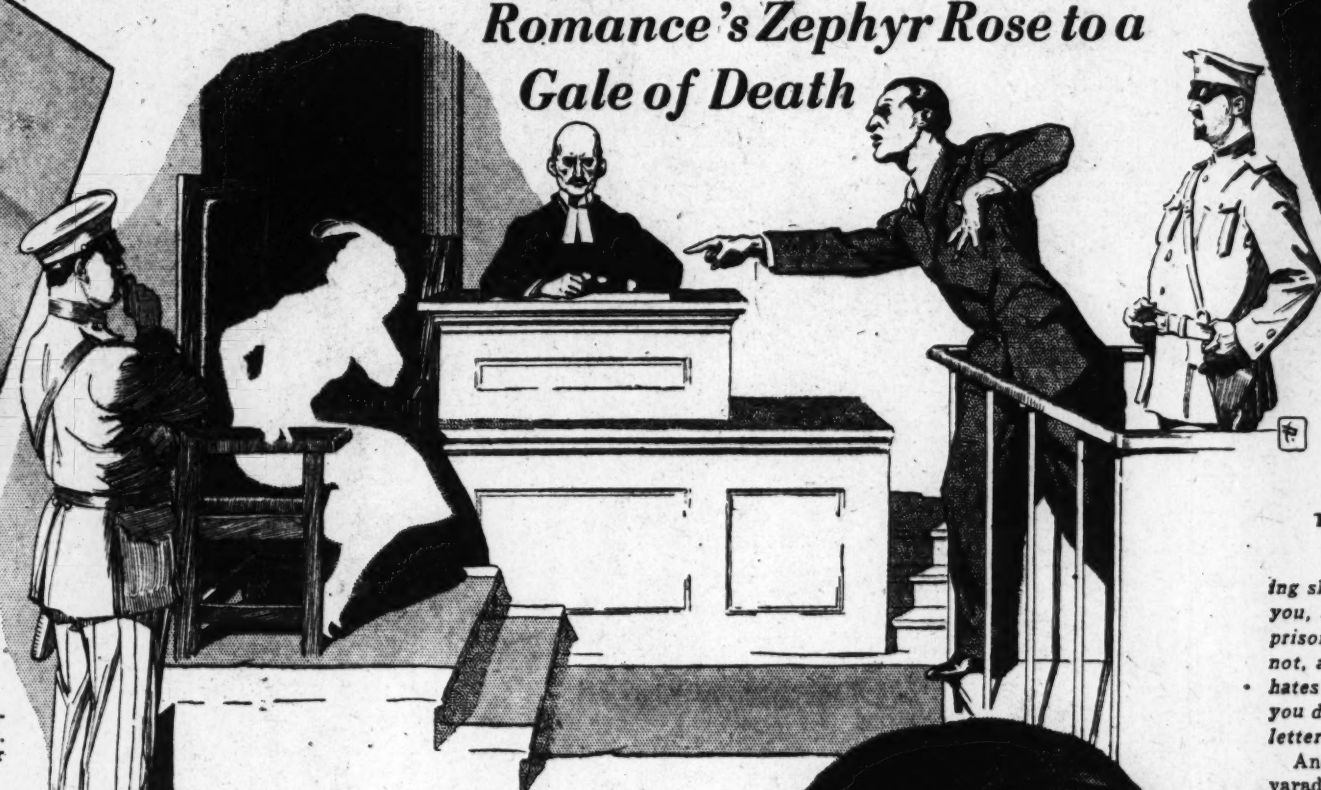

Here is what it said:
"Senor Don Jaime: One who admires you knows of your coming marriage. Perhaps you would be less eager if you knew that your beloved Senorita Dora was kidnapped by a man, in June, 1932, and stayed the night in his apartment, at Bolivar and Quito Streets. Ask Medardo Alvarado—he is in jail after a secret trial—secret because of the influence of your bride's mother! Alvarado was convicted for bewitching a 'ghost girl' who does not exist—actually it was your intended bride! She has deceived you about her innocence—be warned."

Jaime's world whirled around him. Later, his family recalled how he sat for hours alone in his room. We may deduce his thoughts.

After all, he apparently reasoned, if the girl had been overpowered she wasn't to blame. Still—she ought to have told him. But—was it true? He must see Dora—and see Medardo Alvarado, too!

He did visit his beloved, that night. Senora Cornejo, in an adjoining room, heard her daughter crying. But also, as Jaime departed, she heard him say: "I love you and I'm going to marry you—but there is something I must do first!"

And the next afternoon—it was Sunday—Jaime drove in his roadster out to the prison where Alvarado was confined. A friend went with him, Jaime carried a revolver in his pocket.

"MY ACCUSER IS A GHOST"
Although Medardo Alvarado, at His Secret Trial, Protested That He Had Never Known or Loved a Girl Named "Della Cisneros," the Mystery-Figure in the Empty Witness-Chair Sent the Hapless Clerk to Prison for a 5-Year Term.

Medardo Alvarado, a youth of Jaime's own age, was serving his second year of a five-year prison term, after a very strange experience. His story was as follows:

A little more than two years before, he had been an underpaid clerk in his parents' little drygoods shop. Into the shop had come a vision of aristocratic loveliness—Dora herself—and perhaps she was thrilled by the abject admiration in the young clerk's eyes. For she returned again and again, to be shown high-priced goods which she never bought.

Alvarado was no coward. He whispered his love to Dora. The adventure some girl met him once at the movies—and was seen there by a relative, who reported the affair to her mother. Senora Cornejo's scolding was the wrong medicine—the next time Dora saw Alvarado, she listened to his proposal that they meet secretly, in his room.

And it was the following morning, after the household had spent a sleepless night of worry and search, that Dora came home crying with a tale of having been cowed at the gunpoint by Medardo Alvarado. So stated the servants—afterward.

For the present, the Senora saw only that Alvarado must be punished and her daughter's reputation saved. She was a woman of great social and political influence. Medardo Alvarado was arrested and charged with serious crime, but the name of his victim appeared in court records as "Della Cisneros," a housemaid, address unknown.

Secret trials occasionally take place in Ecuador. And accusers need not confront the accused. At his secret trial, young Alvarado protested that he had never in his life heard of "Della Cisneros"—that his absent accuser was a veritable "ghost girl." He even named Dora Cornejo but was threatened with further prosecution for slandering her name. He went to prison—a five-year sentence. The affair was forgotten.

And now, this Sunday afternoon, Jaime Jimenez, Dora's fiance, came to the prison and asked to see Medardo.

At the outset, Jaime's apparent plan went wrong. His revolver was taken away from him as he entered the prison.

A guard saw the two young men interchange a few words—then stand glaring at each other through the cell bars as though they would spring at each other's throats. Then Alvarado was heard taunting his visitor, saying:

"Victim, you say? She was no victim—she loved me, and she loves me

"FOR ETERNITY"
The Words of Young Jaime Mirragui Jimenez, Romantic 20-Year-Old Lover, Were Differently Interpreted When, Just After Speaking Them, He Slew His Adored Dora, Then Himself.

ing she loves me, that she doesn't love you, and that as soon as I am out of prison she will leave you, married or not, and come with me! She says she hates you! Our flight is planned—oh, you don't believe it? Well, here is her letter!"

And darting to his prison cot, Alvarado produced a letter in Dora's handwriting and showed it to the appalled young lawyer.

If hearts break, undoubtedly Jaime's heart broke right then. With no further words he thrust the cruel letter into his pocket and staggered from the prison. He didn't say a word to the friend who waited in the car. The two went for an extended drive.

Then, early that evening, Jaime went to see Dora—for the last time.

During supper, said Senora Cornejo, the lad was cheerful and courteous. He talked about the apartment he was furnishing for Dora, spoke poetically of their future life together—their eternal love. After the meal, in the reception room, he and Dora danced two slow waltzes to the radio. Then he said good-night, and the mother, pleased with their happiness, let Dora escort him down the long arbor-hallway to the street door.

"Good-night," she heard him say. "I love you." The next instant there were two shots—and the slamming of a door.

Dora staggered to the living-room, and dropped dead. Outside two more shots were heard, then the sound of running feet.

Jaime had killed himself at Dora's doorstep—first wounding himself in the temple, then firing a second shot through his heart. He had gone to join his "ghost-girl" in the hereafter.

In the investigation that followed, the letters were found—the anonymous screed, and Dora's love-note to Alvarado—and the rest was pieced together from various witnesses. Senora Cornejo remained aloof and proud. Alvarado at last reports, remains in prison, even though no "Della Cisneros" has come to light as his accuser.

HIGHLIGHTS of BROADWAY FROM THE CIRCLE TO THE SQUARE By Jack Lait

IN London, the merger of Times Square, Clark-and-Randolph and Hollywood-and-Vine is in the "American Bar" of the Savoy Hotel. The bar isn't so very American, though it is in the hands of perfect bartenders. But the place is more than American—it's America.

A long corridor leads from the lobby of the magnificent Savoy on the Strand into two rooms. The nearer one is square, furnished in regal good taste, and is the lounge. There are tables, chairs and a settee. And there, all day and evening, but mostly at the cocktail hour—from 5 to 7—assemble the better-to-do Yankees, resident, semi-resident and transient.

There assemble, also, smartly dressed ladies, not American, who enter alone and often don't leave that way. But they are a minor incident. The main magnet is that here the Americans can meet one another, and so they do.

Here, every Thursday afternoon, Jimmy Walker and Betty hold court in a corner. They never stay in town to dinner and they are rarely seen in London at any other time or place. Jimmy, looking peaked, trying gamely to be the effervescent fellow we used to know and will never forget, sips sparingly. Betty isn't much more of a drinker-downer. She was working in a film when I bent an elbow with them, and was looking just a bit plump but extremely comely.

Here picture actors, managers and directors, newspapermen, literati, gangsters, chorines, voluntary and reluctant expatriates from the haunts of Manhattan, Chicago and Hollywood, foregather; they talk about things and folks at home, they plan England and enjoy hearing the mother tongue with-out cockney or broad A's. Here good United States dough is currency and here they see American newspapers and God's people who chew gum.

The service is snappy. There is a uniformed pageboy beside almost every chair. After the second visit, every waiter and boy knows every guest by name. The liquor is, of course, excellent. The prices are stiff, which is to be expected in one of the most expensive drop-ins in all-expensive London.

There are two mighty dining-halls in the Savoy, and they are packed. After an ace film premiere, one can't get near a table without a reservation. But any noonday, dinner or after-theatre, there is as much activity as one saw in the goldconda days in the Knickerbocker Grill, the Astor bar, the Hotel Sherman, Celtic Room and College Inn, the Palmer House bar, the immortal Indian Room of the sainted Alexandria and Brink's Cafe in downtown old Los Angeles.

In the main dining-room, the undisputed queen is our own Sophie Tucker. She eats there daily, though she lives in the staid old Grosvenor House by the ancient Victoria Station. Her entrance is the cue for stoppers-by and sitters-with, and they run the range from small-time hams who have carefully counted how many shillings they can spare to eat at the Savoy to the highest titles in the realm. No public performer in British history, native or foreign, ever was so heartily and generally taken into the national bosom as has been the red hot mamma.

The Savoy restaurant, like the Astor Hunting Room, is the market-place of many important deals in the amusement trades of the world. The tablecloths are marked up with figures that represent stars' salaries, agents' commissions, trans-ocean transportation, royalties, box-office gross receipts, raw film at so-much-per-foot, the merchandising value of beauty, genius, laughs, thrills and tears.

There sits Gregory Ratoff, gesticulating and bleating about how much they cut out of his last picture-part; Clarence Brown, the director, and his queenly wife, the former Alice Joyce, still ravishing though greying; Rufus LeMaire, on a world hunt for new talent for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; Lew Leslie, producer of the colored "Blackbirds," the rage of London, with Irene, his gorgeous wife; Sophie's husband, Al Lasker, eating bread and milk; Richard Bennett, father of all the little Bennett beauties, who have outgrown him in popular demand though he was a star before they were born—Dick is doing a dramatic character role in an outstanding British film—and he's doing one at the table, too.

Yonder sits Hudson Hawley, London chief of the International News Service, wartime editor of our Stars and Stripes, confident of all the bigwigs of European governments; Mack Sennett of Keystone bellylaughs and bathing beauties, selling himself to Harry Foster, the London showman—or is he buying Foster?
Irvin Marks, Ambassador of Broadway to Paris, is in London on one of his weekly fly-in-and-fly-back visits; Howard Strickling, Louis B. Mayer's shadow, communes with him; Dave Epstein, the demon Hollywood manager-exploiter, is demanding tuna fish like he gets in the Brown Derby, or else; Bruno Lessing, the vagabond columnist, sits alone, slowly smoking a cigar and touching a margin to his lips; Bob Ripley is gagging with Will Rogers and making him believe it.

Johnnie Walker, the onetime silent star, bobs in with Bob Lively and his song-writing frau, Betty—they are en route to Ireland to shoot a feature film; Jack Barrymore sticks his head in, looks around, sees a lot of actors, and ducks back up into his room; Gregory Ratoff is still beefing about how much they cut out of his last picture-part.

Now that we have our land legs back, maybe it would be okay to say a few words about Broadway and lay off the over-the-hill stuff. Righto and raw-THER:

At this writing there are more "legit" shows being rushed through rehearsals, built and cast than at any other time since boom days. . . . But most of the early showings, far more so than in most years, have unfortunately been dismal duds. . . . With musical openings at a new low in number.

The covert-charge nightclub racket is about washed up, though a few snooty hotel rooms still put on the squeeze and live. The big-capacity spots with reasonable-priced dinners and huge shows are getting a bigger play than ever. The strictly high-grade eating houses, sans entertainment, are enjoying heavy prosperity. Film trade, despite reform ravages, is better than normal as reckoned for several years. . . . The hotels have a larger proportion of rooms rented than during the Hoover fade-out period. . . . Railroads and buses are banking increasing totals. . . . Liquor retail stores, skinned down to a number now where they can combat competition from the big central distributors, have settled into acceptable business conditions.

In all, Broadway definitely gives evidence of having turned the corner—and that should be great news to the whole nation!

DR. TESLA VISIONS the END of AIRCRAFT IN WAR

By Helen Welshimer

"AMERICA Enters War!"
"United States Joins Allies!"
"Congress Declares War!"
The newsboys were screaming the headlines through the rainy April night. Men and women stood on corners, talking, talking, talking—

The drift of the days went on. Troop trains pulled out of the stations, from Centerville, Mississippi, up to Bangor, Maine. The drums throbbed and the trumpets blew. The ships sailed and the casualty lists came back. One by one the gold stars replaced the white—
And 1917 drifted into 1918.

Dr. Nikola Tesla was in his laboratory trying hard to solve a problem of ages. Once in a while he raised his head to listen. Then he turned back to his experiments. He was going to end war!

The noted inventor, 78 years old now, already had 700 inventions to his credit. This was to be his greatest.

Years marched on. The fanfare and the drums were done. The dead were buried. The living came home.

NOW, 15 years after the war has ended, Tesla, one of the greatest inventors of all time, has announced that his invention to end all wars, by a perfect means of defense which any nation can employ, is ready. Soon, he says, he will take it to Geneva to present it to the Peace Conference.

Whether it is a dream or reality may soon be known. He claims to have created a new agent, silent and invisible, which kills without trace and yet pierces the thickest armor. It is a beam of death and destruction formed of minute particles of matter carrying such tremendous energy that they could bring down a fleet of 10,000 attacking planes and wipe out an army of millions at a distance of 250 miles.

"The invention," says Dr. Tesla, "will make war impossible for it will surround any country using this means with an impenetrable invisible wall of protection. Plants for the generating of this beam will be erected along the coasts and near cities. One plant will afford perfect safety within an area of 40,000 square miles.

"The beam will be effective at any distance at which the object to be destroyed can be perceived through a telescope. Every country will have to adopt this invention, for without it a nation will be helpless.

"The beam, intended chiefly for defense, will be projected from an electric power plant, ready to be put in action at the first sign of danger. The cost of operation will be insignificant, as the plant is chiefly intended for use in emergency. But to make the investment profitable in times of peace it may be commercially employed for a number of purposes."

Dr. Tesla wishes it to be understood that the means he has perfected has nothing in common with the so-called "death ray."

"It is impossible to develop such a ray. I worked on that idea for many years," he says, "before my ignorance was dispelled and I became convinced that it could not be realized. This new beam of mine consists of minute bullets moving at a terrific speed, and any amount of power desired can be transmitted by them. The whole plant is just a gun, but one which is incomparably superior to the present."

THE picture of the protected world, in which men will devote their time to pursuits of peace, is a strangely fascinating one.

Imagine the map of the world, every country surrounded by great plants which will offer absolute protection to the nation itself and instant death to any intruders. Only ships flying white flags of peace can sail into a foreign harbor.

The power plants, resembling forts placed at strategic distances along a country's border, will be on guard. As they are immovable, they will constitute essentially means for defense, and by making invasion impossible will greatly advance the cause of peace.

When a submarine is located the beams will function under water, though not quite so effectively as in air."

FOUR new inventions of Dr. Tesla are involved in the creation of the beam.

"Briefly, the first comprises a method and apparatus for producing rays and other manifestations of energy in free air, eliminating the high vacuum heretofore indispensable," he explains.

"The second one is the process for producing electrical force of immense power.

"The third method amplifies the process, and the fourth produces a tremendous electrical repelling force."

In times of peace such a plant can be used to transmit power in any amount up to its full capacity and to any place on the earth visible through a telescope, according to its inventor.

The famous inventor's new beam of death could bring down a fleet of 10,000 planes at a distance of 250 miles, he claims, and it also would make obsolete the submarine

IF, occasionally, nations decide that they must have war just for the thrill of a throbbing drum and a singing bugle, it can be staged on the sea, Dr. Tesla says. Navy supremacy will banish aircraft.

"The airplane will cease to be used as a means of offense," the great inventor explains. "It will be used entirely for peace, as it should be. An airplane, through the very nature of its construction, can not carry with it a generating plant for the beam. If it comes in contact with a country which is protected, it has no chance.

"The battleships will ride to sea safe from air raids, for they will be equipped with smaller plants for generating a beam of sufficient power to destroy any attacking airplane. But they will not be permitted to come near the shore of a protected country and attack it with any chance of success.

"The nation which has the best equipped battleships, however, will gain the supremacy of the seas. Submarines will be obsolete, for the methods of detecting them will be perfected to such a degree that there will be no longer any advantage in submerging.

Voltages never before attained, of 50,000,000 volts or more, will have to be applied.

The man who is responsible for so many discoveries and improvements has devoted his entire life to his scientific pursuits. Tall, lean, reserved, his path goes between the two small laboratories and the various manufacturing plants with which he has contact.

Born in Yugoslavia, Tesla comes from a race of inventors.

"On my mother's side, for three generations, almost all members of the families were inventors," he says. "My mother was Georgianna Mandic, who was noted as an inventor of household appliances. One of the things which she perfected was her own weaving machine.

"Her family can be traced back to the seventh century, in the historical records. My grandfather was an officer in Napoleon's army."

TESLA began to invent at the age of six. As he grew up his interest focused in the laboratory.

"I sleep about one and one-half hours a night," the inventor says. "I think that is enough for any man. When I was young I needed more sleep. But age doesn't require so much. There are so many things to do I do not want to spend time sleeping, needlessly. In my family all were poor sleepers. Time spent in sleep is lost time, we always felt."

Tesla, busy with his 700 inventions, never had time for marriage. He never had a girl in his young days. He never had a romance. There was no leisure for them.

His diet is simple. He lives chiefly on vegetables, cereals and milk. The menu includes onions, spinach, celery, carrots, lettuce, with potatoes occasionally. Whites of eggs and milk complete the diet. There is no meat on his vegetable plate. He never smokes or tastes tea, coffee, alcoholic beverages or any other stimulant.

While he is perfecting the beam which will defend nations from attack, the inventor is playing with other ideas. He goes from one to the other, he says, as this or that gains paramount interest or some new clue is suggested.

BUT what is giving me more fun than anything I have done for a long, long time," Dr. Tesla explains, "is an electric bath which I hope to have ready for general use very soon.

"It doesn't require much room. There is a platform on which the person stands. He turns on the current. Instantly all foreign material such as dust, dandruff, scales on the skin and microbes is thrown off from the body. The nerves, too, are exhilarated and strengthened. The 'bath' is excellent for medical as well as for cleaning purposes."

However, the war picture gives the master inventor more satisfaction than the minor inventions. He is rejoicing because his instrument of death will save millions of lives and inestimable property.

His only regret is that there may be another war before the discoveries he has made have been placed before the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, and generally adopted by the nations of the world.

"The next war, and I am afraid that there will be one before long," he says, "will be fought in the air. But if the beam is adopted war in the air will cease.

"Whatever battles there are thereafter will be confined to the sea. But no nation will dare to attack another nation when every country is armed. There will be a general feeling of safety throughout the world."

An artist's conception of the way a technician, sitting in one of Dr. Tesla's great generating plants, would use the new beam to destroy hostile airplanes.

Don't miss a single page or strip in the adventures of Little Orphan Annie and "Daddy" Warbucks. Breaks will soon be coming their way. Hard luck can't last forever.

Silhouette Study of Carla Ryder, Social Arbitrator, Cosmopolite and Shrewd Analyst of the Fantastic Thaw House Party.

Social Arbitrator Cosmopolite, Style Expert and Lecturer.

IF I HAVE GIVEN the impression that life at "Kenilworth," the Winchester, Virginia, mystery mansion of Harry K. Thaw, was an unrelieved series of apprehensive shudders, dread of the unknown and other intangible menaces, I have erred.

True, there was plenty to frighten a sensitive soul—muttered voices behind thin walls in the night; the hysterical barking of dogs in the yard, and the occasional outbursts of motiveless anger on our host's part.

But the comic side of the picture was not to be denied. Looking back on my experiences, I can afford to laugh heartily at some of the things that happened. I can even afford a faint smile at the memory of Mr. Thaw's individual eccentricities.

I hadn't stayed a week at "The Old Dark House" before I became aware that the owner had one conviction that verged on obsession—a wholesale horror of kidnapers, extortionists, thieves, spies and informers. To guard against these people—real or imaginary—he adopted the most extraordinary precautions.

There was, first, the complicated floodlight system that, at a finger's touch, could bathe the whole front of the manse in radiance. The crunch of feet on the walk would be the signal for a general illumination. The intruder always proved to be some member of the Thaw house party, returning late; a villager or farmer on a legitimate errand, or a stranded motorist.

SCENE OF ODD DOINGS
View of "Kenilworth," Thaw's Country Hideaway at Winchester, Va., Where He Played Whimsical Host to the Countess, Miss Ryder, Author of This Series of Articles, and Others.

No matter. On went the lights—a curiously persistent bit of extravagance, for, inside the house, the use of electricity was frugal.

On certain occasions when he felt alarm over his personal safety, Mr. Thaw, a light sleeper, had his bedroom guarded by a giant police dog. His trust in this animal was profound, but toward another police dog, which he named "No-Sense," he conceived a violent aversion. His efforts to give it away to neighbors were strenuous.

Mr. Thaw's suspiciousness was not confined to strangers he feared were prowling around the premises. Now and then he would manifest distrust of a guest, and I have even seen him open letters delivered in the morning mail with the air of one expecting a bomb by parcel post. Then, as he pored over the harmless missives, a look of delight would spread over his features and he would break into chuckles of pleasure at the contents.

HE greatly relished reading anything that was printed about himself and his social activities, and saved countless old newspapers. He was also a great encyclopedia fan. He would devour the volume for hours, "boning up" on some specialized topic and later treating us to a little lecture on whatever it was, farming—he himself had sixty acres which he worked very well—or the Black Forest of Germany or French literature.

Once, when his opinion was mildly challenged, he rejoined hotly: "What do you mean, I'm not a literary critic? Didn't I write a book?" He referred to that strange jumble of emotions which he had published under the title of "The Traitor," and which was meant to be a dramatic expose of somebody who had been connected with the Thaw trial for the killing of Stanford White. But just who the villain was has never been satisfactorily explained, even by persons who read the book three and four times.

Apropos "The Traitor," I hadn't been long at "Kenilworth" before I learned that my host was feverishly at work on a second effusion. When finished, if ever, the manuscript was to constitute a general treatise on blackmail, a "prominent attorney" figuring as the chief malefactor. To help him with his literary work Mr. Thaw had from time to time the services of several "ghost writers," but he was exceedingly difficult to please, and one "ghost" would vanish, giving place to another.

Mr. Thaw, I found, was desperately anxious to keep concrete news of his second book, the working title of which was "The Conspiracy," from general public knowledge.

To this end it was his practise, I learned, to get the various "ghost writers" who were working with him to sign an agreement that they wouldn't divulge details of the script.

He even requested me to sign such a paper, but this I refused to do—after all, I was acting as chaperone for the Countess, and was not a Thaw employee.

I think Mr. Thaw must have read somewhere that sea food strengthens the muscles of the mind and therefore decided it ought to be eaten by all budding authors. At any rate, he had an inordinate passion for clams, to which he referred as "my brain-builders." I have known him to consume two dozen of the pinkish bivalves as an entree.

Although the menus of our meals were variable in quality and strangely assorted, the "Kenilworth" novelist was most interested in certain dishes, which he insisted on doling out himself. He was a particular authority on cake. This he would carve with the professional flourish of a head waiter and his technique was so adroit that he could cut it into slices of razor-like thinness.

ONCE a hungry guest anticipated him by hacking out a slice for himself. This didn't please the host. Surveying the mutilated wreckage of frosting and batter, he muttered: "A tragedy, that's what it is."

The slayer of Stanford White had a very pretty taste in wines. His sherry was of superior quality, and there were occasional highballs for those who preferred whiskey. He was also something of a connoisseur of tobacco. His cigarettes, made especially for him in Europe, were not, however, generally shared with the guests.

And here I touch on one of the most contradictory characteristics of Harry Kendall Thaw. Like other rich eccentrics, his mood swung between lavish, almost ridiculous generosity and severe parsimony. For instance:

Neat placards on the bathroom walls read: "Do not use these towels. All guests must bring their own." Yet on the other hand, I know that he made expensive presents to many of his women friends, mainly girls, of shoes and feminine knick-knacks. You never could predict whether he would be open-handed or close-fisted.

Using that authority, if it was correct, after careful while caution inquiry, Mrs. de Aguirre mentions that she has paid all bills in New York, with one exception, a professional man whose bill is in error, as he never saw her. All else paid, and in addition, Mr. Finger whom she divorced, but regards him highly, that now alone that he paid all for both also. That made the latter dangerous. Since the premises was incorrect, that if it was delivered, you can't ever tell. Might forget or might become angry since reading, really had the right to be angry. Then by no means sure, still might hurt something or other.

I WAS told one stupefying instance of the latter tendency. It occurred when one of the several young journalists who had been hired by Mr. Thaw to help "ghost" his book went down to the kitchen. The "ghost" was hungry and decided to boil a couple of eggs on the electric stove.

The newspaperman later described the melodramatic incident to me vividly. "I could hear Harry's typewriter going like mad in another room," he confided, "so thought I wouldn't be disturbed at my simple cooking. Suddenly there was a flash of frayed dressing gown, a trembling hand reached out to snatch eggs, pan and all, from the stove, and hurl them into the wastebasket."

"Astonished, I turned, but before I could

The reader must not judge that all of Mr.
Thaw's whims were so excessive and pointless as this one. Many of his private preoccupations were simply the harmless whims of the wealthy frequenter of Broadway haunts who has decided to settle down to the life of a country gentleman.

For example, there was his interest in the local fire company, of which he was made an honorary member. This is a form of entertainment which appeals to many men of position in the community, providing an innocuous outlet for their superabundance of high spirits and love of outdoor action.

Exercise in the open,
such as this and farming, has a tendency to make one sleepy in the evening, so it was no wonder that the master of "Kenilworth" favored a 9 o'clock retiring hour.
Those evenings at "The Old Dark House" used to revive my first feelings of vague terror and subtle discomfort. Before the clock had chimed us to our rest upstairs, the Countess d'Aguiarre and I used to kill time over the backgammon board.

USUALLY, while we did so, Mr. Thaw would become sunk in his beloved encyclopedia or a movie magazine. (He was devoted to the talkies, but once confided that Leslie Howard was "too thin to be a good actor.")

But now and then the lord of the manor would cast aside his book, rise quickly and take up a strategic place behind my chair. Nervously biting his nails, he would direct my moves in the manner of an experienced kibitzer—a process that made me most fidgety.

Once in a while we'd venture out at night to the dress rehearsal of an amateur theatrical production or to the movies. These sudden appearances of ours in town always embarrassed me considerably. Invariably we came in late and invariably my host went to sleep, and somewhat noisy slumber, at that.

An usher would awaken him; he would come to with a sigh and subdued snort—and people would crane their heads. It was always an embarrassing experience to go out with a group that included Mr. Thaw. At the movies, he had a habit of making the oddest remarks, out loud, about the merits of the different players. Half

WE NEVER EXPECTED THIS!

"At Kenilworth one quickly grew used to astonishing occurrences. But the most unlooked-for happening came one bitter night, when our host suddenly disappeared and it took us fifteen frantic minutes to locate him—in the chicken house, of all places. There stood Harry Kendall Thaw, scion of one of America's most eminent old families, perilously perched on a rickety stepladder. As he glared wildly about, one of the young men members of our party ventured to ask timidly: 'What are you doing, Mr. Thaw?' The latter, holding two glowing electric heaters on either side of a light bulb, barked: 'Can't you see, you idiot? I'm warming it up. It's dying on me. Got to warm it up before it freezes.'"

She wrote quite lovely little poems, all with an underlying sadness, played backgammon expertly, and chatted pleasantly with Mr. Thaw, myself and other guests who drifted into the mystery mansion from day to day and week to week.

Her attitude toward our host was one of friendly dignity, though now and then she would break into tears at some harsh criticism of her at the card table or while at dinner. That she fully believed him to be a master mind was obvious.

None of his whims seemed to distress her in the least. She had an admirable sang-froid. I don't believe this was ever upset except once, a year or so ago, when she was erroneously reported engaged to Mr. Thaw. She lost no time in making it clear then that she was the fiancée of Prince Paolo Borghese, of the ancient Italian house. At the time that I am writing this, the wedding had not taken place.

Plenty, however, was taking place all the time at "Kenilworth." There one quickly grew used to astonishing experiences. But the most unlooked-for happening came one night, when the host suddenly disappeared and it took us fifteen frantic minutes to locate him—in the chicken house, of all places.

away, must save money." And growling like a dog he marched out of the kitchen."

Thaw's personal bequests to charity were legendary—I have heard that they mounted up to the $1,000,000 mark. He was a regular church attendant and dropped considerable sums in the collection plate every Sunday. Yet this same man objected strenuously to guests having a hot tub after 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and would suddenly snap off the lights, with the crisp remark: "Electricity costs money."

MR. THAW'S social liabilities have been indicated. He was not without certain assets.
Among these was a fair though not dazzling capacity at the bridge table, a sketchy knowledge of music, and a flair for conversation that could only be described as intermittent.

The Countess d'Aguiarre had told me casually, when we first arrived at "The Old Dark House," that our host was a "wonderful man who could have been anything he chose to"— musician, writer, artist, or diplomatic figure.
That he had not so chosen was due, obviously,
to his spoiled boyhood as his mother's darling, to his family's great wealth and to his own innate temperamental changeableness.

The position of Margery d'Aguiarre in this bizarre household was at first a little puzzling.
She was naturally an enigmatic girl, now formal, now vivacious, always seeming to be on her guard and with a sense of alienation from the world, of having no real intimates, though she was vastly popular with the "correct" young men living in the neighborhood.

the audience would look around, with cries of "Sh-h-h-h!"—but it was never noticeable that the warnings had any effect. A few moments later he would do the same thing again.

One evening we entered an amateur theatrical performance, attended by all of Winchester's best-mannered people. We were late. Mr. Thaw stamped in heavily, making a great noise with his feet, and talking out loud in his disconnected way. Of course the entire audience was disturbed, and the performers were given a shock of embarrassment, amateurs as they were.

After reaching his seat, Mr. Thaw kept up a running fire of comment for a time—then went to sleep. But that didn't exactly relieve the situation, either, for he made so much noise in his slumbers that an usher prodded him awake—and the running fire of remarks went on.

"The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures"

From "Icones Biblicae," Swiss Etcher Matthew Merian's Chronological Story of the Bible, Published in 1625, in Germany

No. 115—"Saul's Armor and Head Placed in the Philistine Temple."—The First and Second Chronicles are supplementary to the Books of Samuel and Kings and relate a number of incidents not included in the earlier history. As compared with the parallel histories of Samuel and Kings, Chronicles elaborates on the details of the Temple worship, the arrangement of the courses of the priests, etc. Chronicles contains numerous genealogical tables, and throughout the two books there is a tendency more marked than in earlier books of the Bible to ascribe all the events narrated to the Divine agency. Hence the history of First and Second Chronicles has been called "ecclesiastical" while that of Samuel and Kings has been characterized as "political" by some commentators. The first nine chapters of I Chronicles consists of the genealogies from Adam, tracing the line from Adam to Abraham; the line of Judah to Elishama; the line of David through Zerubbabel; the line of the priests to the Captivity; and the three leading families of Simeon, one of which represented the line of Samuel. In I Chronicles x begins the history of David, including many new facts which are not given in the Books of the Kings. One of the incidents retold is the story of the death of Saul and his sons, previously related in I Samuel xxxi, 1-7, and illustrated in No. 84 of this series by Matthew Merian. "And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa. And when they had stripped him, they took his head, and his armor, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people. And they put his armor in the house of their gods, and fastened his head in the temple of Dagon. And when all Jabeshgilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, they arose, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and fasted seven days." I Chronicles x, 8-12.

No. 117—"David Sees the Angel Standing Between Heaven and Earth."—By comparing Chronicles with Samuel and Kings the reader can see how the later compiler sometimes incorporated the earlier material practically unaltered, sometimes abbreviated it, sometimes expanded it, and occasionally modified it, as when he attributes to Satan instead of to the Lord the instigating of David to number the people. (I Chronicles xxi, 1, and II Samuel xxiv, 1.) After the numbering David repented and God having offered through Gad, David's seer, the choice of three plagues, David chose the pestilence. Seventy thousand of the children of Israel died, according to the account in both II Samuel and I Chronicles. The incident of the angel who stood between heaven and earth is practically the same, the variations in text between Samuel and Chronicles being mainly differences of detail. "And God sent an angel unto Jerusalem to destroy it; and as he was destroying, the Lord beheld, and he repented Him of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed, It is enough, stay now thine hand. And the angel of the Lord stood by the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. And David lifted up his eyes, and saw the angel of the Lord stand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn sword in his hand stretched out over Jerusalem. Then David and the elders of Israel, who were clothed in sackcloth, fell upon their faces." I Chronicles xxi, 15-16. David by Gad's instruction, then purchased Ornan's threshing floor, and having built an altar he made sacrifices to the Lord. And the Lord answered him by fire upon the altar, and the plague was stayed.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

"WHETHER it was who twisted the saying 'figures never lie' into 'liars never figure,'" says Richard L. Frey in an article entitled "Advanced False-Carding," "certainly couldn't have been thinking about those delicate little lies we sometimes make our cards tell at the bridge table."

"I don't mean, of course, the clumsy fabrications of the player who bids and plays with the idea that, no matter what happens, he's fooling two opponents and one partner. Usually only his partner is deceived. Neither do I mean the despicable types of lies that are told by an unethical player's actions: hesitating with a singleton, or with nothing but low cards in a suit; detaching a card from the hand before it is one's turn to play, when whether that card or another will actually be played depends entirely on what the player ahead does. Actions like these are cheating just as flagrant as marking the cards or stacking a deck.

"I refer only to legitimate stratagems devised to mislead the opponents purely by the fall of the cards—entirely ethical plays that make bridge a fascinating battle of wits instead of a game of 'aces, aces, who's got the aces?' And over the fabrication of these deceptions the good 'liar' figures long and deeply."

On today's hand the Declarer, could have fulfilled his contract by the simple method of taking finesses in two suits, but I doubt whether many Declarers would have done so against West's very deceptive defense.

the worst there will be a finesse for the slam.

With a very sound heart combination to open from, the West player chose that suit as his opening lead despite North's bid.

The Declarer saw that if either of the two finesses in the black suits worked, his contract would be fulfilled. He decided to try trump suit first to avoid the possibility of a ruff, no matter how unlikely one seemed. The line of clubs was led from Dummy. East played his four, and South the queen. The West player had planned his defense precariously before the Declarer had led to trick 2. Without a moment's hesitation, he followed to the club queen with the club ten. He knew from the bidding that the Declarer held the club jack as well as the queen and that accordingly he was not sacrificing a trick by holding off with the king.

West realized of course that the Declarer had only one more card of re-entry to Dummy and naturally that only one more finesse could be taken. If South could be led to believe that the club finesse was sure to work and that a second finesse in clubs was necessary rather than a play for a drop, he would be induced to use his heart entry to take this "sure" finesse rather than a pos-

Losap Islands, Loney Grandstands For Sun's Eclipse

WHERE are the Losap Islands? Students of current events and newspaper readers know American and Japanese scientists studied the eclipse of the sun last February from these remote bits of land; but unless they had access to a large scale map of Pacific islands, they looked in vain for the island observatory.

To locate the Losaps draw a line due northward from a point a few miles inland from Brisbane, Australia. At approximately seven degrees north of the equator, the line will nearly bisect the group.

"The Losaps," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, "consist of six fragments of dry land on the rim of a coral atoll which is about five miles in length from north to south, and two to four miles in width. They are Laol, the largest of the group, Losap, Lapur, Pis, Alananub, and Alamwassel. They have a population of about 200 and are within the Japanese Pacific Island Mandate.

"The palm-fringed lagoon of the atoll is a quiet, protected sheet of water. It is clear of navigation dangers for light draft vessels and affords good anchorage. There is a trading station on Losap Island. "Among the nearest neighbors of the Losaps which are sufficiently important to warrant the use of map-makers' ink, are the Truk (Hogulu) Islands, the largest group in the Carolines. They are situated 50 miles northwest of the Losaps.

"The Carolines originally were known as the 'New Philippines.'

sible losing finesse in another suit.

South reasoned exactly as the West player had hoped, and he did not blame him either. He knew that the spade finesse was only an even chance. Although he was aware that West's drop of the club ten might be a false-card, he was by no means sure of it, and if West's club ten was actually a singleton, a second club finesse would be necessary to avoid losing a club trick. South therefore finally decided that he would take what appeared to be a reasonably sure second club finesse, rather than lay down the ace of clubs from his own hand and then if the club king did not drop rely upon the spade finesse. Accordingly he re-entered Dummy with the heart ace and led another club. When East showed out, South had to admit defeat. He was forced eventually to concede a club trick and a spade trick to the adversaries and the contract was down one. Of course, had West not made his brilliant hold-up, South would automatically have fulfilled his contract by taking the spade finesse.

Kidneys Cause Much Trouble Says Doctor

Successful Prescription Helps Remove Acids—Works in 15 Minutes.

Dr. T. J. Hastell, famous English scientist, Doctor of Medicine and Surgeon, says: "You can't feel well if your kidneys do not function right, because your kidneys affect your entire body. Your blood circulates 4 times a minute through 9 million tiny, delicate tubes in your kidneys, which are endangered by drinking, eating, and exposure. Beware of Kidney Dysfunction if you suffer from Night Rising, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Dizziness, Itching Under Eyes, Acidity, or Loss of Pep. Dr. Walter H. George, for many years Health Director of Indianapolis, says: 'In sufficient kidney excretions are the cause of such troubles as Arching Back, Frequent Night Rising, Itching, Stomach, Burning, Painful Joints, Rheumatic Pains, Headaches, and a generally run-down body. I am of the opinion that the prescription of Cystex corrects such functional troubles by flushing poisons from the urinary tract, and in freeing the blood of retained toxins. Cystex does all doctors.' If you suffer from Kidney and Bladder dysfunction, delay endangers your vitality, and you should not lose a single minute in starting to take the doctor's special prescription called Cystex (pronounced 'Sis-tex') which helps kidney functions in a few hours. It starts work in 15 minutes. Gently tones, soothes, and cleanses raw, sore membranes. Brings new energy and vitality in 48 hours. It is helping millions of sufferers and is guaranteed to fix you up and make you feel like new in 8 days, or money back on return of empty package. Oven-Fresh Because of Vacuum Packing Process
Why do so many coffee lovers invariably think of Canova when vacuum packing of coffee is discussed? Because they know that 10 years ago Canova adopted the vacuum pack as the one sure way to preserve the oven-fresh fragrance, flavor and full body of fine coffee.

The vacuum pack that has been proven by the "time-test" to actually safeguard the Canova goodness. No matter when or where you buy it, "It sure is good coffee!" And its standards of selection, blending, roasting and packing have resulted in the award of the Seal of Acceptance of the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association. To Prepare Your Own Flour
Use K C Baking Powder
Baking powder affords a means of preparing many of our most appetizing and nutritious foods. Here are the correct proportions you should use to make your own prepared flour: 2 quarts sifted plain flour (2 lbs.), 3 level tablespoons K C Baking Powder (1 1/2 ounces), 2 level teaspoons salt. Mix together three times. Sift ready for use.

"CLIX" TARTS
(Submitted by Mrs. F. E. Cox, Atlanta, Ga.)
1 cup raisins
1 cup pecans
1 lb. citron
1 cup sugar
1 egg

Juice and grated rind 1 lemon, pinch salt; grind raisins and citron in food chopper; cream egg and sugar, adding all other ingredients. Pastry: 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon CLIX (chopping), 1 tsp. salt, ice water to mix. Roll pastry 5 in. diameter; put tablespoon mixture on pastry. Fold over and bake in oven until brown.

Ballard's Obelisk Nut Bread
(Submitted by Mrs. R. C. Blair, 1548 South Georgia St., S. W. City.)
One cup sugar, 3 cups Ballard's Obelisk Flour, 1 cup Aristocrat Milk, 1 cup nut meats, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon Carey's Iodized Salt, 4 teaspoons K C Baking Powder.

Mix Ballard's Obelisk Flour, sugar, salt, baking powder and nuts thoroughly. Add milk, egg and beat hard. Bake 40 to 50 minutes in Magic Chef oven at 375 degrees.

Broiled Food Is Healthful
... and easy to prepare with the Magic Chef Gas Range. Broiling has too long been neglected. It is not only a healthful form of cooking, but with the modern Magic Chef—the gas range of today—broiling becomes the easiest, quickest, and most economical way of preparing foods.

For special diets, physicians almost invariably recommend broiled food. Fortunately, in the Magic Chef gas range it is possible to broil a whole course, easily and quickly.

As a suggestion, for luncheon or dinner you can prepare a mixed grill of broiled ham, tomato halves, previously boiled sweet potatoes, and pineapple.

Many, many other appetizing courses are just as easy in the Magic Chef broiler. And you can bake at the same time you are broiling, or warm over food in the oven which is heated by the flame in the broiler.

Mothers Everywhere Approve Curtiss Candies
I wish we had space to publish all the many letters we have received from mothers all over the Southeast enthusiastically endorsing Butterfinger, Baby Ruth, and other Curtiss candies, for that bit of sweet they know their children want and need. These mothers know the purity and body-building qualities of these candies and feel that they are the solution to "what are the best sweets for my children."

Years of Leadership
What does it mean when an organization continues year after year to lead its field?

Leadership may be defined as acceptance by those one serves. For many years the Rogers Stores have been satisfying the culinary wants of the South. How sincerely and well this has been accomplished is illustrated by the constantly increasing number of informed women who are finding the merchandise in these food marts of superior quality at economy prices.

There is a spirit of friendship between organization and patron which is built upon good value, courteous and efficient service, unvarying satisfaction.

Shop with the crowds at Rogers!

TABASCO And How It Originated
In 1852 a certain man by the name of Gleason (who had been with General Scott during the capture of Mexico City in 1847), came to New Orleans, and while there gave to E. McIlhenny the seeds of some peppers which grew in the state of Tabasco, Mexico. Mr. McIlhenny planted the seeds and found the quality of the peppers so good that he continued to grow them, for table use, on his plantation at Avery Island.

At the close of the War Between the States, like all southerners, the McIlhenny family had been financially ruined, and returned to their plantation home (from which they had been banished by federal troops), without funds to buy the things that help make food tasty.

Mr. McIlhenny began experimenting by making condiments from the plants that had survived during his absence. Among these were some pepper bushes that had grown from the seed Gleason had given him. With the pulp of these peppers as a base, Mr. McIlhenny made a hot aromatic sauce, which became so popular throughout the neighborhood that its reputation spread over the country until the largest wholesale grocery house in New York induced Mr. McIlhenny to pack the sauce for market. So that in 1868 Tabasco sauce was made available to the public.

Since that time Tabasco, through its high value as a pungent seasoning, has become world-wide in its distribution. If you have not yet discovered the magic of its flavor, by all means get a bottle tomorrow!

"Dear Editor:
"Baby Ruth and Butterfingers with luscious tastiness satisfy the longing for sweets, without cloying. These delicious, exceptionally-flavored tidbits are an important health factor, a nourishing food that pep up one's energy; and the best feature is their absolute purity.

Many candies are questionable, but Curtis Company, standing back of their products with unblemished reputation, makes of Baby Ruth and Butterfinger everything confection should be. Unrivaled in richness, choicest ingredients, and wholesomeness, the cost is nominal, compared with the pleasure and benefits derived. These candy bars "hit the spot" every time—and call for an encore."

Food in Ice Refrigerators Needs No Gas Masks
In your good, modern ice refrigerator the gases, odors and excretions given off by food are swiftly carried to the surface of the ice, dissolved in the film of water surrounding the ice and carried away out of danger through the drain pipe—leaving the air fresh, pure and sweet. Foods in your ice refrigerator need no gas masks.

In an air-tight refrigerator (having no drain or outlet) the gases, odors and excretions given off by food cannot escape, and therefore are deposited indiscriminately upon all the food and in the flavor of one food into another. These odors and gases are frozen into the ice made at home.

Plenty of Fresh Ice costs less—and is Trouble Free!

Lengthen Your Life-Line
Would you lengthen your life-line? Then serve Comet Rice every day—in some of the most tempting guises this food can be prepared. No better way to economize than by using left-overs and Comet Rice to make a delightful dish... and a healthful one.

Daufuski Oyster Omelet
Separate the whites from yolks of 4 large eggs. Beat yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add 1-2 tsp. salt, a few drops Tabasco and 1/2 cup hot water while beating constantly. Then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs, mix well but quickly. Turn mixture into a well-greased hot iron frying pan, spread evenly and cook until well puffed on top of Magic Chef gas range; then place in oven and finish cooking. Omelet is cooked when firm to touch. Fold once, turn, hot plate, and serve on a platter. Garnish with a sprig of parsley.

Dixie Deb Face Powder Adds the Finishing Touch
Southern women have discovered that Dixie Deb Face Powder adds the finishing touch to the careful toilet of the discriminating woman. Its velvet-smooth texture, delightful fragrance, and unbelievably low price contribute to Dixie Deb's popularity. Give Dixie Deb cosmetics a trial... you'll find they add to your charm.

DUKE'S MAYONNAISE As Good as the Best Home-Made.
Some people still make mayonnaise at home because they do not know that Duke's is the one mayonnaise that is as good as the best home-made. If you will try Duke's just once, you will realize that it is a real regular.

Other people think that all "bought-mayonnaise" is pretty much the same, and buy poorer grades because of low price. After you once try Duke's, you will realize that it is a Delicacy, and out of the class of ordinary mayonnaise.

Guests and family marvel at the best you can find, and here we want to make a good suggestion better by recommending CAREY'S IODIZED SALT—because in addition to being pure, uniform in flavor and free running, Carey's Iodized Salt in itself is an easy medium for administering the health-giving, disease-preventing iodine.

Date and Nut Perkweat Gems
(Submitted by Mrs. R. M. Dixon, Mayson Avenue, Atlanta.)
1 cup Perkweat
1 cup Ballard's Obelisk Flour

Castleberry's Hash Timbales
(Submitted by Mrs. M. R. McGinty, 1512 Iverson St., City.)
3/4 cup dry Merita bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted CLIX Shortening
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons finely minced green pepper
1/4 teaspoon salt
Few drops Tabasco

Mix the crumbs with melted CLIX and add the onion, green pepper, salt and Tabasco. Rub large size muffin pans with CLIX and sprinkle the bottom and sides thickly with the crumbs. Fill the pans with Castleberry's Hash; brush the tops with melted CLIX and bake in a hot Magic Chef oven until brown. Remove from the pans and serve with or without tomato sauce.

Simplified Hospitality
On these delightful autumn days we must entertain, of course, and repasts that are easily prepared and daintily served will leave guests and hosts in a happy frame of mind. The next time you serve, don't spend hours planning the menu and executing it. Johnston's Peanut Butter in dainty sandwiches, salads, etc., requires no anxious preparation.

"BARBECUED" CHICKEN A LA TABASCO.
Cut up a small hen; boil in salted water until tender; place in shallow baking pan. Make sauce of:
1/4 lb. butter
1/2 cup tomato catsup
1/4 cup Worcestershire Sauce
1/2 tsp. Tabasco Sauce
Juice of one lemon
Four sauce over chicken. Bake about 10 minutes in moderate Magic Chef Oven.

"SAUER'S TOMATO JELLY AND CELERY SALAD.
1 quart canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Sauer's Onion Extract
1/2 teaspoon Sauer's Celery Extract
1/2 teaspoon Celery Extract
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
Small bayleaf
3 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups diced celery
1/2 cup sliced olives

Put the tomatoes and seasonings in a saucepan and simmer for twenty minutes. Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes, then add the hot tomato mixture and stir until dissolved. Strain into a cold bowl and set aside to cool. When beginning to harden, add the celery and olives and pour into six individual molds. Chill, turn out on lettuce or watercress and serve with Duke's Mayonnaise. Shredded raw cabbage may be used instead of celery.

"MERITA FAIRY FLUFF.
3 eggs beaten separately
4 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of lemon
2 1/2 tablespoons hot water
Beat egg yolks, add sugar and grated rind and juice of lemon. Blend well. Add hot water and cook over a slow fire until creamy. Cool slightly and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Fill six short-cupped tart shells in Ice Refrigerator. Serve with sliced Merita Pound Cake, Lemon-Chess Cake, or your favorite variety.

Divide in half California cherries and stuff one-half of each with peach meats and the other half with cream cheese. Pile on crisp lettuce leaves; top with sliced mayonnaise; chill thoroughly in your Ice Refrigerator. Surround with potato chips when ready to serve.

"CASTLEBERRY'S HASH SOUFFLE.
Beat the yolks of 2 eggs, add large can Castleberry's Hash, 1/2 cup Aristocrat Milk, 1-1/2 cups dry Merita Bread crumbs, a few drops Tabasco and minced parsley; fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Pour into greased baking dish and bake 20 to 25 minutes in moderate Magic Chef Oven.

"FORK CHOPS STUFFED WITH HINES BRUNSWICK STEW.
To a large can of Hines Brunswick Stew add 1 tbsp. chopped parsley and a few drops Sauer's celery extract, and 1 tsp. minced onion, that has been cooked a few minutes in 1 tbsp. CLIX. Add 1 cup fine dry Merita bread crumbs, 1/4 tsp. Carey's Iodized Salt, 10 drops Tabasco sauce.

Select six rib pork chops, 1 1/2 inches thick. Cut a pocket in each chop. Sprinkle the chops with salt and pepper and rub lightly with Ballard's Obelisk Flour. Sear the chops on both sides in Magic Chef broiler. Then fill each chop with Hines Brunswick Stew stuffing and skewer the edges together with toothpicks. Bake in moderate Magic Chef oven at 350 to 375 degrees F. for about 15 minutes, or until tender. Remove toothpicks; garnish with parsley and serve.

K C HOT CROSS BUNS.
3 cups Ballard's Obelisk Flour
1 cup Perkweat
1 level tsp. K C Baking Powder
1-1/4 cup sugar
1-1/2 cup Carey's Iodized Salt
1-1/2 cup CLIX Shortening
1-1/2 cup dried currants
Yolk of 1 egg
About 1 1/2 cups Aristocrat Milk
White of egg, sugar, ground cinnamon.

Sift together, three times, the flour, K C Baking Powder, salt and sugar; work the CLIX into the flour mixture and add the currants. Beat the yolk of egg, add the milk and use to make a soft dough; knead with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Roll the top of each round (set in a baking pan) with white of egg. With a pair of scissors snip out a cross in the top of each round and fill the cut place with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Bake in Magic Chef oven about 25 minutes at 375 to 400 F.

Thousands of letters are received each month by The Constitution, commenting on features which have been found highly satisfactory to CONSTITUTION readers. Here's what one subscriber writes concerning the work of the man whose daily prayer is "God Give Me Wisdom to See the Truth, However Contrary to My Established Beliefs": "I'm a regular reader of your paper and it leaves nothing to be desired. But my pet weakness is Robert Quillen's daily articles, of which I'm making a scrapbook. This feature alone is worth the price of the paper. More power to Mr. Quillen and The Constitution."

THE UNDERGROUND BATTLE

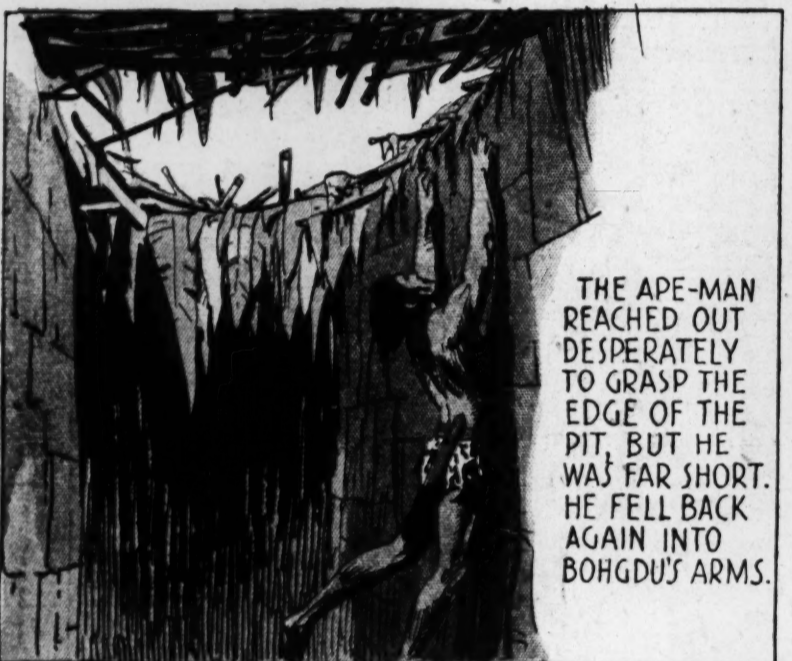

WHEN THEY FELL INTO THE DEEP NARROW PIT, BOHGDUD ROARED ANGRILY, BEWILDEREDLY; BUT TARZAN AT ONCE SOUGHT A PLAN OF ESCAPE.

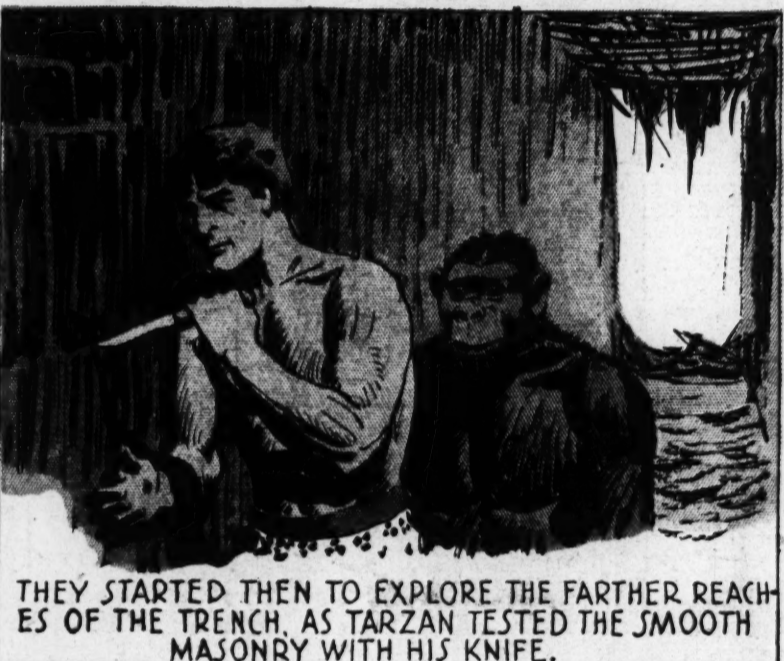

AT HIS MASTER'S COMMAND, BOHGDUD CROUCHED, HIS GREAT PAWS CUPPED TOGETHER BEFORE HIM.

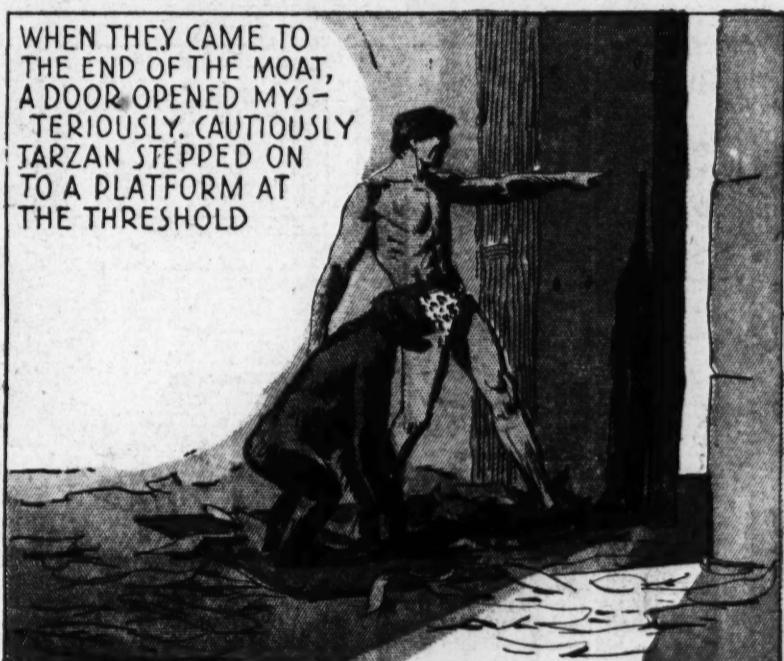

TARZAN RAN FORWARD, STEPPED INTO THE APE'S PAWS, AND BOHGDUD FLUNG HIM STRONGLY UPWARD.

THE APE-MAN REACHED OUT DESPERATELY TO GRASP THE EDGE OF THE PIT, BUT HE WAS FAR SHORT. HE FELL BACK AGAIN INTO BOHGDUD'S ARMS.

THEY STARTED THEN TO EXPLORE THE FARTHER REACHES OF THE TRENCH, AS TARZAN TESTED THE SMOOTH MASONRY WITH HIS KNIFE.

WHEN THEY CAME TO THE END OF THE MOAT, A DOOR OPENED MYSTERIOUSLY. CAUTIOUSLY TARZAN STEPPED ON TO A PLATFORM AT THE THRESHOLD.

SUDDENLY THE DOOR FLEW OPEN, THE PLATFORM TILTED VIOLENTLY, AND TARZAN AND BOHGDUD WERE CATAPULTED INTO A CAGE-LIKE CHAMBER.

AS IF BY MAGIC, WAIORI WARRIORS RUSHED UPON THEM. BUT WHEN THEY SAW THE APE, THEY WERE STRICKEN WITH FEAR OF THE STRANGE BEAST.

TARZAN SEIZED THE OPPORTUNITY TO ATTACK, AND BOHGDUD JOINED HIM IN THE FIERCE CHARGE.

THE SAVAGES RUSHED TO THE DOOR OF THE CAGE, BUT IN THE CONFUSION THEY COULD NOT OPEN IT. THEN SOME OF THEM TURNED TO FIGHT.

TARZAN'S KEEN KNIFE ACCOUNTED FOR TWO OF THEM, AND BOHGDUD'S STRONG HANDS CLOSED ABOUT THE THROAT OF ANOTHER.

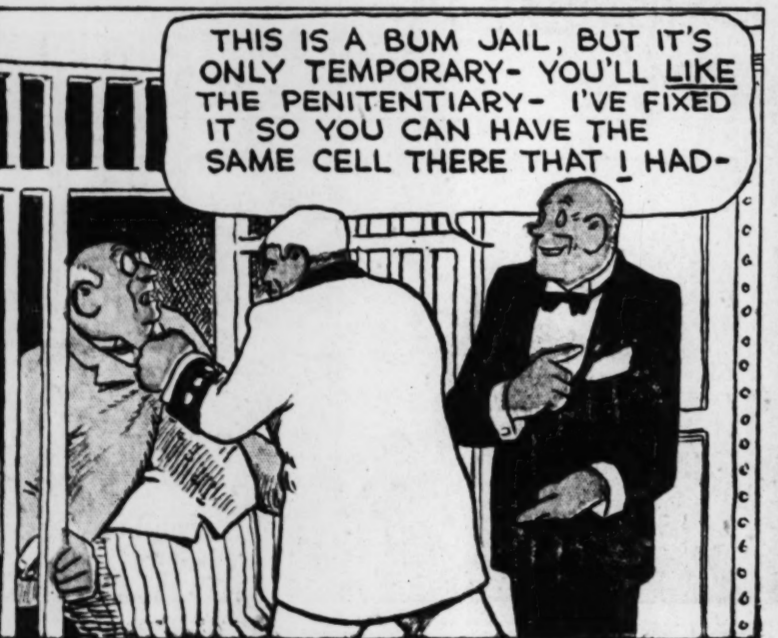

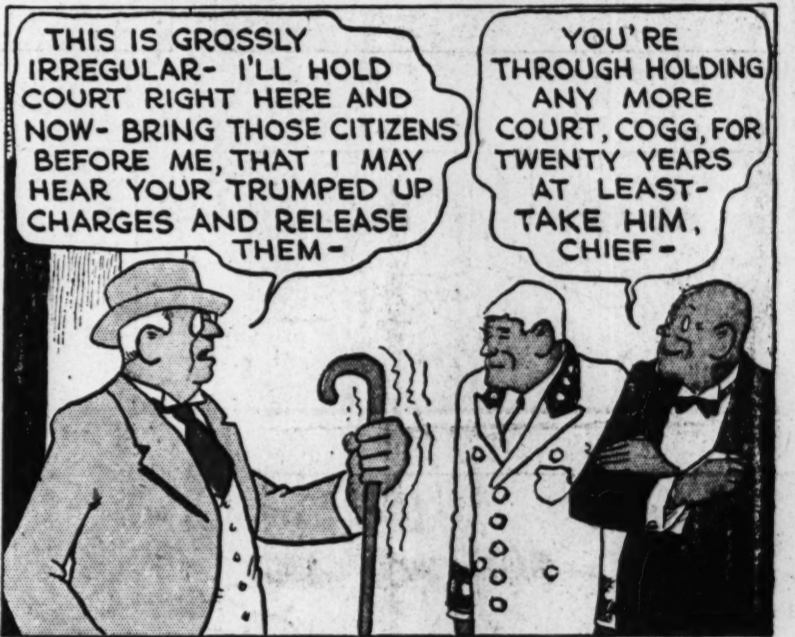

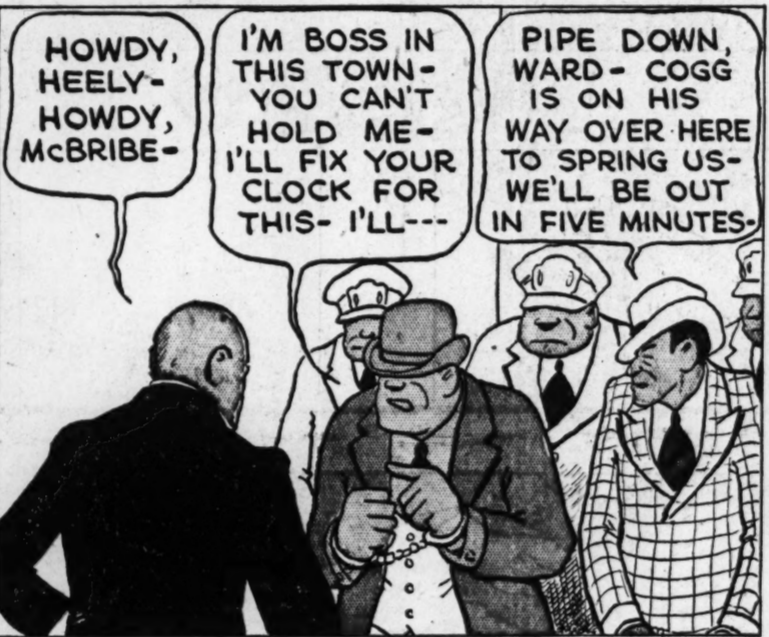

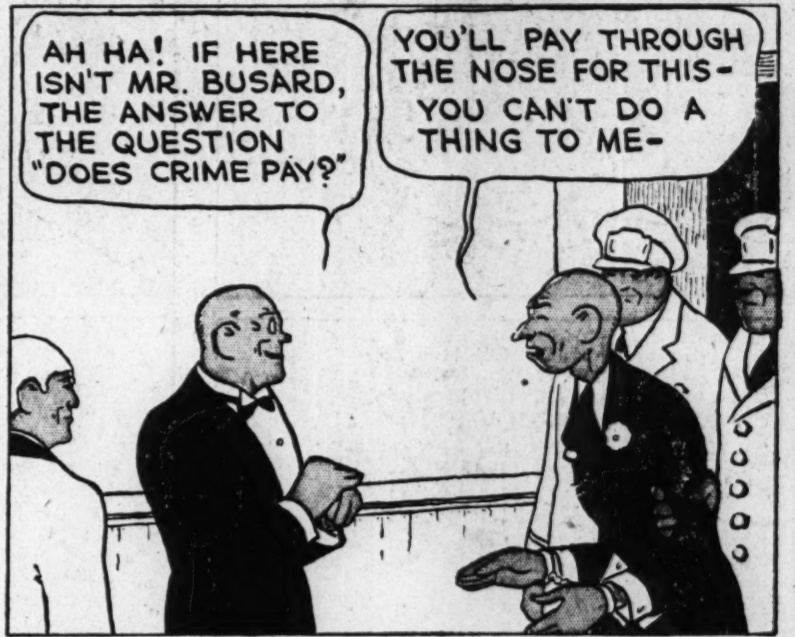

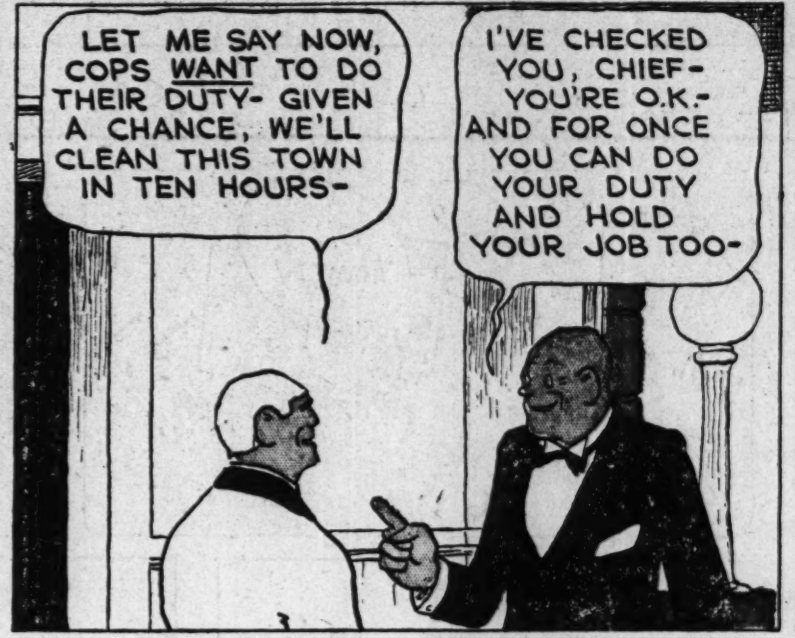

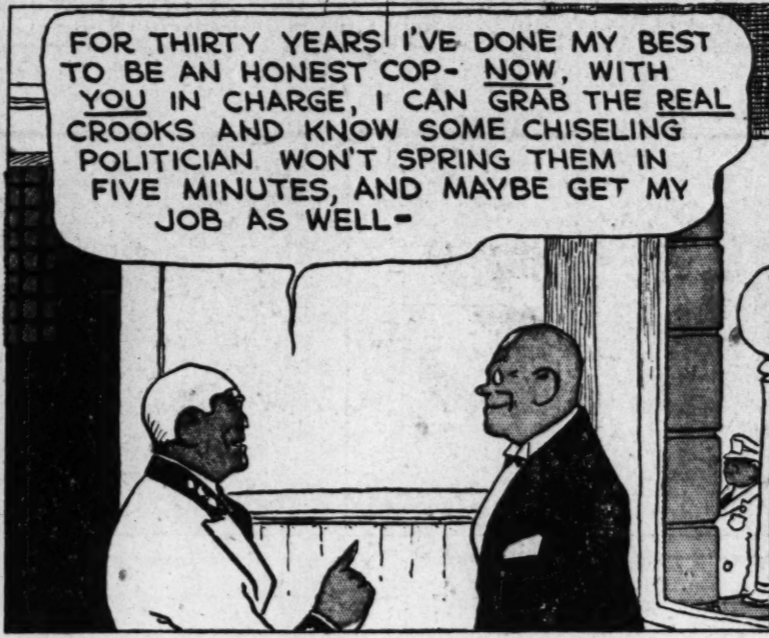

FINALLY ONE OF THE WARRIORS TRIPPED TARZAN. HE FELL, AND A SPEARMAN RUSHED UPON HIM FROM BEHIND!

Boys and Girls who look anxiously for printed topics and pictures which will help in their schoolwork will find many such aids in UNCLE RAY'S CORNER, published every day in The Constitution. Pupils studying geography will receive help from the travel stories. History students will find that people of olden times can be described so well as to seem to live again. Those taking general science will obtain a clear understanding about many problems which puzzle. Meet Uncle Ray every day on the comic page.

STARTLING COMPARISON OF THE HEIGHT OF THE TALLEST BUILDING IN THE WORLD WITH MT. VICTORIA, CLIMBED IN RECORD TIME BY MISS ENGELHARD

An ADVERTISEMENT of R.J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO. Copyright, 1934, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company

LOOK! WHAT A MOUNTAIN! DID YOU EVER CLIMB ONE THAT BIG, GEORGIA?

YES, AND A GOOD MANY BIGGER ONES, TOO!

TELL US SOME OF YOUR EXPERIENCES

I STARTED FROM THE LODGE WITH MY GUIDE BEFORE DAYBREAK TO GET AN EARLY START—

THIS IS A HARD CLIMB YOU ARE MAKING TODAY, MISS ENGELHARD

LOOK OUT FOR HIDDEN CREVASSES

I'LL BE GLAD WHEN WE GET OVER THIS GLACIER

HOLD ON WITH YOUR AXE!

THUMP!

THANK GOODNESS FOR THIS LEDGE

HERE'S WHERE WE REST AND GET BACK OUR "PEP" WITH A CAMEL

FINE! I NEED A "LIFT" MYSELF

DIDN'T THAT TASTE GOOD! I FEEL AS FRESH AS WHEN WE STARTED!

ME TOO! NOW FOR THE DASH TO THE TOP!

WHAT A THRILL TO BE AT THE VERY TOP!

YOU MADE IT IN RECORD TIME, TOO

THEN IT'S TRUE—WHAT WE'VE HEARD ABOUT CAMELS HAVING AN "ENERGIZING EFFECT"?

IT'S CERTAINLY TRUE IN MY CASE.

I UNDERSTAND, TOO, IT'S BEEN CONFIRMED BY SCIENTIFIC TESTS.

GEORGIA ENGELHARD

A CAMEL PICKS ME UP IN A FEW MINUTES AND GIVES ME THE ENERGY TO PUSH ON—WHEN PEOPLE TELL ME OF BEING TIRED OUT OR LACKING "PEP" I DON'T KNOW OF BETTER ADVICE TO GIVE THAN YOU'LL FIND IN THE SUGGESTION—"GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!"

"Get a LIFT with a Camel!"
